Request Form Will Help Farmers To Get Fuel Refund

Farm Bureau has developed a request form that will help farmers obtain refunds from the department of energy for oil overcharges.

The overcharges occurred when crude oil was under government price controls between Aug. 19, 1973, and Jan. 27, 1981. Everyone who purchased products refined from that oil is eligible for a refund of at least $80 per 100,000 gallons of oil-based fuels and greases. Refunds could reach $150 per 100,000 depending on the outcome of a pending settlement between the oil companies and DOE.

Farm Bureau worked with the DOE to maximize refunds to farmers and ranchers who were overcharged. The refund form was developed specifically for farmers. It may be completed by them and mailed directly to the DOE.

Merlyn Lokensgard, president of the Minnesota farm bureau federation, said forms will be available both from local county farm bureaus and from te Minnesota farm bureau office.

Using the form, a farmer will be able to total all of his gasoline, diesel, kerosene, motor oil, heating fuel oil, propane and grease purchases for each of the years covered by the overcharge settlement. Refunds are available for the total gallons of petroleum products purchased in the period, whether for on or off-farm uses.

Farmers will have to describe how they arrived at each of the yearly figures. They can use off-road state fuel tax exemption records, sales receipts, local fuel supplier records or credit card purchase slips. Farmers won't have to provide these records with the refund form, but should be prepared to substantiate fuel use if asked by the DOE.

"Farmers who don't have the paperwork to back up their claims may estimate by figuring their gallons per acre or total dollar amounts," said Lokensgard.

The energy department said it will randomly spot check applications for documentation of purchases. No refund under $15 will be issued since it costs that much to process the paperwork. If a refund is approved, it will take at least 60 days before a check is mailed.

The deadline for applications to the DOE is December 31, 1987.

Refunds from the $1.5 billion fund apply to purchases from independent sources, not cooperatives. Farm co-ops have received $45.5 million that will benefit farmer-members through the patronage system.

"This is a great opportunity to put some dollars back in farmers' pockets," Lokensgard said. "This refund will represent about 20 per cent of the fund created by the overcharge. The other 80 per cent, at least $1.2 billion, will be split among the state and federal governments."

Sunny Weather Is Helpful But It Dries Out Topsoil

Following two weeks of cloudy skies and scattered showers, this week's sunny, warm weather was ideal for growing Minnesota's crops, according to the Minnesota Agricultural Statistics Service.

Across the state, crops are running well ahead of normal in development and stage of maturity. Spring wheat is 64 per cent jointing, compared with 7 per cent last year and the 18 per cent 5-year average. Five per cent of the spring wheat is heading, whereas none was heading last year or for the 5-year average.

The spring wheat crop condition is reported as being three per cent poor, 29 per cent fair, 62 per cent good, and six per cent excellent. Oats is 72 per cent, and 17 per cent of the oat acreage is in the heading stage, compared with the one per cent average and one per cent on this same date last year. Barley is 53 per cent jointing, versus five per cent last year and the 16 per cent average. This week, two per cent of the barley is 53 per cent jointing, versus five per cent last year and the 16 per cent average. This week, two per cent of the barley crop is heading whereas none had reached the heading stage last year or for the five-year average.

Field corn is in very good condition, having been rated four per cent poor, 41 per cent fair, 46 per cent good, and nine per cent excellent. Forty-seven per cent of the crop has been cultivated, compared with 18 per cent last year and the 17 per cent average. Soybeans are 88 per cent emerged, versus 51 per cent last year and 49 per cent on average. Seventeen per cent of the beans have been cultivated, whereas last year only one per cent had been cultivated and on average only four per cent have been cultivated by this date. The soybean crop condition is reported as two per cent poor, 45 per cent fair, 51 per cent good, and two per cent excellent.

Virtually all major crop acreages have been planted. Sunflowers are 99 per cent planted, compared with 82 per cent last year and the 83 per cent average. Flax acreage is 99 per cent planted, versus 76 per cent in 1986 and the average of 79 per cent. Potato planting is 98 per cent complete, compared with 93 per cent last year and 92 per cent on average. Dry edible beans are 99 per cent planted, compared with 87 per cent and 89 per cent respecitively, for last year and the five-year average. Sweet corn for processing is at the 88 per cent planted level, versus the 76 per cent average and 81 per cent one year ago.

Haying season is in full swing. Thirty-six per cent of Minnesota's alfalafa acreage has been cut for first crop hay, compared with 33 per cent last year and 22 per cent on average. Last week, only five per cent of the crop had been cut.

However, the same sunny weather that is helping Minnesota's crops to progress well ahead of normal is also drying out the topsoil at a very fast rate. Throughout the state, rainfall was very light during the week and the only areas receiving significant levels were around Winona, St. Cloud., International Falls, and Grand Rapids. The central, east central, and south central districts have reported extremely dry conditions and very short topsoil moisture levels. Several reporters from the southwest corner of the

Agassiz Swedish Heritage Society Plans Celebration

Agassiz Swedish heritage society will celebrate the Swedish tradition of "Midsommar," Mid-summer on June 19.

The celebration will be at Roseau, beginning with a tour of the Roseau county museum at 6:15 p.m. Many artifacts of Swedish origin are part of the museum's permanent collection.

Following the tour will be a program of Swedish music beginning at 7:45 p.m. at the Roseau county library and museum meeting room. The musicians will be Lyndon Johnson, of Hallock, and his sister, Lynnae Johnson, of Fargo, ND. They will be singing traditional Swedish songs in both Swedish and English while accompanying themselves on mandolin and guitar. They will also give background and tell folktales that relate to the songs they perform. They will give information about the folk costumes that they will be wearing.

Lyndon has traveled extensively in Europe and has spent one year in Sweden attending Uppsala University, studying agronomy. He sang in the Uppsala Cathedral's famous boys' and men's choir which toured central Europe the year he was a member of the group. In the United States, Lyndon has sung in the concert choir at Concordia College, Moorhead, and currently is a member of the Master Chorale of the greater Grand Forks area.

Lynnae has also traveled a great deal in Europe. She spent one and one-half years in Sweden, first working on a farm and then going to folk college. She has been the editor of the Swedish Society of Fargo-Moorhead's newsletter for three years, and directs the society's choir.

Lyndon and Lynnae have performed their Swedish music at the North Dakota capitol grounds for an ethnic festival, at Winnipeg's folklore festival called "Folklorama" for three years, among other engagements.

Refreshments will be served following the program. The public is invited to attend the Swedish Society's celebration of Midsummer.

Midsummer is the occasion of much festivity in Sweden. This is when the summer days are longest; in the north it is the time of the Midnight Sun. Taken literally, "Midsummer" is something of a misnomer since, given Sweden's northerly climate, summer is only just beginning. Consequently, in many respects Midsummer celebrations in Sweden resemble May Day festivities in Europe.

On the morning of Midsummer Eve Swedes decorate their homes, cars, churches, dancing pavilions and auditoria with garlands of flowers and leafy branches. Then, in the afternoon, they gather around the maypole. Practically every town and village, however small, has a maypole, a tall cross clad with leaves and flowers. The pole is raised in the midafternoon in the center of the village square or playground. Once the pole is raised, the dance begins. First in a ring around the pole, then, later in the evening, a dance in, say, a barn or on an outdoor pavilion.

School Districts Have Option Of Open Enrollment

School districts choosing to take part in the voluntary open enrollment plan of the 1987 Legislature must pass a formal school board resolution and notify the state before July 1 if they wish to take part during the 1987-88 school year.

Commissioner of Education Ruth E. Randall has appointed a Minnesota department of education team to help school district officials determine whether they will allow students and parents to choose the district in which they will be enrolled this fall.

"Districts which choose to participate in the program must agree to allow their resident pupils to enroll in other participating districts," Randall said. "They must accept nonresident pupils from other participating districts and follow the procedures in the new law.

"Interested citizens, parents, and students should contact their local board of education to see whether and when each board will hold a meeting to discuss the voluntary open enrollment program.

"The legislation has the potential of significantly expanding the course offerings and instructional methods available to students by allowing them to choose the programs and schools they will attend," Randall said.

Information on the new legislation and program was mailed today by the education department to all Minnesota school districts.

Districts which notify Commissioner Randall by July 1 that they will take part can receive technical assistance from the education department. Students and parents who wish to participate must submit applications to their home districts by August 1 and a response must be given to each student by August 10.

Ken Zastrow, manager of school district support services for the education department, chairs the department team which will assist school district officials and board members who are discussing involvement in the program. Call him at 612-296-3384 and he or another member of the team will answer questions, provide further information and help with presentations to communities or boards of education.

State Arts Board Receives Boost In Appropriation

After one of the toughest, time-consuming sessions in recent years, the legislature reaffirmed its support for the arts with a total biennial increase of $550,000 for the Minnesota state arts board.

As a result of state budget realities and political issues, the governor's $1 million recommended increase for the arts board was adjusted by the subcommittees of both the House and Senate, with the final decision being made in conference committee.

Executive Director Sam W. Grabarski commented, "We're pleased, however, disheartened by the fact that we didn't get a larger increase, because we are inhibited in supporting the arts in a more significant way. We're very grateful to Minnesota Citizens for the Arts and our constituents for their support of our legislative efforts."

BUSINESS and Professional Women Organization, Thief River Falls chapter, has elected and installed new officers for the coming year. # June 15-19 Chosen As Dairy Goat Awareness Week

June is Dairy month. In the United States, this means dairy cow month since virtually all dairy products come from this one species. Yet, worldwide, more people consume goat dairy products than dairy products from other animal species.

The third week in June has been designated as dairy goat awareness week. In the United States, approximately one million dairy goats produce milk for the growing dairy goat industry. Once goat milk was used only for medicinal purposes or cow milk intolerances and the taste of the product was considered in the same vein. Today delicious high quality goat milk tastes and smells comparable to high quality cow milk and goat dairy products are enjoyed by many people.

Cheve and other goat milk cheeses are served in many fine restaurants in Minnesota and across the nation and are available in many fine cheese shops. Once, these gourmet old world cheeses could only be imported, now, growing domestic sources are available. In fact, their growing recognition and acceptance has prompted the organization, by the American cheese society, of contests for speciality cheeses made from goat or cow milk.

So why do people enjoy dairy goat products? Because goat milk is the natural alternative good for the cow milk intolerant and the gourmet. Goat milk is nutritionally comparable to cow milk with all the goodness of a natural dairy product.

AIDS Education Campaign Uses Minnesota Media

"Anyone can get AIDS. Everyone can prevent it." That's the theme of a new public service advertising campaign — being introduced statewide in Minnesota — aimed at preventing the further spread of the AIDS virus and combatting misinformation about the disease.

The campaign was developed for the Minnesota AIDS media consortium, made up of several government agencies and private organizations that deal with AIDS related issues in Minnesota.

The new ads are designed to provide information about how the AIDS virus is spread and steps that an individual can take to avoid becoming infected, according to consortium chair Hugh Strawn.

The ads encourage use of the AIDSLine telephone information service, operated by the Minnesota AIDS Project. The AIDSLine numbers are 870-0700 in the Twin City area and 1-800-248-AIDS (toll free) in other parts of the state.

American Legion's 9th Dist. Band At National Convention

Ninth District American Legion band will attend the National American Legion Convention in San Antonio, TX, this coming August.

Mrs. Evelyn Starr, Cambridge, MN, National auxiliary president, has asked the band to take part in the opening of the national convention for the American Legion auxiliary on August 24th.

The band will kick off the convention by playing a short concert and then furnish the accompaniment for a massed chorus. Later during the opening festivities, the band and its two vocal soloists, Paul Larson and Richard Ramsay, will be featured in "God Bless America." On August 23, the band will march with the Minnesota delegation during the National American Legion convention parade.

The Ninth District American Legion band is in its 58th year of continuous operation. William Pond, member of the East Grand Forks post, is the present director. The players come from 20 separate towns located between Warroad and Fergus Falls. They cover 2,200 miles when attending a practice preparing for their performances. These include the district convention at Barnesville and the state convention at Duluth as well as the national convention in San Antonio.

The Legionnaires of the Ninth district support the band along with financial help of the American Legion auxiliaries in the District. Herschel H. Lysaker, business manager, has asked the Legion posts and auxiliary units in the district for extra donations to help finance the trip to the National convention in San Antonio. Response has been enthusiastic.

HIS DAY

Come Sunday, the world will pay homage to a very special fellow. He is the husband—the father—the breadwinner and the sturdy foundation of our community. We pause to do him honor. He may be gruff, and stern, and tanned of face, but he is Dad. Just got an x-ray of his heart if you really want to see something rare.

What strange, but wonderful people those fathers are. They are the world's easiest victims of love's attack. Just pour on a little attention, seasoned with about two parts of tenderness and give in very small doses. . . since he could never stand a big dose. Then just sit back and watch his big heart warm up. It will respond in true father fashion.

This Father's Day, won't you take him to God's House for an hour of worship?

OUR SAVIOUR'S LUTHERAN CHURCH
401 St. Paul Avenue South
Thief River Falls, Minnesota
(218) 681-4643

We believe the Bible is the inspired, infallible, and inerrant Word of God, as historically confessed by The Lutheran Church.

We confess Jesus Christ as the only way to eternal life; therefore, we reject all other doctrines which promote other means of salvation.

We maintain that worship services should be joyfully centered on the preaching of the Word, with prayer and praise rising from a congregation committed to the Lord and to one another in true Christian love.

We believe it is the privilege and responsibility of the local congregation to strengthen individual lives and families for victorious Christian living.

We believe all Christians should be equipped by the local congregation to serve those in need and to win the lost for Christ.

We acknowledge that true Christian unity is based on joyful obedience to the Word of God. We are not connected with the National/World Council of Churches.

Separation Of Church And State?

Following historical review was written by John Eidsmoe, an attorney and former professor of Constitutional law and legal history. He is also an ordained minister. This historical review was written for the U.S. Business and Industrial Council, for the New Federalist Papers published by Public Research, Syndicated. The 200-year prospective makes for interesting reading:

Despite pious protestations about separation of church and state, mixing religion and politics is as American as apple pie. Alexis de Tocqueville, the French jurist who traveled the United States, wrote in "Democracy in America," "Religion in America takes no direct part in the government of society, but it must be regarded as the first of their political institutions; for if it does not impart a taste for freedom, it facilitates the use of it . . . The Americans combine the notions of Christianity and of liberty so intimately in their minds that it is impossible to make them conceive the one without the other."

(The Framers of the Declaration of Independence made frequent references to God. They spoke of the "Laws of Nature and of Nature's God"; they declared that "all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights." They appealed to "the Supreme Judge of the world" and expressed their "firm reliance on the protection of Divine Providence.")

The Constitution does not expressly mention God, except for the reference to the "Year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred and eighty seven." But the Framers of the Constitution were men of strong faith, mostly Christian faith. Their Judeo-Christian beliefs shaped their views of law and government, and these views found their way into the Constitution.

(Emilio Castelar, President of the Republic of Spain in the 1870's noted that the republican movement is based on "a book of a primitive society: the Bible." About two-thirds of the colonial population came from a Calvinist background, and the Founding Fathers were so influenced by that background that the German historian Ranke claimed that "John Calvin was the virtual founder of America." George Bancroft, perhaps the leading American historian of the 1800s, meanwhile, called Calvin the "father of America," and added: "He who will not honor the memory and respect the influence of Calvin knows but little of the origin of American liberty.)

Congress recognized the influence of the Bible upon our Founding Fathers when, in 1982, it passed a resolution declaring 1983 the "Year of the Bible." Part of that resolution declared that "Whereas Biblical teachings inspred concepts of civil government that are contained in our Declaration of Independence and the Constitution of the United States . . ."

One such concept is the equality of man. Scripture makes clear that "God is no respector of persons" (Acts 10:34); the Old Testament law strictly commanded the judges not to show partiality to either rich or poor. Men are not equal in possessions or ability, but all are equal before God and before the law. This equality is clearly and elegantly stated in the Declaration and implied in the Constitution, though the struggle to implement this equality is still not fully realized.

Another concept is God-given natural rights. One need not be a Jew or a Christian to believe in human rights; but the concept of human rights has its origin in the Judeo-Christian tradition. The basis of human rights is the convition that man is created in the image of God, that this gives man dignity, and that certain human rights attach to that dignity. When Jefferson wrote that all men are "endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights," he used language that Christians and Deists could share. But what is the source of human rights without a creator God? If man is merely the result of a naturalistic evolutionary process, on what basis can we say that he has rights? Do apes have rights? Where do rights come from, if not from God? Jefferson put it well: "God who gave us life, gave us liberty at the same time. . . . Can the liberties of a nation be secure when we have removed their only sure basis, a conviction in the minds of the people that those liberties are the gift of God?"

A third principle is government by the "consent of the governed." The belief that the people form a government, rather than having a government forced upon them, is found in the Preamble of the Constitution: "We the People of the United States, in Order to form a more perfect Union . . ." They were simply following the Puritan concept of covenant government. (Certainly some of the Framers read Locke's writings about the social contract; but in Locke's two treatises on civil government he quoted the Bible more than 100 times, and he took his view of social contract largely from the Puritan thinkers Richard Hooker and Samuel Rutherford. As Locke and the Framers clearly recognized, social contract meant that government had only such limited, delegated powers as the people give to the government in the Constitution.)

The problem still remained of how to implement these concepts of equality, human rights, and government by consent in a world of sinful men. Unlike the French freethinkers, our Framers held no illusions that men are good or perfectible, They held the Biblical view of man as a sinner, and they knew that any successful government must be based on a realistic view of the nature of man. (As Madison asked in Federalist Paper No. 51, "But what is government itself but the greatest of all reflections on human nature? If men were angels, no government would be necessary. In framing a government which is to be administered by men over men, the great difficulty lies in this: You must first enable the government to control the governed; and in the next place, oblige it to control itself.")

The Framers knew that men cannot live in a state of anarchy; government that is too weak results in chaos. They also knew that, as Lord Acton said, "Absolute power corrupts absolutely." Just as fallen people cannot be trusted with unlimited freedom, so fallen rulers cannot be trusted with unlimited power. The solution was to limit government power—by setting forth carefully delineated powers in the Constitution and reserving others to the states; by separating powers between executive, legislative and judicial branches; and checks and balances between the various branches and levels of government.

The Framers further knew something that we have forgotten—that lasting freedom requires self-dicipline and self-restraint. The Framers saw religion, chiefly the Christian religion, as that source of self-dicipline which imparts a sense of virtue to man and thereby enables him to live in a free society.

Can our system of government survive in a society that has rejected the Judeo-Christian tradition and the principles it represents? In this Bicentennial Year of the Constitution, we would do well to ponder the words of John Adams: "Our Constitution was made only for a moral and religious people. It is wholly inadequate for the government of any other."

Borrowed Nonsense:

Major difference between the faults of teenagers and those of adults is that teenagers usually outgrow theirs.

Nothing is quite so annoying as to have someone go right on talking while you are interrupting.

"What would you do," the health class teacher asked the student, "if you thought you had contracted rabies?"

"Bite the principal," was the immediate reply.

Spectator: "Say, coach, how is that cross-eyed javelin thrower doing in competition?"

Coach: "He hasn't come close to winning, but our sprinters have sure improved their starts!"

An Old-Fashioned Festive Fourth

— The city of Gatzke is planning a good, old-fashioned Fourth of July celebration this year. There will be races, games, speeches, airplane rides and dances. The Roseau school band will give a concert and Roseau, Grygla and Gatzke will compete in ball games over the two-day celebration.

Understatement

— A gentleman from Viking, age 62, stumbled and fell down the basement stairs of a local beer parlor Friday evening, fracturing his nose. "He was taken to a local hospital for treatment," said the Times, running the story under the innocuous heading, "Viking Man Injured In Fall Down Stairs."

County Fair's A-Comin'!

— The Warren County Fair was coming to town for three big days in July. There would be "Girls — Dancing — Georgeous Costumes — Comedians — New Program Every Night; Baker and Evers, the Famous Clown Act With 'Snootie,' the Comedy Mule; Spirolo, the European Marvel; Lorraine Wallace and Her Lions; Acrobats, the Three LaMoures; and the Avalon Troupe, Wire and Teeter Board Act." Also, 4-H Club Style Queen Revue with 40 Marshall county 4-H girls participating, a public wedding first night in which a popular Marshall county couple would be married in the Lion's Cage, 12 midway rides, the Warren high school band, Wigwam dancing every night and horse racing every afternoon.

On A More Somber Note

Economic Outlook For Minnesota Shows Brisk Growth

According to a district economic condition outlook of Minnesota provided by the Federal Reserve Bank of Minneapolis, two quarters of rapid employment growth in Minnesota and a strong national forecast lead the Minnesota model to predict brisk growth in the state's nonfarm economy in 1987-88.

Despite recent fast employment growth, the state's nonfarm earned income and unemployment have responded only modestly.

Minnesota's nonfarm economy added jobs at over a four per cent rate in the fourth quarter and over a five per cent rate in the first. Construction employment was especially strong, partly because Duluth achieved one of the fastest 1986 rebounds in building trade employment in the nation. Nonetheless, the state's nonfarm earned income growth has been only moderate, and the unemployment rate hasn't declined. Income may have been restrained by first-quarter weakness in mining and manufacturing. Taconite industry jobs dropped sharply, and another large layoff — 140 workers at an electronics firm in Waseca — hit southern Minnesota's factory sector.

Minnesota's employment growth is likely to remain strong and lead to faster income growth and lower unemployment in 1987-88.

The model predicts that strong growth in the national economy will help the state's nonfarm economy keep creating jobs at rates from four to five per cent. In the second quarter, the model forecasts, nonfarm earned income growth will begin to exceed employment growth and the unemployment rate will recede to 4.3 per cent. Recent announcements that four firms — a package delivery firm, a telemarketer, a small manufacturer, and a wood products wholesaler — will be moving to Fergus Falls suggest that the state's growth will not be limited to its metro areas.

MARV'S Vacuum Headquarters, 101 East Second street, Thief River Falls, received a more progress award from Thief River Falls chamber of commerce ambassadors. Marv's Vacuum Headquarters moved to its present location last September. Marv Nelson, owner, is pictured between Cookie Ault and J.J. Womack. Marv sells and services all makes and models of vacuums. He also has a large variety of parts and accessories. Marv now carries Panasonic and Eureka vacuums in his shop.

Greater Minnesota Corporation Begins Under New Laws

Minnesota legislature made changes in its approach to economic development in the past session. For example, the new Greater Minnesota Corporation will have an influence on the economic future of our state's rural areas.

The corporation was created as part of the $35 million Rural Development act. It includes more than $10 million in venture capital, matching grants and job development programs for Greater Minnesota.

Roger Moe; the chief author of the legislation in the Senate, said, "We created the Greater Minnesota Corporation (GMC) to foster economic growth through cooperative research, development and investment in new products and businesses. GMC may make grants for applied research and development to any campus of the state's higher educational systems, acquire equity interests, and provide financial assistance to businesses. The corporation is also required to establish an agricultural utilization research institute."

The institute has been assigned $3.5 million of the GMC budget. Gene Allen, dean of the University of Minnesota college of agriculture, expects that the university will become involved in the corporation's programs, but that it will continue its focus on basic research rather than product development. This would leave the paths open for companies to develop their own products "to get an edge on the competition," according to Allen, and to facilitate the patent process.

Research is the key word. "I am convinced that it is research that is going to make the difference between successful states and those that are going to have a very, very difficult time as far as their economy for many decades to come," Governor Rudy Perpich said as he signed the bill in early June.

The corporation will be governed by an 11-member board appointed by the Governor. The board will select the corporation's president, as well as replacements of its own members. The GMC, a public corporation, generally will operate like a private business.

Every resident in the state could become a shareholder in rural Minnesota's future if the GMC decides to establish a for-profit venture capital corporation. According to the law, this corporation would "invest only in Minnesota companies or production facilities located in the state, with a preference to ventures that utilize the state's resources and intermediate products and services." The corporation would invest in local capital venture pools for product development and start-up business development, targeting products and businesses that "reduce costs to the state's residents and government jurisdictions," the law says.

The GMC board is to study the effect and structure of the possible venture capital endeavor and report to the legislature and the Governor by July 1 of next year. In the meantime, the GMC directors are to submit a comprehensive operational plan by Nov. 15 of this year.

THE VOICE of BUSINESS

by Richard L. Lesher, President
U.S. Chamber of Commerce

The economy of the United States is beset by many problems, such as major trade and budget deficits, but there is one critically important area in which we can boast of astounding success — job creation.

By the end of 1986, civilian employment in this country hit 110 million, 10 million more than when President Reagan assumed office, and it is still rising.

This performance stands in stark contrast to the experience of our friends in Western Europe. During the same period, they have produced a giant goose egg on the employment front, recording a zero net increase in jobs.

There is no great mystery why this is so. The governments of Western Europe require employers to provide a broad array of Western Europe require employers to provide a broad array of expensive benefits for all workers. Large companies are reluctant to hire new employees because of the onerous obligations they must assume for each. Small firms are unable to grow because they cannot afford to take on new hires. And countless new ventures never get airborne simply because the cost of hiring workers is so overwhelming. The latter item is especially important when you consider that most of the new jobs created in this country in recent years have been in small businesses.

Economists refer to it as "the European disease" and there is no serious debate about its detrimental effect on economic growth. And there can be no serious debate about what will happen when we import the European disease to this country, which is exactly what many powerful members of Congress are determined to do.

The source of this peril is the liberal, welfare state mentality that afflicts many politicians who possess little understanding of how the free enterprise system works. They want to expand the range of social benefits available to all citizens, but there is no extra money in the nation's treasury to fund them. Their solution? Simply require business to foot the bill.

Thus, we are facing an array of new laws that would hike the minimum wage, require parental leave, mandate new health benefits, discourage shutdown of money-losing plants — the list goes on and on. Congress has made little effort to project what the costs of these new requirements will be and doesn't seem to care. Many of our representatives are determined to pursue this folly without regard to the consequences.

The consequences would be awesome. If we greatly expand the osts and obligations of creating jobs, we will create fewer jobs. If we drive up the costs of launching a new business — as these new programs will surely do — we will launch fewer new businesses. We will take our greatest economic strength — creating jobs — and turn it into our greatest weakness.

This is sheer lunacy. We have enough problems on hand already without importing the European disease. Perhaps we should send all 535 members of Congress for a European holiday so they can see first hand what the welfare state mentality leads to.

I'm not sure what fascinates me more — listening to union bosses talk about competitiveness or Soviet leaders speak about human rights.

I know of no greater obstacle to increasing this nation's competitiveness than organized labor and its enduring opposition to anything that would foster increased efficiency and productivity. The unions have thrown business a curveball of inflated wage rates — strike one; followed up with a fastball of featherbedding work rules — strike two; and are now trying to knock us out of the box with a screwball of onerous federal laws and regulations.

Is there anyone this side of the moon who does not know that high labor costs are the primary impediment to this country's competitiveness? Apparently the union bosses don't. They are demanding a higher indexed minimum wage, mandated parental leave and a host of other expensive benefits that would drive our labor costs up even higher.

Is there anyone under the sun who doesn't know that an important competitiveness asset is management flexibility? Apparently the union bosses don't. They want to tie management's hands behind its back with plant clsoing legislation to prevent shutdown of inefficient plants, double-breasting legislation to draft millions of construction workers into unions against their will, comparable worth legislation that would empower federal bureaucrats to dictate wage levels, and airline protective provisions to deter economically necessary restructuring of the airline industry.

I have perused the union agenda in vain looking for anything that would enhance our competitiveness. It is an economist's nightmare, as if the union bosses were deliberately conspiring to produce an anti-competitiveness shopping list to subvert our economy.

The union bosses are right about one thing — the American worker is as dedicated and prodictive as any in the world. American workers are also pretty smart which is the main reason they have been leaving union ranks in droves. Organized labor lost 3.1 million members in the first five years of this decade. Overall union membership fell from 20.1 million in 1980 to 17 million in 1985. Only 14.6 per cent of private sector workers were unionized by 1985.

The union bosses tout themselves as great friends of working people, but the workers obviously aren't buying it. They realize that if the union agenda becomes a reality, it would spell instant disaster for our nation's economy. With friends like these, American workers have no need of enemies.

National Safety Week Emphasizes Workplace Safety

Every year approximately 50,000 Minnesota employees needlessly suffer occupational injuries or illnesses resulting in medical costs, lost time, workers' compensation benefits and higher insurance premiums.

Nationally, more than 75 per cent of injuries are sustained by employees who have received two or fewer hours of training, resulting in losses to American businesses in the neighborhood of $30 billion. It is possible to save as much as 95 per cent in workers' compensation costs by setting up an effective, well-organized safety and health program. Not only can company working capital be saved, but the accompanying pain and loss of resources resulting from occupational injuries and illnesses can also be greatly reduced.

The American society of safety engineers is sponsoring National safety week, June 14 - 20, to increase safety awareness and to emphasize the daily effort safety professionals make to keep Minnesotans safe both at work and away from work. The goals for the week are to encourage increased attention to effective safety training and the importance of accident prevention programs to employers and employees alike.

Minnesota OSHA strongly endorses the goals of safety week and urges employers and employees throughout the state to develop and comply with safety rules governing work activities, to be alert to hazardous situations and to report unsafe conditions.

During national safety week, and throughout the year, cooperative efforts can increase awareness of workplace dangers and create a safer more productive work environment for all Minnesotans.

Washington Report

Sen. Dave Durenberger

HHS Secretary Otis R. Bowen is to be applauded for his establishment of a new Office of Rural Health within the Public Health Service, Sen. Dave Durenberger (R-Minn) said.

"I'm pleased Dr. Bowen has acknowledged the momentum we've established for an explicit policy on rural health," Durenberger said.

"It's obvious we've appealed to the small-town family doctor in him in our efforts to make certain people in rural areas have equal access to appropriate health care."

Durenberger is thought of by the administration as a leading expert on rural health matters, according to an HHS spokesman, and his ideas for helping small rural hospitals adjust to changing needs have had an impact on administration views.

"In this move, the administration is acknowledging that there two different Americas, and they need to be dealt with in different ways," he said. "I hope other cabinet secretaries will see the importance of that and it will raise their awareness of rural needs and issues."

Creation of the new offices was recommended by the work group on rural health care established at Secretary Bowen's order last year, and announced before the House of representatives select committee on aging on Thursday.

"This new office will address in important ways the very problems I saw when I developed my rural health bill," Durenberger said. "The future of small rural hospitals is threatened by economic problems in the communities they serve, and by larger changes occurring nationally in both medical practice and the financing of health care."

Durenberger's rural health services transition act of 1987 was introduced in March, and has been referred to the finance committee, of which he is a member.

That bill provides grants of up to $50,000 per year to smaller rural hospitals to help them diversify and add new services.

"The new office of rural health would help to coordinate work among states, private associations, and foundations," Durenberger said. "But, more importantly, it will keep rural issues from getting lost in the huge Medicare bureaucracy."

State Agencies To Support Container Deposit Legislation

Minnesota Waste Management Board (WMB) passed a resolution at its May 28 meeting pledging to provide a strong effort along with other container deposit supporters such as the Minnesota Pollution Control Agency (MPCA) to develop a container deposit bill for the 1988 legislative session.

According to Joseph Pavelich, WMB Chairman, the goals of a container deposit program are consistent with other WMB policies and the Waste Management act.

"A state-wide recycling system for cans and bottles would reduce litter and decrease the number of containers now going into landfills," Pavelich said. "This proposed legislation is an important element in the state's effort to better manage its waste streams."

It is estimated that a container deposit law in Minnesota would reduce litter by 70 per cent. It would also decrease the amount of material going into Minnesota's sanitary landfills, saving Minnesota approximately $5.8 million a year in landfill space, and helping the state meet its landfill abatement objectives.

The WMB is assisting in the efforts to pass container deposit legislation, and will continue to expand the campaign to enact the legislation in 1988

Gully

Sanna Brovold, Box 5,
Gully, MN 56646 268-4350

Last year some of the members of Lund ladies aid felt we needed more stove space if we were to serve good warm meals. A vote was taken and carried, we would order a stove. A committee was chosen to make arrangements for the stove.

As soon as this information got circulating the critics brought out the negatives: too costly, won't have enough use for it, too heavy, can't get it through the doors, etc.

Last Friday word was received the stove is coming. A large truck backed up to the church with a large black stove from South Carolina. The treasurer showed up with the check book to pay freight. A large portion of the stove had been paid for with Memorial money designated for stove. The president brought cookies and put the coffee pot on. The stove committee was there to supervise. Men showed up with strong backs but mostly with willing hearts. Up the street comes a man with a fork lift to help unload. From across the way came a neighbor, Winton Knufon, with a large kettle of hot ham and bean soup. Bob Kelly was there to guide and thank for cooperation. The men ate heartily. The women were so excited and happy and the big black stove is in the mini kitchen without the signing of a treaty or even a special legislative session.

Mrs. Arnold Brovold entertained a group of former neighbors for coffee and lunch last Wednesday for a chance to visit with Nora Christianson of St. Paul who is at the Albert Nyland home for a visit. Present were Nora and Grace Nyland, Ann Nyland, Esther Thorson, Emma Erickson and Alice Forsberg. Visitors later that evening were Grace Brekke, Merlaine and Gary Enje, Doreen and Sarah Brovold, Brian and Teresa Beckstrand and son.

We are happy to have Emma Erickson back in Gully to enjoy her own house and yard for awhile. ## Draft Horses Get Spotlight June 21 At Logging Camp

On Sunday, June 21, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., the Minnesota historical society's forest history center located nare Grand Rapids will host a special public program on the role of draft horses working in the early logging days in northern Minnesota.

During this program, the center's 1900 logging camp will be filled with working draft horses, showing visitors how logs were moved, loaded on logging sleighs and shipped to sawmills. The afternoon will also feature a demonstration on horseshoe making, an exhibit and demonstration on harness making, a film on working with draft horses and free horse drawn wagon rides.

Draft horses dominated the lumber industry in northern Minnesota after 1880. Prior to that time most logs were moved by oxen. These slow beasts gave way to draft horses as new and faster logging practices moved into the Minnesota woods. After 1880, draft horsepower moved the lumber industry for the next 50 years.

Draft horses provided the muscle power to haul supplies into the camps, skid timber from the stump, load the logging sleighs and transport the loads to rivers or railroads. Logging camp foremen knew the value of strong hearted and healthy horses and treated them well. Horses received the best feed, clean barns and good care. Old time lumberjacks swore that the horses were treated better than the men.

On June 21 the center will celebrate that important role — draft horses in the logging camps of the state — with a wide variety of fun and educational activities for visitors. Throughout the day, the center's logging camp draft horse, "DOC", owned by Frank Hendricks of Grand Rapids, will be working around the camp. His camp duties will include hay and water hauling, log skidding and logging sleigh loading.

Mel Seeger of Cohasset will be on hand to show visitors his draft horse skills as he and his draft horse provide demonstrations on "cross-haul" loading, an old technique of loading logging sleighs. Seeger will also be on hand to talk to visitors about working with draft horses and what to look for in draft horses.

During the day, Randy Oberg of Cohasset will be in the camp to provide demonstrations of blacksmithing and farrier skills as he makes draft horse horseshoes in the blacksmith shop. Oberg will also be on hand to explain the various steps necessary to make shoes and how to work with horseshoes to correct horse hoof problems. Oberg is a professional farrier who provides horseshoeing services throughout the state.

Joining the day's activities will be Bernie Sampson of Gilbert, the owner of a horse harness manufacturing company that ships horse harnesses throughout North America. He will provide a display on harness making by hand and talk about harness construction and give demonstrations on harnessing draft horses.

During the day long program, horse drawn wagon rides, provided by K&K Wagon Rides and Stables of Grand Rapids, will be given from the 1900 logging camp area to the cen- upon horse power for farming to feed this nation and the world; and, how the change from horsepower to machine power took place.

The events for this special "Logging Camp Horsepower" program will take place June 21 from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. The public is encouraged to attend.

For further information about this program or about the center's daily activities, write to the Forest History Center, 2609 County Road 76, Grand Rapids, MN 55744 or call 218-327-4482. There is an admission charge.

Stangeland Hails New Office Of Rural Health

U.S. Rep. Arlan Stangeland (R-MN), a member of the House rural wealth care coalition, today praised a decision made last Friday creating a new office of rural health within the public health service, a branch of the department of health and human services.

"I am very encouraged by the creation of this office to coordinate government and private efforts on behalf of rural health care facilities," Stangeland said. "Access to high quality health care is an important element in the economic viability of rural America and Minnesota. We need to do everything possible to make rural Minnesota attractive to business and high-quality health care can help make that happen."

Stangeland is not without reservation, however.

"While I am encouraged, I have sent a letter to Secretary (of Health and Human Services) Otis Bowen outlining my concerns that this office have the authority to impact health care policy-making within the department," Stangeland continued. "I don't want to see this office turned into another manufacturer of red tape. I want to see actual policy."

The announcement of the newly created office of rural health was made by Dr. David Sundall, administrator of the public health service's health resources and services administration, in testimony before the House select committee on aging.

In other testimony before the committee on aging, Charles Booth, the director for Medicare reimbursement policy of the Health care financing administration announced new regulations easing the administration's reimbursement policy to rural hospitals. New regulations allow up to 80 per cent of a rural hospital's unusually costly outlier cases to be reimbursed. This figure is up from the current level of 60 per cent.

"I believe these developments are the direct result of the efforts of the House rural health care coalition," said Stangeland, a member of the coalition's steering committee, said. "All of our attention has been focused on action to stop the developing medical crisis situation in rural America. Rural hospitals are not simply health care providers but serve as vital components of their communities and I'm glad to see the HHS beginning to address the situation," Stangeland concluded.

Local Resident Attends National Guard BTOC

Minnesota Army National Guard recruit Wayne Rausch from Thief River Falls got a sample of army life during a two-day Basic Training Orientation Course (BTQC) at Camp Ripley this past weekend.

Rausch was part of a group of over 100 national guard recruits from across the state to attend the course. The weekend is designed to give the recruits a sample of the real thing they will be facing latter this year.

BTOCs were created by the Minnesota Army National Guard in the 1970s in an attempt to reduce the number of recruits dropping out of basic training. By introducing National Guard recruits to the training and discipline they will receive, the number of drop-outs has been significantly lowered.

At the time of the purchase, a buyer can select a date three, four or five years in the future when the purchase can be reconsidered. If the buyer changes his mind at that future date, FCS wil rescind the sale and return the down payment and any principal payments that have been made on the property.

During the first 30 days of the program, only members of the ag lending cooperative who are current in their loan payments will be eligible for the 100 per cent money-back guarantee. After July 20, the guarantee will be expanded to other farmers.

"Land Values Guaranteed" is designed to increase interest in buying farmland by removing the risk of further land value decreases.

"We are guaranteeing buyer satisfaction in the land we have for sale," said Ross Olson, vice president, special accounts. "We believe land values have reached the bottom and we are prepared to stand behind that contention by offering a program that takes the risk out of buying farmland for the farmer."

The down payments and principal payments will be placed in special independent escrow accounts until the buyer's reconsideration option has passed. This ensures buyers the money will be avialble if they want to exercise their option to rescind the purchase agreement.

"Land Values Guaranteed" is the second major effort by FCS to reduce its inventory of acquired property. During the first phase, more than 90 per cent of land went to local farmers and sales averaged 104 per cent of appraised market value. Since then additional property has been acquired by FCS due largely to an aggressive debt restructuring effort.

Nominations For Hospital Board Being Received

Three members will be elected to the board of directors at the annual meeting of the Northwest Medical Center association to be conducted Monday, September 14, at the Best Western inn of Thief River Falls.

By-laws of the association provide the membership with opportunity to nominate candidates from among the membership to stand for election at the annual meeting. A nominating committee also places names of potential directors in nomination for election.

The nominating committee has nominated present board members Diane Freeman, Dr. Jerome Bray and Lawrence McDowell for reelection. Mrs. Freeman and Dr. Bray are completing their first three-year terms and are eligible for reelection twice to permit nine consecutive years of service under the association's by-laws. After three terms, directors may not be returned to the board until at least one year has elapsed.

McDowell was appointed to the board of directors at the Tuesday, May 26 meeting of the board to succeed Charles (Buzz) Marvin of Warroad, whose resignation had been accepted with regret and appreciation for service at the March 30 meeting. Marvin had indicated he could no longer serve due to business obligations which frequently required him to be out of Minnesota. His term was due to expire this year.

All three directors to be elected at the Semptember annual meeting will have terms expiring in 1990, according to Richard Spyhalski, medical center president. Dale Dillon chaired the nominating committee.

Members of the association who wish to nominate candidates for the board of directors must do so before 5 p.m. on August 1. Nominations by members from among th membership are to be accompanied by each nominee's written consent to serve and contain the signatures of five association members. The nominations and accompanying materials are to be delivered to the hospital administrative office before the August 1 deadline. There are no nominations from the floor at the annual meeting.

AFLC 25th Conference Draws 640 Delegates

Fellowship

AFLC SECRETARY Rev. Ron Knutson of Canton, SD, was reelected for another one-year term at the annual conference Thursday afternoon in Thief River Falls. The 25th annual conference drew more than 600 registered delegates to the event at the Lincoln high school auditorium.

Rev Richard Snipstead, New Hope, was elected to his fourth three-year term as president of the Association of Free Lutheran Congregations in the church's 25th annual conference in Thief River Falls last week.

Under the association's by-laws, Rev. Snipstead — having served three terms — needed a three-fourths majority on the first ballot to continue in office, He received over 90 per cent of the votes cast. The other nominee was Rev. Robert Lee, Minneapolis, who was subsequently reelected vice president for one year.

Rev. Ronald Knutson, Canton, SD, was reelected secretary of the AFLC for one year.

Rev. Snipstead is 59 and a native of Meeting Creek, Alta., Canada. He has served parishes in Saskatoon, Sask., Greenbush, MN; and Ferndale, WA. He also was dean of the Association Free Lutheran Bible school, Minneapolis, for seven years.

In his message to the conference, Rev. Snipstead urged the delegates to re-affirm a resolution from the 1984 conference which declared "our openness to pastors and congregations who seek fellowship with the AFLC and extend to those of like convictions who desire to be associated with a conservative Lutheran body such as ours a warm hand of fellowship." They responded by passing such a resolution.

Six former American Lutheran church congregations were welcomed into the AFLC at the conference. Some others are expected to join in 1987 before the merger of the ALC, the Lutheran Church in America and the Association of Evangelical Lutheran Congregations takes place next January 1.

The AFLC represents conservative Lutheran theology, the freedom of local congregations, wholesome piety and a more low church emphasis in the worship service.

Some 640 lay delegates and pastors registered for the conference, which was the 25th in the association's history, by far the largest turnout ever. The AFLC was organized in Thief River Falls in October of 1963 so there was special significance in meeting here. Thirteen states, Brazil, Mexico and Saskatchewan were represented by those attending.

A statement on abortion was passed, following ones adopted in 1977, 1978 and 1980. As presented to the delegates, the resolution asserted protection due to unborn children and that abortion is permissible only when "medically necessary to save the life of the mother," but some delegates objected to the exception. The motion was referred back to the committee, the dean of the church's theological seminary, and a medical doctor. They recommended that the exception allowing abortion to save a mother's life be deleted and the amendment passed strongly by a voice vote.

The resolution also urged support of pro-life groups such as Lutherans For Life and prayerful support for the development of alternatives to abortion programs, providing compassionate help for those in need.

Reports were heard from the Association World Mission fields in Brazil and Mexico.

Reelected to the coordinating committee for five-year terms were George Hartman, Dalton, and Robert Knutson, McVille, ND, and for a one-year term Rev. Wendell Johnson, Stacy.

$90,000 Available To Industries But Few Interested

Thief River Falls can roll out more than a red carpet for businesses willing to build in the town. Loans benefiting manufacturers, industry, wholesale business or processing plants are available and ready to be used, said Don Stewart, community development director, but so far about $90,000 is just collecting interest.

Funds for retail or commercial businesses are generally not available. Locally, however, there is the Small Business Development center and businesses which can provide assistance to commercial enterprises.

The long and short of it, Stewart said, is there are rules set out by the federal government which specifically allow only industry, wholesale, manufacturing, and processing plant business to receive community revolving loan funds.

Stewart said there are primarily two reasons why loans are not given to all businesses. The first reason is that if low interest loans are given to any business, in all probability a competing business will view the loan as giving the new business the competitive advantage.

Secondly, the types of jobs created by manufacturers are generally higher paying. By creating more higher paying jobs, more demand is made for retail or service related occupations.

In 1983 Thief River Falls received $450,000 from a Housing and Urban Development (HUD) community development block grant. It was made at the time the federal government was turning over administration of these grants to states.

The revolving loan fund was established and is now administered by the Community Development Advisory Board (CDAB). The revolving loan fund program is designed to assist industrial employment by providing eligible industry with fixed asset financing at below market interest rates.

At the end of 1986, said Roger DeLap, city finance officer, the Thief River Falls community development block grant had nearly $580,000 in assets. It now has closer to $600,000 in assets. Those funds have completely rolled over and now belong entirely to the city.

All of the $600,000, Stewart said, could be made available to a really big industry if need be. Stewart said the revolving loan fund is generating approximately $50,000 every six months in interest income and repayment of principal.

By June 30, the final date for applications, $95,000 will be available for loans. Stewart said he would much rather see the funds being used than collecting interest, because that's what they're for. Stewart said he has two and perhaps three eligible applications right now.

Law To Prohibit Smoking In Care Facilities By '90

Minnesota Legislature has passed into law a bill to prohibit smoking in health care facilities effective Jan. 1, 1990. Minnesota is the first state to enact legislation of this kind. Purpose of the bill is to protect the public health, comfort and environment by prohibiting smoking in areas where ill or injured persons are present.

The bill prohibits smoking in any area of a hospital, health care clinic, doctor's office or other health care-related facility, other than a nursing home, boarding care facility, or licensed residential facility. There are two exceptions:

(1) Smoking by patients in a chemical dependency treatment program or mental health program may be allowed in a separated, well-ventilated area.

(2) Smoking by a patient may be allowed if authorized in writing by the patient's attending physician.

A number of Minnesota health care facilities are already smoke-free or have made the commitment to do so. Thirteen hospitals in the state are 100 per cent smoke-free, and another 25 have set commitment dates to do so before 1990.

"The Minneosta Hospital association is in complete support of all hospitals becoming smoke-free, and we expect most will voluntarily be smoke-free by 1990," said Stephen Rogness, president of the Minnesota Hospital association.

"Minnesota is a recognized leader in the nationwide effort to achieve a smoke-free society by the year 2000. This legislative action is another step in our ongoing efforts to provide quality health care and to reinforce the message that smoking is indeed a health hazard," according to A. Stuart Hanson, M.D., president of the Minnesbta Smoke-free Coalition. "We're proud of the commitment Minnesota has made."

In addition to the ban on smoking in health care facilities, the bill also prohibits smoking in all licensed day care centers, and prohibits the free distribution of tobacco products.

Corps Projects Fared Well In House Committee

Congressman Arlan Stangeland reports that Corps of Engineers projects and programs in northwest and central Minnesota "fared extremely well" in the bill approved Wednesday by the House appropriations committee.

The more than $3.1 billion included in the fiscal year 1988 energy and water appropriations bill for water projects important to the 7th Congressional District had been requested by Stangeland.

"As ranking Republican on the public works and transportation subcommittee on water resources, Stangeland had secured authorization for the projects in last year's major omnibus water resources development bill, which he helped draft and which was signed into law.

Included in the total appropriated was $300,000 to allow the corps to join with local sponsors in an effort to save Sauk Lake by removing silt, aquatic growth and other materials.

The financing of initial reconnaisance work, cost estimates, environmental studies and plans and specifications would be included in this initial funding for the project, for which Stangeland had earlier secured authorization as part of a new national lake cleanup program.

The funding measure also contained $360,000 to protect a highway and bridge from erosion along the banks of the Red Lake river, west of Gentilly. The project was authorized in a provision authored by Stangeland as part of a new program on streambank erosion control created in the omnibus water resources bill, now public law.

Also included in the appropriations bill was $800,000 to fund a study to combat streambank erosion in Little Falls. At the request of Stangeland, a survey resolution authorizing the study had earlier been approved by the Public Works and Transportation Committee.

In yesterday's action, the Appropriations Committee agreed to the request of Stangeland and others that Minnesota's share of the "Planning Assistance to States Program" be increased to $300,000 for the development of a technical resource service.

Noting that last year the state's share of the program was only $61,000 of the eligible $200,000, Stangeland advised the committee that Minnesota needs the technical expertise of the program since flooding still causes over $60 million in damages each year. These funds would especiall help address needs in the Red River Basin.

Another important provision in the bill provided $400,000 for a study that would examine the feasibility of water and related land resources development in the Rainy River basin of Minnesota and Ontario.

The committee also approved $1 million for the establishment and operation of a Great Lakes commodities marketing board to develop a strategy to improve the commercial capacity and thereby the economic vitality of the Great Lakes Region.

Stangeland hailed the committee's action as "an important step forward." but warned of "more hard work ahead," with House and Senate approval and the President's signature yet required.

FCS Offers Land And Will Permit Buy Back Option

The new land sale program is designed to further reduce the association's inventory of land and to protect a farmer's net worth while helping to stabilize and strengthen area land values through increased demand from buyers.

"We want farmland to move into the hands of owner-operators who will support the local rural communities," Olson said. "This program is for renters who are ready to buy a farm or for the established farmer who wants to expand. The money-back guarantee will not be available for investors."

In addition to the money-back guatantee, qualified buyers can obtain a land contract with a fixed rate of interest of nine per cent for three to five years. The contract will be amortized at up to 25 years and require at least a 25 per cent down payment.

Farmers who want more information about the program and the location of property that is for sale should contact the local Farm Credit office in their community.

FCS of Grand Forks provides credit and other financial services to farmers, cooperatives and agricultural businesses in 20 counties of northeastern North Dakota and northwestern Minnesota. It is a cooperative owned by its borrowers and managed by a board of directors composed of farmers elected by their fellow farmer-members. FCS serves its members through the Federal Land Bank, the Production Credit association and the Bank for Cooperatives.

640 Registered For AFLC 25th Conference Here

gascar, Rev. Ted Berkas, Granite Falls, was elected to the world mission committee for five years and Owen Myhre, Abercrombie, ND, was reelected to the home missions committee.

The AFLC operates a theological seminary and two-year Bible school in Plymouth. Kenneth Rolf, McIntosh, was reelected to the school board of trustees and Rev. Gary Jorgenson, Stanley, ND, was elected to the board.

Pastors and their wives at a Friday evening banquet at the Best Western inn heard an address by Chaplain Timothy Skramstad of the U.S. Army, recently returned from Germany. A second association pastor, Rev. Mark Antal, Bemidji, will become an army chaplain in July at Ft. Mammouth, NJ.

Three recent graduates of the seminary were ordained on Sunday afternoon at Lincoln high school auditorium, where the conference sessions were held. The graduates, their home addresses and parishes to be served are as follows: Lynn Kinneberg, Abercrombie, ND, to Wadena; Stephen Snipstead, Minneapolis, to Kalispell, MT; and Tom Tuura, Cloquet, to McIntosh. Rev. Snipstead officiated at the service and preched the sermon. A choral union sang in honor of the church's 25th anniversary.

The women's auxiliary, the Women's Missionary federation, held its annual convention on June 17-18. A separate story is in today's Times.

A number of local and area people participated in the conference in a number of ways. Mrs. Gary Erickson was organist for the sessions and Judith Wold retired as executive secretary of the Women's Missionary federation.

Mrs. Don Balmer of Thief River Falls is treasurer of the Lake Bronson family Bible camp and presented a report. Rev. Eugene Enderlein, formerly pastor of Our Saviour's church and now living in Minneapolis, gave a report as chairman of the committee on world missions. Paul Flaten of Strandquist served as leader for the Friday evening laymen's service.

Rev. Raynard Huglen of Newfolden was speaker for the Sunday morning communion service with Rev. Leslie Galland of Thief River Falls leading the morning worship service where Rev. David Molstre, former pastor in Thief River Falls and now serving in Fargo, ND, was the speaker.

$90,000 Available To Industries But Few Interested

Eligible industry is defined as industry located in Thief River Falls or within two miles; a company engaged in product manufacture or provision of a service not duplicated locally; local industry that is independently owned and operated will receive priority; must be creating or retaining employment within Thief River Falls; and must be creating or retaining jobs which are for low to moderate incomes at $6,000 per job and not to exceed $10,000 per job.

A common misconception, Stewart said, is that these funds are risk funds or used for very speculative ventures. Nothing could be further from the truth, Stewart said.

For the most part, these funds are used by businesses which just don't quite make the cut with local lending institutions. It is, in that sense, an investment which is more speculative in nature than the type of venture a lending institution would enter into.

But loan applicants must meet some trigngent requirements. They must provide statements indicating the total financing amount, financial statements for the last three years, three-year growth projections, current and projected employment, a project narrative, loan terms, collateral, security, personal guarantees and meet other requirements.

In other words, Stewart said, the loans are not extremely speculative. The projects have to be sound.

DeLap said the odds are there will be some bad loans, but it will continue to grow. "We want it to grow," DeLap said. "The whole intent of the program is job creation."

One of the two main functions of the CDAB is to process loan applications. The second function is to accept and act on applications and administer the Enterprise Zone credit program.

Members of the CDAB are appointed by the Thief River Falls city council. Presently, the board members are: Paul Ihle of the Housing and Redevelopment association; Don Narverud of Jobs Inc.; Bill Hogan (chairman), representative of manufacturers and industry; Ron Winter representing the accounting profession; J.J. Womack of the city council; and a representative of the city clerks office. Ex-officio members (non-voting) include: Don Stewart, Mayor Bob Carlson and State Representative Wally Sparby.

It is the job of CDAB to process the applications. The final determination authority is given to the Thief River Falls city council.

Most Accidents Caused By Poor Safety Habits

Most accidents, according to the Automotive Information council, are caused by poor driving, car maintainance and safety habits. A little common sense and courtesy can also go a long way toward making America's roadways safe for everyone.

(1) Obey traffic laws: Avoid speeding, including going to fast for conditions; observe right-of-way rules; pass only when in a passing zone; don't pass on the shoulder.

(2) Driver defensively: Keep a mental list of the cars around you; leave a "safety zone" around your car; leave one car length in front of your car for every 10 mph; leave four to six feet in front when stopped in traffic or at a light.

(3) Increase visibility: Turn on headlights at dusk, dawn or anytime visibility is reduced even slightly; use low beams in fog, snow or rain to reduce glare; keep wiper fluid reservoir filled; replace wiper blades every four months.

(4) Maintain control systems: Refer to your car's owner's manual for a guide to checking brake, suspension, steering components and tires.

(5) Buckle up: Both front and rear-seat passengers should be buckled; use child safety seats for children uner 40 pounds; use a rear-facing seat for children under 20 pounds.

The average American spends over 20 per cent of after-tax income on cars and other forms of transportation. Isn't it worth paying a little more attention to protect that investment and save lives?

Law To Prohibit Smoking In Care Facilities By '90

Minnesota Legislature has passed into law a bill to prohibit smoking in health care facilities effective Jan. 1, 1990. Minnesota is the first state to enact legislation of this kind. Purpose of the bill is to protect the public health, comfort and environment by prohibiting smoking in areas where ill or injured persons are present.

The bill prohibits smoking in any area of a hospital, health care clinic, doctor's office or other health care-related facility, other than a nursing home, boarding care facility, or licensed residential facility. There are two exceptions:

(1) Smoking by patients in a chemical dependency treatment program or mental health program may be allowed in a separated, well-ventilated area.

(2) Smoking by a patient may be allowed if authorized in writing by the patient's attending physician.

A number of Minnesota health care facilities are already smoke-free or have made the commitment to do so. Thirteen hospitals in the state are 100 per cent smoke-free, and another 25 have set commitment dates to do so before 1990.

"The Minneosta Hospital association is in complete support of all hospitals becoming smoke-free, and we expect most will voluntarily be smoke-free by 1990," said Stephen Rogness, president of the Minnesota Hospital association.

"Minnesota is a recognized leader in the nationwide effort to achieve a smoke-free society by the year 2000. This legislative action is another step in our ongoing efforts to provide quality health care and to reinforce the message that smoking is indeed a health hazard," according to A. Stuart Hanson, M.D., president of the Minnesota Smoke-free Coalition. "We're proud of the commitment Minnesota has made."

In addition to the ban on smoking in health care facilities, the bill also prohibits smoking in all licensed day care centers, and prohibits the free distribution of tobacco products.

Corps Projects Fared Well In House Committee

Congressman Arlan Stangeland reports that Corps of Engineers projects and programs in northwest and central Minnesota "fared extremely well" in the bill approved Wednesday by the House appropriations committee.

The more than $3.1 billion included in the fiscal year 1988 energy and water appropriations bill for water projects important to the 7th Congressional District had been requested by Stangeland.

As ranking Republican on the public works and transportation subcommittee on water resources, Stangeland had secured authorization for the projects in last year's major omnibus water resources development bill, which he helped draft and which was signed into law.

Included in the total appropriated was $300,000 to allow the corps to join with local sponsors in an effort to save Sauk Lake by removing silt, aquatic growth and other materials.

The financing of initial reconnaisance work, cost estimates, environmental studies and plans and specifications would be included in this intital funding for the project, for which Stangeland had earlier secured authorization as part of a new national lake cleanup program.

The funding measure also contained $360,000 to protect a highway and bridge from erosion along the banks of the Red Lake river, west of Gentilly. The project was authorized in a provision authored by Stangeland as part of a new program on streambank erosion control created in the omnibus water resources bill, now public law.

Also included in the appropriations bill was $800,000 to fund a study to combat streambank erosion in Little Falls. At the request of Stangeland, a survey resolution authorizing the study had earlier been approved by the Public Works and Transportation Committee.

In yesterday's action, the Appropriations Committee agreed to the request of Stangeland and others that Minnesota's share of the "Planning Assistance to States Program" be increased to $300,000 for the development of a technical resource service.

Noting that last year the state's share of the program was only $61,000 of the eligible $200,000, Stangeland advised the committee that Minnesota needs the technical expertise of the program since flooding still causes over $60 million in damages each year. These funds would especiall help address needs in the Red River Basin.

Another important provision in the bill provided $400,000 for a study that would examine the feasibility of water and related land resources development in the Rainy River basin of Minnesota and Ontario.

The committee also approved $1 million for the establishment and operation of a Great Lakes commodities marketing board to develop a strategy to improve the commercial capacity and thereby the economic vitality of the Great Lakes Region.

Stangeland hailed the committee's action as "an important step forward," but warned of "more hard work ahead," with House and Senate approval and the President's signature yet required.

FCS Offers Land And Will Permit Buy Back Option

The new land sale program is designed to further reduce the association's inventory of land and to protect a farmer's net worth while helping to stabilize and strengthen area land values through increased demand from buyers.

"We want farmland to move into the hands of owner-operators who will support the local rural communities," Olson said. "This program is for renters who are ready to buy a farm or for the established farmer who wants to expand. The money-back guarantee will not be available for investors."

In addition to the money-back guatantee, qualified buyers can obtain a land contract with a fixed rate of interest of nine per cent for three to five years. The contract will be amortized at up to 25 years and require at least a 25 per cent down payment.

Farmers who want more information about the program and the location of property that is for sale should contact the local Farm Credit office in their community.

FCS of Grand Forks provides credit and other financial services to farmers, cooperatives and agricultural businesses in 20 counties of northeastern North Dakota and northwestern Minnesota. It is a cooperative owned by its borrowers and managed by a board of directors composed of farmers elected by their fellow farmer-members. FCS serves its members through the Federal Land Bank, the Production Credit association and the Bank for Cooperatives.

640 Registered For AFLC 25th Conference Here

gascar, Rev. Ted Berkas, Granite Falls, was elected to the world mission committee for five years and Owen Myhre, Abercrombie, ND, was reelected to the home missions committee.

The AFLC operates a theological seminary and two-year Bible school in Plymouth. Kenneth Rolf, McIntosh, was reelected to the school board of trustees and Rev. Gary Jorgenson, Stanley, ND, was elected to the board.

Pastors and their wives at a Friday evening banquet at the Best Western inn heard an address by Chaplain Timothy Skramstad of the U.S. Army, recently returned from Germany. A second association pastor, Rev. Mark Antal, Bemidji, will become an army chaplain in July at Ft. Mammouth, NJ.

Three recent graduates of the seminary were ordained on Sunday afternoon at Lincoln high school auditorium, where the conference sessions were held. The graduates, their home addresses and parishes to be served are as follows: Lynn Kinneberg, Abercrombie, ND, to Wadena; Stephen Snipstead, Minneapolis, to Kalispell, MT; and Tom Tuura, Cloquet, to McIntosh. Rev. Snipstead officiated at the service and preched the sermon. A choral union sang in honor of the church's 25th anniversary.

The women's auxiliary, the Women's Missionary federation, held its annual convention on June 17-18. A separate story is in today's Times.

A number of local and area people participated in the conference in a number of ways. Mrs. Gary Erickson was organist for the sessions and Judith Wold retired as executive secretary of the Women's Missionary federation.

Mrs. Don Balmer of Thief River Falls is treasurer of the Lake Bronson family Bible camp and presented a report. Rev. Eugene Enderlein, formerly pastor of Our Saviour's church and now living in Minneapolis, gave a report as chairman of the committee on world missions. ## $90,000 Available To Industries But Few Interested

Eligible industry is defined as industry located in Thief River Falls or within two miles; a company engaged in product manufacture or provision of a service not duplicated locally; local industry that is independently owned and operated will receive priority; must be creating or retaining employment within Thief River Falls; and must be creating or retaining jobs which are for low to moderate incomes at $6,000 per job and not to exceed $10,000 per job.

A common misconception, Stewart said, is that these funds are risk funds or used for very speculative ventures. Nothing could be further from the truth, Stewart said.

For the most part, these funds are used by businesses which just don't quite make the cut with local lending institutions. It is, in that sense, an investment which is more speculative in nature than the type of venture a lending institution would enter into.

But loan applicants must meet some trignent requirements. They must provide statements indicating the total financing amount, financial statements for the last three years, three-year growth projections, current and projected employment, a project narrative, loan terms, collateral, security, personal guarantees and meet other requirements.

In other words, Stewart said, the loans are not extremely speculative. The projects have to be sound.

DeLap said the odds are there will be some bad loans, but it will continue to grow. "We want it to grow," DeLap said. "The whole intent of the program is job creation."

One of the two main functions of the CDAB is to process loan applications. The second function is to accept and act on applications and administer the Enterprise Zone credit program.

Members of the CDAB are appointed by the Thief River Falls city council. Presently, the board members are: Paul Ihle of the Housing and Redevelopment association; Don Narverud of Jobs Inc.; Bill Hogan (chairman), representative of manufacturers and industry; Ron Winter representing the accounting profession; J.J. Womack of the city council; and a representative of the city clerks office. Ex-officio members (non-voting) include: Don Stewart, Mayor Bob Carlson and State Representative Wally Sparby.

It is the job of CDAB to process the applications. The final determination authority is given to the Thief River Falls city council.

Most Accidents Caused By Poor Safety Habits

Most accidents, according to the Automotive Information council, are caused by poor driving, car maintainance and safety habits. A little common sense and courtesy can also go a long way toward making America's roadways safe for [illegible]

(1) Obey traffic laws: Avoid speeding, including going to fast for conditions; observe right-of-way rules; pass only when in a passing zone; don't pass on the shoulder.

(2) Driver defensively: Keep a mental list of the cars around you; leave a "safety zone" around your car; leave one car length in front of your car for every 10 mph; leave four to six feet in front when stopped in traffic or at a light.

(3) Increase visibility: Turn on headlights at dusk, dawn or anytime visibility is reduced even slightly; use low beams in fog, snow or rain to reduce glare; keep wiper fluid reservoir filled; replace wiper blades every four months.

(4) Maintain control systems: Refer to your car's owner's manual for a guide to checking brake, suspension, steering components and tires.

(5) Buckle up: Both front and rear seat passengers should be buckled; use child safety seats for children uner 40 pounds; use a rear-facing seat for children under 20 pounds.

The average American spends over 20 per cent of after-tax income on cars and other forms of transportation. Isn't it worth paying a little more attention to protect that investment and save lives?

LEAFING THROUGH YOUR LIBRARY

by Margaret Moeglein
Bookmobile Branch Librarian

While planning this summer's programs for young patrons we decided that one of the best sources of ideas for projects would be young patrons; so our bookmobile "Paws at Your Library" posters asked students in grades four and older to bring their craft and entertainment ideas to the bookmobile.

Darlene Hallberg, an 11½-year-old patron from Karlstad, submitted an idea we think patrons of all ages will enjoy participating in this summer. Darlene's idea is to have our summertime patrons help name her new little black and white Siamese kitten (a picture of the kitten will be posted on the bookmobile). Darlene has picked five names she likes. Patrons will vote for the name they like best on ballots provided on the bookmobile. The name receiving the most votes will be the name given the kitten. Darlene says, "If there is a tie for two names, the kitten our kitty has befriended can get one of the names."

"Sounds like a great idea to me," I said, "so let's do it."

This summer our big jar will be filled with various-sized "pet rocks" for the big guessing contest. The young patron coming closest to guessing the number of pebbles in the jar wins $10. Six other young patrons with the next best guesses each win a colorful animal memo caddy filled with "Purr-sonal" memo paper or "Dog-gone" important notes paper.

More fun is planned so watch this newspaper for coming events.

Rylander Wins Poster Contest

TRF Resident Is Involved In Early Morning Accident

Minnesota state patrol reported an accident early Monday morning involving a Thief River Falls resident.

An official spokesperson for the patrol reported that at 7:45 a.m. 25 feet west of the junction of McLain and East Robert street in Crookston two vehicles were involved in an accident. State patrol reported a third vehicle was stopped at the intersection but turned left just before the accident and was not damaged.

According to the state patrol a 1966 Ford van driven by David Michael Hjelden of Crookston was stopped at the intersection when a 1984 Chevrolet four-door driven by Brenda Lee Carver of Thief River Falls, approaching from the rear, struck the rear of the car driven by Hjelden. Damages from the collision were estimated at $3,000 to the Carver vehicle and $400 to the Hjelden vehicle. There were no passengers in either car and no injuries were reported. Carver, however, was taken by private car to the hospital in Crookston for a check-up. She was complaining of a sore shoulder.

Dear Readers,

In many things preplanned, there can be unforeseen developments between the time of planning and the completion. This is true in the prearranging of funerals, as there is no way of knowing beforehand exactly when, where, and how death will occur. These unknown factors could duly alter original plans. Careful counseling with an experienced funeral director can avoid unwise planning.

Respectfully,

THREE members of the Fork Horns, an organization for younger members of the Thief River Falls chapter of the Deer Hunter association, were presented with $150 scholarships to attend a hunter's education camp this summer. The scholarships were awarded by Neil Jacobson (left) to Jeff Shafland, Mike Puetz and Tony Hoffard at the Minnesota Deer Hunter association chapter picnic June 17.

Deer Hunters To Send Three To Education Camp

Deer Hunter's association of Thief River Falls recently selected three members of its Fork Horn organization to participate in a learning experience at the Environmental Learning center near Isabella.

Mike Puetz, Jeff Shafland and Tony Hoffard, 15-year-old members of the Fork Horn organization, were chosen to spend a week at the center, which is located 85 miles north of Duluth, July 19-25. The three will be among 210 students to have participated in the program since it began two years ago.

The environmental learning center has been described as an extension of hunter training programs presented on a level younger participants can understand. It is a private organization but instructors are from the Minnesota department of natural resources, United States fish and wildlife service, advanced hunter education, representatives of naturalist organizations, foresters and photographers.

Instruction will be given on such topics as planning a hunt, habitat field work, waterfowl, archery, orienteering, ethics, rifle range, black bear, timber wolf, ruffed grouse, laws, animal signs, survival, beaver ecology, whitetail deer, ropes course, climbing wall, canoeing and swimming.

The Deer Hunter's association chapter in Thief River Falls was able to send three Fork Horn members to the camp this year because of the success of the Deer Hunter's association banquet held earlier this year. The camp costs $150 per student.

Dana Klos said selection was difficult because there were seven eligible students this year. The local chapter of the Deer Hunter association was limited to two spots this year, but because another club did not fill its alloted positions, the local chapter was given another position to fill.

Since the camp is open to students up to age 16, it was felt the older students should be given the first chance, according to Klos. He said other considerations also had to be made.

Klos said there are approximately 400 members in the local Deer Hunter's association chapter, but only 11 Fork Horn members. The Fork Horn organization is open to all boys and girls.

School Reunion For West And East Espelie Planned

Final plans are made for the school reunion of the West and East Espelie country schools which made up the old school district number 109. Only the West school remains and is now used for the Espelie township meetings.

The date for the one day celebration is Saturday, July 11, beginning at 10:30 a.m. with registration at the West school. There will be a potluck dinner served on the school grounds at noon, and in case of rain the event will be held at the Lynn Hanson farm.

The evening banquet will be held in the Grace Lutheran church in Grygla and the Grace Lutheran ladies will prepare the meal. The reminiscing hour will start at 6 p.m. and the dinner to be served at 7 p.m. The program will follow with Arne Nelson, who was a student and later became clerk of that school district serving as master of ceremonies. Nelson will also share his memories as both a student and a school board member, as part of the program.

The program will include the unveiling of a painting of the West Espelie school done by artist Laura (Kruckow) Norried of Ankeny, IA, who will be in attendance to present the art work as a donation to the Goodridge area historical society, Inc. She painted the art work from a photograph taken during the winter several years ago by Mrs. Inga Payne and Mrs. Christine Johnson.

Anyone who is interested in attending the banquet should get those reservations in as soon as possible to Mrs. Arne Nelson, Goodridge, phone number 378-4494.

Mr. and Mrs. Arne Nelson and Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Erickson, Warren and Goodridge, are chairmen of the event and Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Hanson serve as co-chairmen.

The reunion is being sponsored by the Goodridge area historical society, Inc.

EDITORIAL OPINION

Thought Provoking Comment On Subjects Of Public Interest

Publishing Court Reports

Rarely does a week go by that someone doesn't stop by or call the Times office and ask about having a name withheld from the court report that is a weekly part of our paper. To each request our answer is invariably the same: "We are sorry the publication may present a problem for you but we publish every name that appears in the court record. To make an exception for anyone would be unfair to everyone. If the name is in the report it will be in the paper."

Then we stand by what we say. We make no exceptions, we grant no special privileges. Our policy to publish the court report applies to all who plead guilty or are convicted in court.

Ours is not the only newspaper with court reports and therefore not the only one which has experienced questions about publication of names. Recently the Lake Region Press at Alexandria had a question about reporting the names of shoplifters in its court report, so it ran a reader survey to find out what readers thought. The response was overwhelming that the names of shoplifters should be published.

"As businessmen," stated a response from the Alexandria Downtown Merchants association, "we feel the best defense against shoplifting is the printing of the names in the paper. It seems to be a large consensus that the fine is easy to pay but the fact that their names will be in the paper is what causes the most shame. This is the best deterrent business people have from shoplifters."

Editor John Haaven of the Lake Region Press noted that the issue had become more complicated when the prosecutor's office and the local judges involved in such cases told people who were found guilty to talk with the newspaper if they wanted their names out of the court report.

"And in the door they come . . . to talk, to bribe and threaten," Haaven wrote. "We are the hope of last resort. By and large the individuals seemingly don't blame themselves for what happened, they don't blame the prosecutors and they don't blame the judge. But the newspaper they blame for the public ridicule, possible loss of jobs 'when the boss finds out' and; in some instances, for the thought of suicide.

"It's our belief," he continues, "that once a person is arrested, prosecuted and sentenced it's too late. Once convicted the person lost all rights to anonymity. We believe the officials involved should prosecute and pass sentence with the understanding that by so doing part of the penalty imposed includes printing the name in the local paper's court news section. They should not, in our opinion, give the guilty any false hopes by suggesting they talk to the newspapers to prevent their names from being published."

The same situation applies to all offenses heard in county or district court divisions. The newspaper is not required to publish the names of offenders. The court is required to make public the results of cases because court records are open by law. As a result, it is easy for those who represent the courts or law enforcement to pass the responsibility to publish or not to publish on to the newspaper. But Haaven has an answer to that situation as well:

"If you have a story to tell," he advises, "tell it to the store manager, the prosecutor and the judge. They are the only people in a position to keep your name out of the paper by either dropping the charges or finding you not guilty. While those chances may be slim, the chances of convincing the newspaper that your name should not be printed are none."

He also passes on a bit of proper advice to shoplifters: "The only sure way to keep your name out of the court news is to make sure you pay for everything you take."

We would add one similar thought: When you risk breaking the law you risk being apprehended, charged and convicted. And when you are found guilty you will have your name and offense published. There are no exceptions.

Meditation, Contemplation And Deep Thoughts

For several days last week the editor shared the solitude of Ontario's vast lake country with his son and several friends on a fishing expedition in the Pickle Lake area. As noted in last Monday's Times, the time was to be spent "in meditation and contemplation, thinking deep thoughts and reflecting on the complexities of society." If anything of interest or value was discovered, it would be shared upon return.

Actually, several things of interest or value were discovered or at least reaffirmed during the adventure, despite the fact that the profusion of hungry walleyes which kept attacking the lures left little time for uninterrupted meditation and contemplation.

Some of the great truths discovered include the following:

—The discomforts of an oak church pew for an hour on Sunday morning pale to insignificance in comparison to the agonies resulting from an aluminum boat seat and cramped positions during several hours of fishing.

—That the above agonies are willingly endured and patiently suffered when the rods are bent and the lines are pulsating with the frantic escape efforts of hooked fish.

—The rate of acceleration of a small aluminum boat away from a dock is directly proportional to the amount of gear being carried and the length of step from the dock to the boat seat.

—The arrival of a float plane to take you to your destination will be later than scheduled unless the late arrival is anticipated and you are unprepared to make the flight.

—That small northern pike fed from the dock have a definate preference for nightcrawlers over leeches, which shows at least a discriminating attitude if it says nothing about good taste.

—Despite the location and the type of habitat, the biggest fish will hit when least expected and be the most likely to escape. Similarly, the landing net is likely to be the most hopelessly entangled in other fishing equipment in the boat when it is most urgently needed to land one of those larger fish, and can be easily extricated only after the fish has accomplished its escape.

—The disappointment over the big one that got away is no less acute in the solitude of Ontario than it is in any other location.

—That 550-mile drive can be no more difficult than a jaunt across town when in the company of good people and the vehicle has no mechanical problems.

—That the first, most and largest fish will invariably be caught by the person with the least experience, most inadequate equipment and faulty technique.

—That the anticipation of the trip and the memories following rival the enjoyment of the actual participation.

—That there are few relationships that couldn't be improved by the sharing of an enjoyable outdoor experience, and few friendships that can't be deepened by jointly taking part in a fishing trip.

—That the comforts and familiarity of home are welcome and appreciated after spending time away from them.

—That if time and finances were available a person would be eager to turn around, go back, and experience the same trip all over again.

More Spending, More Taxes

If you were one of those who completed a W-4 federal tax form prior to the June 1 deadline announced by the Internal Revenue service, you may be acutely aware of the impact of federal spending on income taxes. The term "tax reform" should strike fear into the hearts of every taxpaying individual or business in the nation, for in the federal vernacular, reform almost always translates into increase.

"An interesting question is why we need tax increases," notes William Orzechowski, director of federal budget policy for the U.S. chamber of commerce. "After all, tax revenues are slated to rise by more than $70 billion in 1988 and by more than $320 billion over the next four years without any tax hikes. These tax revenue increases are due simply to the normal growth of the economy and the business tax increases included in the recent tax reform bill . . . Our economy will generate a natural bounty over the next four years of $320 billion in new tax revenues, yet Congress wants at least $100 billion more."

Reason for the push for tax increases is straight forward, Orzechowski notes. The senators and representatives can't stop spending. They want to increase federal spending by $250 billion from 1987 to 1991—an increase of 25 per cent in the entire 1987 $1 trillion budget.

What happened to the budget freeze that was so highly touted only a few months ago? It appears mostly forgotten. Congress has overshot its deficit-reduction goals by an average of $48 billion each year for the past six years, Orzechowski states. It will miss the Gramm-Rudman-Hollings deficit target of $108 billion by at least $30 billion by Congress' own admission, but most forecasters project a 1988 deficit of at least $170 billion—a $62 billion overshot.

There is a definite need to push our elected federal senators and representatives to reduce spending. "This means saying no to Congress when it comes to raising taxes in the 1988 budget resolution," Orzechowski says. "Past experience shows that more taxes simply mean more spending.

"Congress will have an opportunity to vote in favor of fiscally responsible measures in mid-July in conjunction with the debt ceiling bill. We must convince Congress to repair our leaky budget process."

YOUR TIMES

by Ray Bohn
Commissioner of Labor & Industry

One of the least noted, but potentially most significant, accomplishments of the 1987 Legislative Session in House File 913: The Workers' Compensation Bill.

This new law will greatly simplify the complicated procedures used in workers' compensation cases. For example, it will replace the cumbersome "triple-track" decision-making system with a more efficient "single-track." It will also allow the Department of Labor and Industry to refer complicated legal cases directly to settlement or compensation judges, and establish timelines for prompt payments of benefits and medical bills.

The new law will also reduce time needed to resolve claims, as well as reduce litigation — both of which should reduce the overall cost of workers' compensation in Minnesota.

Perhaps as important as the bill itself, is the method by which the bill was developed.

Throughout last winter, representatives of employers, organized labor, insurers and self-insurers, trial lawyers, medical care providers, and government, met to discuss workers' compensation issues.

Hundreds of person-hours were devoted in an effort to understand conflicting viewpoints and agree on compromises. One meeting, in which all parties were determined to reach an agreement before going home, lasted non-stop from 2 p.m. until midnight.

The results? By early March, we had a strong workers' compensation bill, which was supported by all participants. In May, the bill passed unanimously in both the House and the Senate — a new precedent in this controversial area.

In the past, differing interests developed workers' compensation administrative system. They cooperated and compromised with other groups, and finally presented a single legislative proposal.

This year we did not attempt to resolve the difference of opinion on workers' compensation costs. However, the cooperation by employers, labor, and other groups during the 1987 session has established a framework for a new round of discussions, hopefully leading to lower workers' compensation costs in the future.

Letters to the Editor

To The Editor:

I would like to take this opportunity to report that the 1987 Legislature provided $19 million in funding to continue the RIM program. RIM provides Minnesota with improved natural resources and expands our fish and wildlife habitat.

Since we established RIM in 1986, the DNR has initiated 60 fish and wildlife projects, covering all areas of the state. These projects have the support of approximately 40 fishing, hunting, trapping and environmental groups including Ducks Unlimited, Minnesota Deerhunters association, Pheasants Forever, Minnesota State Archery association and the Izaak Walton League.

The $19 million will be split into two large parcels. Ten million dollars will go to the DNR to buy and improve land for fish and wildlife habitat, continue the aspen recycling program, set aside native prairie lands and continue the critical habitat private sector matching account. Nine million will go to the department of agriculture for the conservation reserve program, which takes marginal lands out of crop production to create wildlife habitat and improve water quality.

The RIM program is one of our most popular programs, as well as one of our most important. The new funding will continue our beneficial program.

Sincerely,
LeRoy Stumpf

Pharmacists OK Taking Tobacco Off Their Shelves

Minnesota State Pharmaceutical association (MSPhA) approved a non-binding resolution at its 103rd convention and annual meeting in Duluth, encouraging the removal of cigarettes and other tobacco products from pharmacy shelves. The resolution reads, "MSPhA recommends that the sale of tobacco products in the pharmacy be discontinued; and encourages a smoke free environment."

The resolution was passed unanimously by the MSPhA's House of Delegates, a representative policy-making group comprised of 87 pharmacists selected by MSPhA's membership.

"It's a real positive step by the association," said Howard Juni, newly elected association president. "You'll see a sizeable number of pharmacies taking these products off of their shelves."

The pharmacists reason that mounting scientific evidence has substantiated that cigarette smoking and the presence in the body of other tobacco-related substances can interfere with pharmaceutical therapy as well as worsen existing health problems. In addition, pharmacists felt that as health professionals they are in a unique and important position to help smokers who want to quit.

"Tobacco can interfere harmfully with some prescription drugs," added William E. Bond, executive director for the pharmaceutical association. The 103-year-old professional society of the pharmacists of Minnesota has nearly 2,000 members among the 3,000 practicing pharmacists in Minnesota.

Tourism Industry Has Impact On State Economies

U.S. Travel Data Center reports 27 million trips were taken in Minnesota during 1985. According to their data, the travel and tourism industry generated $5.3 billion in spending — meaning $278 million in tax revenue and 109,000 people working.

Tourism promotion by Minnesota remained at approximately the same level this year as it was last year. A total of $5.15 million will be spent this year on tourism promotion.

A breakdown of tourism promotion costs per inquiry indicates that each inquiry cost $10 in 1985. The number of inquiries are expected to reach record numbers this year and the promotion cost per inquiry is expected to cost less than $2 an inquiry.

The Minnesota Tourism Office expects a record number of inquiries from its multi-media promotion of tourist activities this summer. The current campaign, according to a report in the "Minnesota Magazine," inviting orders for the Minnesota Explorer, a 24-page full-color newspaper filled with travel news, is 53 per cent ahead of last year in generating inquiries, even though the budget remains essentially the same.

This will be the second summer for the Minnesota Explorer. Last year 575,000 copies were printed; this year, 725,000. Last year's campaign generated 610,000 inquiries, and 60 per cent of the contacts resulted in Minnesota travel.

The marketing campaign is focused in Midwest cities: Indianapolis, Chicago, Des Moines, St. Louis, Kansas City, Omaha and Sioux Falls, in addition to the entire state of Minnesota. The out-of-state advertising is designed to bring tourists to Minnesota, while the in-state advertising encourages Minnesotans to spend their vacations in the state.

MEA Supportive Of School District Reorganization

Minnesota Education association has called for extensive school district reorganization to expand program offerings in the state's smaller, financially troubled school districts.

Releasing the fourth in a series of documents developed to stimulate public debate on education issues, MEA called program disparities between school districts "the major obstacle we must overcome if we are to move beyond rhetoric and into positive action to achieve educational excellence in Minnesota's public schools.

"We must create school districts with enrollments that will support comprehensive programs for every student who attends a public school in Minnesota," the report states.

Many of the state's 434 school districts simply do not have a student base to support programs in advanced mathematics, advanced sciences, foreign language or fine arts, MEA President Robert Astrup explained.

"In fact, many do not have the resources to support the basic core curriculum recommended by the state department of education," he said. "Yet all the recent education reform reports have stressed that the students must be exposed to a broad, sophisticated curriculum if they are to successfully compete in the global marketplace of the 21st Century."

Small districts with inadequate revenue continue to survive for a number of reasons, including (1) below average salaries, (2) fewer staff than suggested by the state department of education, (3) additional revenue from locally approved levies, (4) interest income, (5) reduction of fund balances, (6) sharing arrangements with other districts and (7) not meeting the state department of education minimum program requirements, MEA stated, citing a report by the department of education.

MEA stressed that teacher rights must be protected by any reorganization agreement. "Some of Minnesota's best teachers teach in smaller school districts," the report states. "Yet hundreds have lost their jobs through pairing agreements which did not consider teacher rights."

The report, "Reorganization: The Key to Educational Excellence," is the fourth in MEA's "Sharpening Our Competitive Edge: Educating a New Generation" series. The reports are designed to facilitate MEA's campaign to make Minnesota's schools the measurably best in the nation.

Public Safety Says: Same Bus Routes Tougher Streets

Residents upset about traffic noise may not be pleased, but based on a need for safety, city school bus routes will not be changed.

Residents upset about damage to streets caused by heavy bus traffic, however, will be pleased to hear that the Thief River Falls public safety committee will recommend to the city council that residential streets, capable of carrying only three-ton limits, will be beefed up in areas where construction will take place this summer.

Thief River Falls public safety committee met Thursday noon to discuss concerns raised by residents living in areas affected by the 1987 street and utility project. Most of those concerns raised earlier this year at a hearing on the street project asked whether city residents should be assessed for repairs to streets damaged by school buses and heavy truck traffic.

Police Chief Ken Froschheiser asked Hank Hallstrom, Frank Hamerlinck, and Fred Mykleby of the school district whether it was possible to keep school bus traffic on state aid streets only. (State aid streets are capable of handling heavier traffic than residential streets.)

Mykleby, supervisor of transportation for the school district, said present school bus routes take into account safety factors and buses have no choice but to travel on some residential streets. Mykleby said bus drivers have been warned not to stray from their prescribed routes.

That point will be carried across to bus drivers again this fall. A representative of the law enforcement center was invited to attend the meeting to enforce the idea that law enforcement personnel have been asked to watch the routes and if a driver is spotted in an area that has not been accepted, he or she will be turned in to Mykleby. Mykleby said if a driver is caught, "he's through."

Eight blocks of streets around Knox elementary school will probably have an extra layer of bituminous added to allow for the heavier traffic. Those streets include Kendall avenue from First to Nora streets and stretches of Hughes street and Markley avenue. The residents along those streets will not be assessed for the extra layering to the project, although the extra layering may cost as much as $3,000 per block.

Ron Lindberg, consultant to the city from Stewart and Walker engineering, admitted it was probably impossible to determine if school buses were responsible for ruts on Kendall or nearby streets frequently traveled by buses which can weigh a maximum average between 16,000 and 17,000 pounds.

While discussion centered primarily about streets in the Knox elementary school area, discussion drifted to Duluth avenue and Zeh street, where heavy truck traffic is also causing some problems.

Members of the public safety committee plan to meet with Hartz Wholesale and other businesses where trucks load and unload by using residential streets.

Refresher For Cosmetologists Planned In TRF

Licensed cosmetologists in Minnesota will not be eligible for license renewal unless they meet certain qualifications. The Thief River Falls technical institute is offering another 40-hour refresher course which will meet the needs of those cosmetologists not employed in the profession.

The class will run Monday through Friday, July 13-17, from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. in the cosmetology clinic at the AVTI. Instructor will be Maxine Mottram and tuition is $80, which includes supplies needed. Some basic equipment is needed and students will perform professional skills on models or fellow students. Due to recent changes in Minnesota cosmetology laws, an update covering those changes will be given.

The class will consist of the theory of science and demonstration involving the use of chemicals. Some of the topics covered will be permanent waving, chemical relaxing, hair coloring and manicuring with emphasis on artificial nail application.

Pre-registration is required by July 1 for class planning. Class size is limited. Contact the Adult Extension, Thief River Falls Technical Institute, Highway One East, Thief River Falls, MN 56701, phone 681-5424 or toll free in Minnesota 1-800-222-2884.

Annual TRF Coke Pro-Am Golf Tournament Held Friday

Tim Delmore

Club Pros, Amateurs Team Up

Near-perfect weather conditions Friday greeted the participants in the second annual Coca-Cola Pro-Am tournament at the Thief River Golf Club.

Russ Nelson of Fargo was the top finisher among the 11 visiting area club pros who were vying for cash prizes. He had rounds of 35-34 for a 69. A three-way tie developed for second place as Dave Kingsrud of Fargo, John Isaac of Winnipeg and Steve Christian of Grand Forks all went 36-35 for a 71.

In the team competition, where the pros were grouped with local amateurs, first place honors went to a team headed by pro Greg Mireault of Moorhead. He was joined by Tim Milliard, Dave Carlson, Luther Anderson and Karl Eriksson (Bagley). They went 94-91, 185.

Second place group included pro Dan Hunter of Winnipeg, plus Tim Delmore, Arnold Carriere and Tom Greelis. They went 96-91, 187.

Third place finish belonged to a group headed by pro Gordon Williamson of Detroit Lakes, who was golfing with Eric Charlson, Jan Nordin, Jeff Hendrickson and B.J. Champagne (Brooks). They went 95-94, 189.

Fourth place group included pro Bill Iverson of Fargo and amateurs Jeff Liden, Jim Carlson, Bill Penning and Mark Christopherson (Crookston). They went 95-95, 190.

A long-drive contest started the day's activity. Paul O'Leary of Grand Forks won the pro division, while Jim Hellie won the amateur division.

Other club pros on hand included Gordy Williams of Detroit Lakes, Mike Gottfred of Winnipeg, plus Steve Weidner and Bill Iverson of the Fargo area. In addition, shortage of pros on hand prompted tournament officials to list Tom Williams of Thief River Falls as the pro in his group for the team competition.

Among the Thief River Falls golfers who participated in the event, photographed at random by The Times, were Tim Delmore, L.L. Jones, Bill Corliss, Eric Charlson and Keith Hoverstad.

Moorhead Blues Take Two Close Games From TRF

Moorhead Blues are usually a measuring stick for Ninth District American Legion baseball teams. To reach the state tournament, you more than likely have to beat the likes of the Blues, who have a habit of winning district titles on a regular basis.

Thief River Falls players met the test Saturday in the first Ninth District Class AA match-up of the season for Post 117 -- an afternoon doubleheader against Moorhead on the fairgrounds diamond. They proved they could play with the Blues, but Thief River Falls still must show that Post 117 can beat Moorhead after losing a pair of close 10-8, 3-2 decisions.

Coach Mark Lundin's Thief River Falls team, 4-3 for the year, has a 5:30 p.m. doubleheader at Grafton tonight (Monday) and will host East Grand Forks in a key 7 p.m. Ninth District Class AA contest Tuesday at the fairgrounds diamond.

Moorhead did nearly all of its damage with an eight-run fourth inning en route to a high-scoring 10-8 victory in Game 1.

The Blues trailed 3-2 going into the fourth, but sent 12 batters to the plate that inning. They combined three hits with three walks, a hit-batsman and two Thief River Falls errors for the eight runs off two pitchers. Only half of them were earned.

A one-out error started it, followed by a hit-batsman and a walk to load the bases. No. 2 hitter Brain Carew then stroked a two-run double to left field. Walks to Brain Amundson and Daren Stigman reloaded the bases, prompting a pitching change from Kory Joppru to Tom Knoff. Brent Tiecken greeted Knoff with a run-producing single. An error made it 7-3, then a two-out triple into the right field corner by Greg Gess clinched the victory.

Thief River Falls tried to come back, scoring twice in the bottom of the fourth on three base hits and a pair of walks. Chris Nelson picked up an RBI on an infield ground-out and Knoff contributed an RBI single into right field.

Three more Thief River Falls runs in the fifth tightened the gap as Rob Coltom drew a lead-off walk and Jason Lane had a one-out double to deep left-center, scoring Coltom. Knoff singled home Lane, and later scored on a Moorhead throwing error as catcher Doug Trieber threw the ball into center field on a stolen base attempt by Joppru, who had singled.

Thief River Falls put two runners on base in the bottom of the seventh to make it interesting as Nelson bounced a two-out single into center field and Knoff singled to left. But Stigman, the third Moorhead pitcher of the game, got out of the jam when Joppru was retired on a fly ball to left field.

Moorhead started with a 1-0 second inning lead on a single by Tiecken, a stolen base and an RBI single to right by Trieber. The Blues made it 2-0 in the third on a lead-off walk issued to chad Mattson, and a one-out single to left by Stigman.

Thief River Falls went ahead 3-2 in the bottom of the third on a one-out double by Nelson and a two-run home run over the left field fence by Knoff. Newcomer Darla Rokke of Newfolden then reached base on a two-out error and scored on a double to center field by Mike Anderson, another new squad addition.

Knoff was 3-for-4 with four RBI in the game. Joppru, Anderson and Nelon all had two hits as Thief River Falls posted an 11-8 base hit edge. Mattson and Tiecken both had two hits for Moorhead. The errors were even at two-apiece. Joppru took the loss, giving up eight runs on five hits, striking out two and walking five. Knoff surrendered two hits on three hits and two walks. He fanned three. Brad Wiess started on the mound for Moorhead. He gave way to Mike Brunsberg in the fourth, and the lefty was the winner. Stigman came on in relief in the fifth. The three Moorhead pitchers walked four and struck out six.

Thief River Falls out-hit Moorhead again in Game 2, but didn't out-score the Blues in th 3-2 nightcap.

Knoff, after going nearly four full innings of relief in the opener, went the route in the second game, scattering five hits while striking out eight and walking only two.

He gave up two second inning runs when Stu Hoganson doubled to right field and Stu Sirjord had a two-out RBI single to left. Sirjord stole second and scored on a single to right by Rick Eidness.

Moorhead scored again in the fifth without getting the ball out of th infield as Sirjord beat out an infield single, moved up on a sacrifice bunt by Eidness and a wild pitch, then scored on a suicide squeeze bunt by Gary Rath.

Thief Rver Falls made a game of it in the sixth as Nelson hit a lead-off double to deep center field, and was joined on the bases by Joppru, who had a one-out single to left. An infield ground-out by Rokke scored Nelson, and a single to left by Anderson scored Joppru.

Another bottom of the seventh threat developed when Dean DuChamp had a first-pitch single to left. But a double play ball hit by Mike Bendickson took DuChamp off the bases. Lane got on via an error, but Stigman, ih used in relief again, ended the game with a strike-out.

Nelson was 2-for-3, as was the Blues' Sirjord. Brian Amundson was the winning pitcher. He struck out four and did not walk a batter before giving way to Stigman with one out in the seventh.

TRF 16-Year-Olds Win 3 Of 4 Doubleheader Games

Thief River Falls VFW 16-year-olds split a Wednesday baseball doubleheader against the Grand Forks Reds, then swept a Thursday twinbill against Bemidji to stand 5-1 for the year.

Grand Forks came up with three successive singles in the top of the seventh inning for a tie-breaking run that produced a 7-6 victory in Game 1 Wednesday. The hits were even at eight-apiece, and Grand Forks was charged with four of the game's five errors, but the Reds won it with a five-run second, then single runs in the fourth and seventh. Thief River Falls did its scoring in the first three innings, getting one in the first, three in the second and two more in the third for a 6-5 lead.

Sean Myhrer was 2-for-3 and Jared Erickson went 2-for-4 for Post 2793 in the opener. Hunter Boldt was the starting Thief River Falls pitcher, but Jason Lane, who came on in relief in the fourth, took the loss.

Thief River Falls rounded with an 11-1 five-inning second game victory over Grand Forks. Myhrer, Erickson and Casey Johnson were all 2-for-3 in the winners' 12-hit attack that included a two-run first inning, a five-run third and a fourth-run fifth. Boldt was the starting and winning pitcher, scattering four hits. The Reds had two errors; Post 2793 had just one.

Coach Scott McKeever's Thief River Falls team beat Bemidji 5-4 and 14-4 Thursday. Post 2793 carried a 5-1 lead into the top of the seventh in the opener when Bemidji scored three times and still had the bases loaded before Johnson came on in relief to strike out the final batter and preserve the win. Dean DuChamp was the winner, striking out 10 before running into the seventh inning trouble. Thief River Falls had a 7-5 base hit edge, with Erickson going 3-for-3. The winners played errorless ball; Bemidji had three errors.

Rob Coltom was 3-for-4, while DuChamp and Boldt both went 2-for-2 in the 14-4 five-inning second game Thief River Falls win over Bemidji. Johnson was the winning pitcher. Thief River Falls out-hit Bemidji 10-3. Post 2793 had four errors; Bemidji picked up three. Thief River Falls started with a four-run inning, then had five-run frames in the third and fourth.

Thief River Falls is scheduled to host the Moorhead Gold today (Wednesday) in a 5 p.m. doubleheader at the fairgrounds diamond, site of the Grand Forks and Bemidji twinbills.

Nelson Resigns As Baseball Coach

Rick Nelson has resigned from his position as head baseball coach at Northland Community College, a post he has held for the past three years.

Nelson, however, remains as the Pioneers' head football coach and as Northland athletic director.

It was the time-consuming demands that came with the three job titles that prompted Nelson's decision to resign his baseball duties.

"I thought it was in the best interest for everyone if I take next spring off," said Nelson. "That would allow us to do a better job promoting our overall program throughout northwestern Minnesota and eastern North Dakota."

Nelson acknowledged it was also probably in the best interest of the many multiple-sport athletes that attend Northland that they have different head coach for each sport — someone who can recruit and coach a specific sport instead of trying to juggle the jobs.

Position of Northland head baseball coach will also include duties as an assistant football coach and some parttime teaching at the school.

Nelson indicated he could still serve the baseball program in the role of assistant coach if needed.

Pepsi Babe Ruth Team Beats RLF

Jeff Feragen was 2-for-3 and drove in three runs Wednesday to lead Thief River Falls Pepsi-Cola Bottling to an 11-7 Babe Ruth baseball win at Red Lake Falls.

Dave Stengrim, Dan Hoffard, Einar Langelett and Chris Rux also had two hits apiece as the Thief River Falls 14-15-year-olds doubled Red Lake Falls in the hit department 12-6 and played errorless ball while the losers picked up three errors.

Nelson Pitches No-Hitter

Thief River Falls righthander Chris Nelson pitched a no-hitter Friday as Post 117 shut out Roseau 8-0 in an American Legion baseball game at the fairgrounds diamond.

Nelson struck out 10 and walked three in the seven inning affair, an unannounced make-up game prompted by an early season postponement when Roseau qualified for the Class A Minnesota state high school baseball tournament.

Thief River Falls collected only five hits, but was helped out by five Roseau errors in scoring three times in the third inning, once in the fourth and four more times in the fifth. Thief River Falls was charged with one error.

Thief River Falls Prep Babe Ruth baseball 13-year-olds split a Friday doubleheader against East Grand Forks on the fairgrounds diamond, losing the opener 9-4, but winning the nightcap 2-1.

Pete Antonenko had three hits in the opener, and Kelly Swanson struck out eight batters, but Thief River Falls still came up short on the scoreboard. East Grand Forks had a 9-6 base hit edge, and Thief River Falls was charged with four of the game's six errors.

A two-hit pitching effort by Pete Balmer keyed the second-game Thief River Falls victory. Darrin Wald had an RBI single for the winners, who had just three hits themselves. There were just three errors in the game — two charged to Thief River Falls.

Thief River Falls, 4-3 for the year hosts Crookston Wednesday in a 10 a.m. doubleheader.

Women's Slow Pitch

Wilson Brothers beat the Thief River Falls Merchants 7-2 thanks in part to a three-run home run by Dawn Carr, then edged Pepsi-Cola Bottling 12-11 on a tie-breaking RBI single by Sandy Von Walde in the bottom of the eighth inning to complete a Wednesday night sweep in the Thief River Falls Women's Slow Pitch Softball League.

Darcy Larson had a three-run home run for Pepsi-Cola Bottling in the extra-inning loss to Wilson Brothers.

VFW also won twice,—beating McDonald's 7-4 and drilling Geno's Body Shop 23-3 in a three-inning rout that included a grand slam home run by Linda Rux, plus a homer and a triple from Dorene Larson.

Senator Proposes Major Changes In Medicare Payments

U.S. Senator Dave Durenberger has proposed a series of sweeping changes in the Medicare payment system designed to end what he called "an illogical and unconscionable bias against rural hospitals."

Durenberger's proposal, introduced last week in the Senate, would make a number of changes in the Medicare payment system equalizing the treatment of urban and rural hospitals. The most important of those changes would eliminate the current policy of compensating urban and rural hospitals under different formulas, replacing that system with a single national rate.

"The present Medicare payment system ignores the fact that small rural hospitals compete for doctors and nurses, buy from the same supplies and have other costs comparable to big city hospitals," Durenberger said. "And rural hospitals also have to contend with a depressed economy and an aging and often declining population.

"Rural health care is in trouble," he said. "Four rural hospitals in Minnesota have closed in just the last three years and 36 more are in serious financial distress."

Nationally, the senator said, more than half of the 71 hospitals which closed in 1986 were in rural areas.

Durenberger called his proposal "the single most important piece of legislation affecting rural hospitals since the passage of the 'Hill-Burton Act' in the 1950's. It would end the current policy of treating rural hospitals like second class citizens."

Under the current Medicare payment system, rural hospitals are paid substantially less for performing the same procedures performed in urban hospitals; under the assumption that expenses in rural hospitals are also substantially less.

"But," Durenberger said, "the facts are that the cost difference is not nearly as great as the difference in payment rates. In some cases, costs are actually higher."

As an example, Durenberger said, Medicare pays the Douglas County hospital in Alexandria $2,233 for a procedure similar to the prostate surgery performed on President Reagan in January. Hositals in the Twin Cities receive $3,640 for performing the same surgery — a difference of more than 50 per cent.

But, actual cost differences between urban and rural hospitals are not nearly that great, Durenberger said. Hourly wages for registered nurses are only about 7.4 per cent higher in the Twin Cities than they are in Alexandria. And some expenses are even higher in smaller hospitals because of reversed economies of scale or high transportation costs in purchasing and receiving supplies.

Rural hospital administrators in Minnesota and other states have cited the Medicare payment differential as one of the principal reasons a number of rural hospitals are in danger of closing. In recent months, task forces of the Minnesota Medical association, Minnesota Hospital association, and Minnesota Health Care Coalition have all recommended that the urban-rural Medicare rate differential be eliminated.

Durenberger's proposed "Medicare Rural Payment Equity Act of 1987" includes five major provisions:

(1) Elimination of the current payment differential between urban and rural hospitals and establishment of a single national payment rate beginning on Oct. 1, 1990. The changes would be phased in over three years, gradually closing the gap beginning Oct. 1, 1988.

(2) For fiscal year 1988, the current gap between urban and rural hospitals would be narrowed by granting rural hospitals a 3.0 per cent increase in Medicare rates, compared to 2.2 per cent given urban hospitals.

(3) Technical changes would be made as soon as possible to more accurately reflect wage indices used by Medicare in making payments to hospitals. One change would take into account the generally lower wages paid to nursing home employees where hospitals and nursing homes are operated as a single facility. Many such facilities are in rural areas.

(4) Criteria would be expanded so more rural hospitals would seek to become qualified as "Sole Community Provider Hospitals." This class of hospitals, serving relatively isolated rural areas, receives special treatment under the Medicare payment system. Current "Sole Community Provider Hospitals" in Minnesota include those in International Falls, Grand Marais, Thief River Falls and Big Fork.

(5) Medicare's "outlier" program — which compensates hospitals for costly cases — would be changed to more accurately reflect benefits from the program. All hospitals now pay into the program at equal rates, while urban hospitals receive higher payments since they tend to treat a larger number of costly cases.

'87 Legislature Approved Flood Management Fund

Senator LeRoy Stumpf of Plummer reports 1987 Legislature approved funds for grants for flood management projects along both sides of the Red river.

In 1981 and 1985 the DNR received money to relocate agricultural dikes along the Red river. Since then, with the problems of Minnesota and North Dakota, the dikes have never been permanent. In order to solve the problem, the capital budget bonding bill allows any unused relocation money to be used for flood management projects or for a study of the feasibility of establishing a coordinated diking system along the river. The DNR will make the grants available to the Lower Red River Watershed management board to work with the state, North Dakota and local water management organizations.

"This will enable us to get an adequate assessment of the value of dikes so that we can help those living along the Red river. Of course, we need to make sure there is money left from previous allocations, but if there is, we can do what should have been done a long time ago," Senator Stumpf said.

NOON LIONS CLUB in Thief River Falls installed officers at its meeting Wednesday at the American Legion club rooms. # Local Citizens Receive Citizen Commendation

Thief River Falls city officials presented citizen commendations to two local men, recognizing their heroic and successful efforts to save a family from a boating accident this spring.

Also Tuesday night, the city council attempted to defuse a disagreement between the city and Northwest Regional Development commission over two matters involving the regional revolving loan fund.

John Rausch and John Boman received citizen commendations from the Mayor of Thief River Falls, Bob Carlson, and Police Chief Kenneth Froschheiser, Tuesday night.

Rausch and Boman were fishing along the bank of the Red Lake river May 16 when they saw a family of three — a father and two young children — capsize a canoe. Rausch and Boman called out to the people to see if they needed assistance. The father, Frank Knoll, had become tangled in fishing gear when the canoe capsized and was unable to assist his two children. Boman quickly swam out to them and pulled them to Rausch who had waded into the river waist deep. Rausch then carried members of the family to the river bank.

Mayor Carlson said such actions by citizens deserve special recognition and thanks of the community.

Helen Jurchen and John Carpenter, representatives of the Northwest Regional Development commission, were told by Mayor Carlson that the situation involving the regional revolving loan fund and a recent application by Behavior Dynamics was blown out of proportion.

Mayor Carlson said the city does not, in any way, want to involve itself in a dispute with the NWRDC. Mayor Carlson said a request for specific information by the city was misunderstood by a representative of NWRDC.

Mayor Carlson said the city simply made a request to determine whether personal guarantees were required of all previous loan requests. Carlson was referring to the loan application made by Behavior Dynamics, a local company attempting to market a device developed by Dr. Steve Levinson. The loan application was never completed. Behavior Dynamics did not provide the required personal guarantees.

Mayor Carlson said he saw nothing wrong with requiring personal guarantees of loan applicants and did not intend to get into any controversy with the NWRDC.

Mayor Carlson called upon Don Stewart, community development director, to explain what had happened and why the city was concerned.

Stewart explained that the misunderstanding probably began when the city discovered it was the only community committed to the regional revolving loan fund which had actually provided funds. Stewart said previous directors at the NWRDC had discussed the loan fund with the city but the city was led to believe other cities had already made

Bond Election On AVTI Projects Set For July 28

Resolution authorizing a special election July 28 on the issuance of $330,000 in general obligation bonds for Thief River Falls technical institute construction was adopted Monday morning at a special meeting of the School District 564 board of education.

Question to be on the ballot July 28 is: "Shall Independent School District No. 564 borrow the sum of three hundred and thirty thousand dollars ($330,000) for the purpose of the remodeling, repairing, improving, adding to, betterment, finishing, equipping, and improvement of its technical institute, both at its main campus and at its aviation facility, at a public sale within the limitations prescribed by law?"

Polling places will be at St. Hilaire, Franklin school, AVTI, Lincoln and Northrop schools. The bond issue is intended to providde the local share of needed funds to construct classroom facilities for the aviation program at the regional airport here and remodel and expand facilities at the main campus. Total project cost is $2,115,300 with the state providing the remainder of funding beyond the $330,000.

Election judges appointed in the resolution authorizing the bond election are as follows: AVTI — Cindy Cedergren, Peggy Lawrence and Sharon Anderson; Lincoln — Sue Lindemoen, Vivan Brekke and Marion Cork; Franklin — Faye Rouland, Della Burstad and Christi Halbasch; Northrop — Susan Brekke, Yvonne Benedict and Barb Martin; and St. Hilaire — Carolyn Haugen, Bonnie Pederson and Carol Moschner. Alternates are Ida Frodahl, Mariann Stark, Arlys Twistol and Becky Rogalla.

The board also approved participation by School District 564 students in the enrollment options program. The options program permits students in this district to attend in other districts and students in other districts to attend school here.

OTH-B Decision Delayed Until Later In July

OTH-B radar site selection decision by the Air Force has been delayed until sometime in July.

Kevin Gilmartin, public affairs specialist at Hanscom Air Force Base, said June 29 marked the end of a required 30-day waiting period. According to regulations no decision can be made by the air force until 30 days after the final environmental impact statement is released.

Due to the nature and sensitivity of the document it will take a long time to complete, Gilmartin said. That document will spell out what the air force will do in the next phase of its OTH-B study.

Last week, Don Stewart, community development director in Thief River Falls, told The Times that members of the Army Corps of Engineers were confirming the existence of a list of individuals who have expressed interest in selling their land. According to Stewart, those individuals represent availability of 5,000 acres of land. A total of 2,500 acres of land is needed for the project.

Gilmartin said the document will probably not specify which land could be used or the land owners willing to sell their land. It will, however, include information on the general area and technical aspects of the project.

Gilmartin said the project is still in its early stages. A request for funding is in the 1988 fiscal budget. A decision on funding will probably not be made until October. A decision on construction will not be made by Congress until 1989.

TRF Loses Bus Service Because Of Too Few Riders

Minnesota Stage line bus service has decided to discontinue service to Thief River Falls because of low ridership.

Low ridership, which has been a problem plaguing other attempts to provide Thief River Falls with bus service, has been cited as the reason Rose and Jack Hendreks of Moorhead, owners of Minnesota Stage line, decided to discontinue service to Thief River Falls.

"What concerns me most is that we are losing some of our public transportation," said Sue Lillevold, executive director of the Thief River Falls chamber of commerce.

Thief River Falls chamber of commerce has been the agent for the bus service, provided office space, a telephone and staff persons. Lillevold said the chamber of commerce was given a small commission for these services, but not enough to be profitable.

The intent of the assistance was to provide Thief River Falls and surrounding communities with a public service, Lillevold said.

Minnesota Stage Line began service to Thief River Falls after Red River Trails bus service discontinued service. Red River Trails also discontinued service because of low ridership. Lillevold estimated that Minnesota Stage line has provided bus service to Thief River Falls since last July, but just hasn't been able to make it profitable.

Lillevold said the Hendreks are looking for funding to continue service, but have not made a decision to continue service. Minnesota Stage line's route began in Moorhead, traveled up highway 75 to Crookston, and then traveled to Red Lake Falls, Thief River Falls and then followed the same route back to Moorhead.

Lillevold said she was sorry to see the bus service leave Thief River Falls.

Encourage Exhibitors To Get Ready For Fair

"Be an important part of the county fair — be an exhibitor," is the message brought by superintendents handling exhibits for the Pennington county fair in Thief River Falls July 15-19. Entry day will be Thursday, July 16, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. for 4-H club exhibitors, until 4:30 p.m. for flower exhibitors in the open class and until 6 p.m. for all other open class exhibitors.

Details on entries in each department are contained in the county fair premium list which has recently been printed at the Times office and will be available at all grocery stores in the area.

Now is the time for exhibitors to plan and prepare their exhibits for the fair if they have not already done so, the department superintendents note. Exhibitors indicate a pride in their workmanship or production talents and gain lessons in showmanship and sportsmanship by their participation.

Each department has specific rules to be observed by exhibitors and these are also listed in the premium list. Entry of exhibits on entry day will be quickest and easiest if the exhibitors prepare a list of class and lot numbers for their entries and bring it along when they make their entries at the farir. This will eliminate the necessity of workers determining class and lot to which entries should be assigned.

Livestock exhibitors need to notify the department superintendent by July 8 of their intent to exhibit so that arrangement for stalls or pens can be made. Pennington county fair permits any livestock producers to exhibit providing the producer's home county would also permit Pennington county producers to exhibit at that county's fair.

Either registered or grade livestock may be exhibited at the fair and exhibitors must provide their own straw, hay and other feed. State health regulations for livestock will be enforced by the state health department and the fair association's official veterinarian. Beef, dairy cattle and dairy goats need a negative brucellosis test within 90 days of the fair or come from a brucellosis-free herd. Swine need a negative brucellosis test within 90 days of the fair and a negative pseudorabies test within 30 days of the fair.

In the poultry division, feed and litter for poultry and rabbits is provided and the feeding is done by department personnel. Poultry, except waterfowl, need a certificate as being from pullorum-free stock. Kermit Finstad, superintendent of the poultry and rabbit department

PENNINGTON COUNTY 4-H club members are getting ready for the annual county fair July 15-19, and persons who will be entering open class competition should also be preparing their exhibits. Heather Olson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Myles Olson and a member of the Kratka 4-H club, is shown with her younger sister Katie as she works in the childcraft project. Entry day at the fair will be Thursday, July 16.

Deaths And Funerals

Martha Matheson, 91

Thief River Falls — Memorial services will be held Thursday at 1:30 p.m. at the Green Funeral home for Martha Matheson, 91, who died Friday at Glen Oaks nursing home in New London.

Rev. D. Paul Coen will officiate at the service, with Elaine Idso as organist and soloist. Musical selections will be "Abide With Me" and "How Great Thou Art." Interment will be in Greenwood cemetery, with the Green Funeral home in charge of arrangements.

Martha Matheson was born July 8, 1895, in Newfolden, the daughter of Lars and Karen Bjorsness. She graduated from Lincoln high school in Thief River Falls and received her elementary education at Moorhead state college, after which she taught school in Newfolden.

She married Amer Matheson Aug. 17, 1919, and she and her husband served as Pennington county superintendents of schools for over 30 years. He died in 1942.

She was a member of Trinity Lutheran church, where she was a Sunday school teacher. She lived at Valley home in Thief River Falls, Christian Rest home in Willmar, and Glen Oaks nursing home in New London.

Martha Matheson is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Allan (Marjorie) Johnson, Kandiyohi; six grandchildren; nine great-grandchildren; a sister, Lillian Bjorsness, Edina; and one brother, Edwin Bjrosness, Newfolden.

She was preceded in death by her parents, husband, and one son, Homer.

Stella Gran, 78

Mentor — Mrs. Oscar (Stella) Gran of Mentor died Tuesday at Riverview hospital in Crookston at the age of 78. Mass of Christian Burial will be held Friday at 11 a.m. at St. Lawrence Catholic church in Mentor.

There will be visitation Thursday at the Petterson Funeral home in Red Lake Falls after 3 p.m., with a wake service at 7:30 that evening at the funeral home. There will also be visitation at the church in Mentor for one hour prior to the service. Interment will be in the church cemetery. A complete obituary will be in Monday's edition of the Times.

Urge Exhibitors To Prepare For Pennington Fair

has added classes for pheasants, partridge, quail and peafowl to the poultry premium list. He can be contacted at 681-2966.

LaVerne Hamre (phone 681-5938) is livestock superintendent with Mike Sorteberg (phone 681-7172) as assistant. Simmental cattle breed has been added to the beef class and mules to the horse class, as well as mare with foal. Dorsett and Cheviot breeds have been added to the premium list in the sheep division. Dale Svendsgaard (681-1968) supervises sheep and swine division while Rick and Kathy Grandbois (964-5745) supervise the horse entries.

This will be the fourth year of an American Dairy Goat association sanctioned show at the Pennington county fair. Goats winning in this show earn points toward classification and rank. Alberta Johnson (phone 681-7797) will supervise the goat show.

An open class dog show supervised by Eloise Peterson (681-6047) will be conducted at 11 a.m. Saturday, July 18, or as soon as the 4-H club dog show is completed, whichever happens later. Classes added this year include graduate beginner in the obedience classes, junior open showmanship, senior open showmanship and adult showmanship.

Silas Hanson (phone 681-2217) manages the vegetable and grain show and Mrs. Lynn (Norma) Hanson (phone 378-4380) manages the flower show. Both divisions will be housed in the agriculture building (curling club building) and both superintendents advise exhibitors to check the premium list carefully for the required number of blooms, vegetables or type of grain samples to be brought for exhibit of each species.

All flower exhibits must be made by 4:30 p.m. Thursday, July 16, since judging will start at 7 p.m. while the blooms are still fresh. A county fair theme of "Bicentennial of the U.S. Constitution" has been selected for those who would like to enter floral arrangements. They can be entered with or without accessory items.

Gladys Harder (phone 681-2494), who manages the culinary department, reminds exhibitors of a new state ruling that jelly can no longer be in jars sealed with paraffin. Two-piece lids must be used since the paraffin seal does not adequately prevent mold growth and toxin development.

Special emphasis is being placed on quilts for the 1987 Pennington county fair. If the quilt top is done by hand it will be exhibited in the handiwork department under the direction of Mrs. Norris (Arlene) Thune (phone 681-1740). Quilt tops sewn by machine should be entered in the sewing division under the direction of Lorraine Steiger (phone 681-6234). Handiwork quilt tops include those that are embroidered, cross-stitched, candlewicked, hand appliqued or stenciled. Other quilted items such as vests, skirts, jackets or household items such as placemats, handbags, toaster covers and other items may be entered in the sewing division.

Arts and crafts department is supervised by Pat Dunning (phone 681-2725), and Mrs. Silas (Marge) Hanson (phone 681-2217) handles student art for entrants in the 12-18 age group. New divisions this year in student art are woodburning and an animal section in pencil drawing.

Senior citizen department will be supervised by Barb Sorenson (phone 964-5294), and in this department exhibitors have the option of marking their items for sale.

"Cat Festival" Plans In TRF Near Completion

feature with Arctco president Chris Twomey and separate sessions with other Arctco department heads. Roseau area artist Marv Espe will be on the grounds to draw his popular caricatures, there will be clowns in Arctic Cat colors and eating contest involving pies and watermelon will be held during the day.

Things will also be going up and coming down during the day. A parachute jump is planned with jumpers to land on the Arctco parking lot and three hot air balloons will ascend toward evening. During the day the Sno-Drifters snowmobile club will conduct snowmobile grass drag races across the road east of the Arctco plant. Special Wildcat 650 demonstrations will also be held, featuring Arctco's 1988 speed machine.

At 7 p.m. the local band "Saddle Tramp" will begin playing for the crowd's entertainment with a concert by the "Back Behind the Barn Boys" to begin around 9 p.m. When the band completes its program of entertainment and dance music, a 15-minute fireworks display will be held.

While there will be parking for a number of cars in the area of the Arctco plant, arrangements are also being made for a shuttle bus to run from the city sports arena parking lot to Arctco and back. Parking for campers and motor homes will also be made available at the Arctco grounds because the city campgrounds and facilities at the fairgrounds are expected to be filled.

While a number of events at the celebration will be free of charge, there will be a fee for the Friday fish fry, Saturday evening steak fry and the beer garden. Decision has not yet been made on whether there will be a charge for a pancake breakfast Sunday, August 2, from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Arctco will operate a merchandise stand where it will sell caps, T-shirts, mugs and other novelty items featuring Arctic Cat logos and slogans. Members of the Cat's Pride Club, an organization of Arctic Cat snowmobile owners who pay an annual membership fee, will be provided with special discount coupons for the fish and steak fry and merchandise items.

Closing ceremonies will be conducted Sunday afternoon. Klosterman said that a good deal of interest in the celebration has been shown by persons in a number of states and Canada, with the possibility that other foreign countries in which Arctic Cat snowmobiles are sold may also be represented. Hotels and motels in the community have been filled for some time.

Further details on the celebration will be announced closer to the time of the event.

AVTI COSMETOLOGY. In the cosmetology department of the AVTI, a styling contest was held recently. Pictured is the first place winner Carol Wiseth from Goodridge. Donna Miller from Fosston and Renae Wagner from Gully tied for second. The popular styling tools of curling iron and blow dryer were set aside to develop their skills with wet styling and artful combing.

BRAID CONTEST. Winners at the cosmetology department styling contest at the AVTI were: Michelle Harbolt of Thief River Falls, second, and Barb Holum of Badger, first. Braiding is an artful method of controlling long hair in attractive designs. The technique helps develop creativity and hand dexterity.

Construction Crew Discovers Fatal Accident Tuesday

Minnesota state patrol reported a fatal accident near Fertile Tuesday morning. The state patrol reports that a construction crew discovered the accident shortly after 7 a.m. Tuesday.

Dennis Jerome Geving of Beltrami, 28, was found dead at the scene. According to the state patrol, Geving was west bound on Polk county road one sometime early Tuesday when the 1979 Harley Davidson motorcycle he was driving went off the road and onto the shoulder and then went off the road and came to rest in the north ditch.

The accident happened nine miles west of Fertile on Polk county road one. The time of the accident has not been determined.

Area Teachers Nominated For Teacher Of Year

Several area teachers are included in the list of 98 nominees for Minnesota teacher of the year, according to the Minnesota Education association, sponsor of the competition.

Among those nominated are Marian E. Berggren, Strandquist, teacher of reading and mathematics in elementary grades at Karlstad; George Liapis, Newfolden, science teacher in grades 7-9 at Marshall County Central in Newfolden; Doloris Haugen, Oklee, fifth grade teacher at Oklee; and Sheila Rae Olson, Salol, sixth grade teacher at Malung-Pencer elementary school.

The list of nominees will be narrowed to a group of "Teachers of Excellence" from which an honor roll and teacher of the year will be selected. Announcement of the winner will be made at a public luncheon September 20.

Local Citizens Receive Special Commendation

contributions when they had not.

The second shock came to the city when the loan to Behavior Dynamics was not approved because personal guarantees were not secured and the city's contribution of $25,000 could fall into a general pool fund for every participant to use, if an applicant from Thief River Falls is not approved by October.

Helen Jurchen explained that the confusion probably developed because the term "committed" had not been defined. Committed does not necessarily mean funds must actually be provided, she said.

About 31 owners and renters will receive notice of poor sidewalks in downtown Thief River Falls. The city council decided to send notices to property owners informing them that if sidewalks are not improved the city will improve the sidewalks at a cost to the property owner. The council also decided to send notices to renters so that they would know of the action that could be taken.

Minnesota department of natural resources has granted permission to cut weeds in the Red Lake river. According to Mike Mongoven, park and recreation superintendent, the permit limits cutting to specific areas along the banks of the river and only in areas greater than five feet in depth.

Reasons listed for permission by the DNR included for the purpose of taking fish, turning boats, swimmer safety, and eliminating itch which is caused by snails in the weeds.

The council passed a resolution allowing the expenditure of $5,000 for the purchase of equipment, but not before considering whether property owners along the river should be assessed for weed removal and how to fund the unbudgeted purchase of equipment and use of man hours. A decision on whether to assess property owners has not been made.

No action was taken on a request to pass an ordinance against landing planes on the Red Lake river in Thief River Falls. Dr. Steve Keogh, pilot of a plane which has been landing on the river, said instead of creating another ordinance it would be better to discuss the problems people have with the planes.

Dr. Keogh said problems were ironed out last year and he had agreed to keep landings down to one-a-day on average, which he has done. In addition, Dr. Keogh said his plane and another which has been landing on the river, will probably not return to Thief River Falls this summer.

In other business, the council gave approval to knock down a condemned house at 508 South Markley avenue; approved a bid on transformers by Westinghouse Supply of Fargo, and a bid on a street truck by Rydell Chevrolet; adopted a policy on temporary and seasonal employees; granted permission to have beer in Oakland park for Actco on July 10; and granted license to drink alcohol at parks used by slowpitch and fastpitch softball.

HOLT . . .

On Sunday Craig and Marcy Michelson of Thief River Falls, Mark Reierson, Jody Christopherson and Clara J. Reierson were dinner guests and visitors at the Cliff Reierson home. In the afternoon Vernon and Maxine Reierson visited there.

CARING FOR THE DEAD

Man has always buried his dead with respect and ceremony — beginning with the early Egyptians, about 3000 B.C. right up to the familiar American funeral of today.

The roots of American funeral customs and practices extend back through western civilization into early Judaeo-Christian beliefs concerning the nature of God, man, and the hereafter. Most people believe that the sacred quality of man exists in the soul or spirit and that the body which housed the soul during life deserves dignified treatment after death.

Regarded only as a physical fact, a dead body is a worthless thing. But nothing can deny or obscure the knowledge that just a brief moment ago it was someone dearly loved who loved in return. And so, for what it was, rather than what it is, the body is almost universally treated with reverence and dignity.

Annual Minnesota Border-To-Border Bike Tour Is Set

Biking enthusiasts from several states are gearing up for the annual Fit-Fest Bike Ride Across Minnesota (AFFBRAM), the state's first week-long, border-to-border bicycle tour July 12-18.

The event is directed by Don Haugo, organizer for the Minnesota Fit-Fest Association, a nonprofit corporation for promoting amateur sports, and sponsored by Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Minnesota in partnership with WCCO Radio.

It kicks off Saturday night, July 11, in Moorhead, with a complimentary pasta dinner and tour briefing. On July 12, riders will head into Minnesota's heartland on roads that pass through some of the most scenic parts of the state.

The tour winds east and southward through Detroit Lakes, Park Rapids, Pine River, Little Falls, Annandale, New Prague, and ends in Red Wing for a total of 490 miles. "We looked for a course with lots of flat land and gently rolling hills that would showcase the beauty of our state," said Haugo. "Minnesota is a biker's paradise."

Entry fee for the week-long tour is $100. Bicyclists also will be helping the 1988 U.S. Olympic Team. Ten dollars of each entry fee will go to the U.S. Olympic Committee to help American athletes as part of Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Minnesota's Olympic sponsorship.

Bicyclists may ride just one day of the tour for a $15 entry fee, with $10 going to the U.S. Olympic Committee.

Haugo emphasizes that it is not a race. It's a noncompetitive tour across Minnesota which is attracting people of all ages and athletic abilities. Current registrants range in age from 10 to 73. (Children under age 18 must be accompanied by an adult.)

Besides Haugo, Claudia Zeller and Darrell Esala, Blue Cross and Blue Shield health promoters, and trip leaders from American Youth Hostels will accompany the tour and assist riders.

Chris Wilk, Olympic hopeful in nordic-combined skiing from Duluth, also is joining the tour to offer riders his assistance and support the Olympics, while he takes a break from his schedule at the Olympic Training Center in Marquette, MI.

"You don't have to be an Olympic hopeful like Chris to ride," Haugo said. "With just a few weeks of moderate training and a well-tuned bicycle, riders can handle daily distances of 60 to 85 miles.

"This is different from other bike tours," Haugo added. "It's a deluxe event. We'll have a mobile bike repair shop. We also plan the route and provide maps, campsites, baggage trucks for gear, sag wagons (vehicles for identifying bikers "sagging" behind).

"Towns along the route are excited about the tour and are ready to welcome riders with some hoopla or fanfare," he added. Most local communities will have buffet breakfasts and dinners available and invite riders to join in any local activities or events.

Registration for the full tour must be in by July 2 and by July 9 for one day riders.

For more information send a stamped, self addressed envelope to AFFBRAM, Box 29, Northfield, MN 55057, or call (612) 854-4610.

Pressure Canner Gauge Clinic At Courthouse Tues.

"Better to be safe than sorry. Nowhere is this saying more applicable than when canning home-grown foods. It is essential to use proper and up to date canning procedures to protect family members against the deadly botulism toxin," warns Deborah Zak, Pennington county extension director.

All low acid foods, which include meat, fish, poultry and vegetables, require pressure processing for safe home canning.

A pressure canner gauge clinic will be held on Tuesday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Pennington county courthouse meeting room. At this time Zak will test pressure canner gauges and have food preservation information from the University of Minnesota available.

Anyone who has questions regarding food preservation should contact the Pennington county extension office at 681-2116.

Crops And Soils Field Day Set At Experiment Station Wed., July 15

Tours for the 1987 crops and soils field day at the Northwest experiment station have been designed to provide information for the agriculture producer, agribusiness person, homeowner and gardener. The tours will begin at 7:45 a.m. on Wednesday, July 15, and include the following areas:

AGRONOMY — Agronomy tours will feature several aspects of weed control, crop management and varietal development. Herbicide-nitrogen combinations for wild oat and broadleaf weed control in spring wheat, and herbicide injury associated with late-season application of broadleaf herbicides will be discussed by extension specialists and researchers.

Current and soon-to-be-released varieties of wheat and barley and tillage-disease relationships will be highlighted during the small grains tour. Also included during 1987 will be a tour which features navy and pinto bean varieties and disease control, along with alfalfa varieties and management.

PLANT PATHOLOGY — In the plant pathology plots, Dr. Carol Windels will present data on the effect of reduced tillage (no-till, chisel plow and moldboard plow) on root rot, leaf spot disease and fungicide effectiveness on wheat and barley. Dr. Richard A. Meronuck, extension plant pathologist, University of Minnesota, St. Paul, will discuss monitoring fields for white mold and rust in fieldbeans, rates and timing of fungicide applications, and the effectiveness of various fungicides.

SOIL SCIENCE — Plot tours in the soil science research area will feature topics ranging from foliar N application on wheat, to conservation tillage, to phosphorus fertilization. Dr. George Rehm, soil science extension specialist, will address the implications on wheat grain yield and protein of applying N on wheat at different growth stages.

Dr. Ray Allmaras, a USDA-ARS soil scientist specializing in conservation tillage systems will review some of the results of research in northwest Minnesota pertaining to the adaptability of conservation tillage systems. Information about current and future research concerning phosphorus soil testing particularly with spring grains will be discussed by Dr. John Lamb, soil scientist at the Northwest Experiment station. Carlyle Holen, area extension agent in crop pest management, will discuss the effectiveness of late season application of herbicides for broadleaf control.

HORTICULTURE — Two tours relative to horticulture are planned. Dr. Gary McVey will discuss commercial vegetable production and demonstrate planters, trickle irrigation and the use of plastic and chemicals for weed control. The vegetable crops will include onions, cauliflower, broccoli, carrots, tomato, cantaloupe, squash and watermelon. Strawberry and raspberry production will also be featured. Roger Wagner, horticulturist at UMC, will conduct a tour of the campus grounds and describe the various trees and shrubbery as well as the best varieties of flowers on the campus.

SWCD — West Polk SWCD will be on hand to discuss windbreak design and tree variety selection. The station's nursery of trees and shrubs suitable for Red River valley planting, as well as new experimental lines will be toured.

BIO-MASS — The university has been conducting research in northwest Minnesota on producing fuel from hybrid poplars and cattails during the past two and one-hafl years.

A 28-acre hybrid poplar field has been established near Oklee. Research being conducted on the 250,000 trees involves productivity, disease resistance, insect tolerance, winter survival, herbicide use and fertility requirements. On the July 15 tour, details of research on winter-hardiness, nitrogen-cycling; biomass yields, preplant herbicide use and regrowth will be discussed.

In 1985 a one-half acre pond was constructed by the university at the American Crystal sugar plant in Crookston. The wastewater from beet processing has been used as the water and nutrient source in growing cattails as a crop. The goals of this research are maximizing productivity, determining the potential of cattails in wastewater treatment and evaluating total water-loss.

PEST CLINIC — Experts in disease, weed and insect identification will be on hand to answer any questions regarding identification and control of these pests.

JENNIFER BERNIER, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bernier of Oklee, is shown with Rep. Wally Sparby on her recent visit to the State Capitol. Jennifer, a sophomore at Oklee public school, went to St. Paul as a result of winning first place in the Citizen's Bee held in Bemidji.

Gully

Sanna Brovold, Box 5,
Gully, MN 56646 268-4350

The community was shocked and saddened to learn of the untimely death of Bernell Myrom near Clearbrook last Friday. Bernell and his wife (Evelyn Qualley), four daughters and a son lived on the former H.T. Hanson farm 13 miles north of Gully before moving to Pengilly in 1968.

Arnold and Sauna Brovold visited at the Harry Hanson home on Tuesday evening and were guests for a picnic supper in honor of Harry's birthday and the Brovolds' and Olfa Olsons' anniversaries that day. Other guests for supper were John and Sophie Nelson, Olaf and Alvira Olson, Gertrude and Orville Christianson, Luella and Clifford Arveson, Howard and Linda Hanson, Dean and Luane, Tilmer Anderson, Gene Arveson, Evelyn Hanson of Clearbrook.

Many from Gully area attended the wedding of Wendy Hanson and Don Berry at the Nazareth church on Saturday afternoon. Among them were Patty Carlson, cousin of the bride's mother, and Merlaine Evje, cousin of the groom. They cut and served the beautiful large wedding cake all frosted in white, trimmed in red flowers, white bells and with lighted waterfall with reflections in red. After the reception and a taste of *wedding cake and decorated mini-*buns at the church, the bride and groom got into Roger Cranes red buggy and as Tim Beckstrand guided his beautiful horse, they were showered with rice as they started down the road to Howard and Linda Hanson's farm place. The friends and relatives followed. As we neared the place we were greeted by the aroma of beef being barbecued in the large outside ovens. Soon everyone was enjoying a delicious picnic supper. Many of the friends and relatives returned on Sunday to see the newlyweds open their gifts and saw them leave on their honeymoon.

Visitors at the Ann Nyland home on Saturday to help her celebrate her birthday were Esther Thorson, Esther Rutkowski, Emma Erickson, Emma Nyland, Millie Brovold and Cora Hanson. Ann served a delicious lunch. Ann's birthday lasted several days this year. Halvor and Lillian Groven of Oklee brought a nice birthday cake for Ann on Friday evening. Bernice Erlandson took Ann out for lunch on Friday afternoon. On Sunday Herb and Vonny Larson from Roseau came and were dinner guests. Herb and Vonny took Ann along to visit Myrtle Hastad in the afternoon and she served them coffee. On Monday Sauna Brovold stopped in for coffee and birthday cake. Ann also had birthday greetings from her brother Geahart Groven and wife from Yakima, WA.

If you noticed a couple of women with an armful of flowers last Saturday, it was Irene Carlson and Goldie Bodner on their way over to Arnold Brovold's. The two and Sanna arranged flowers in baskets and vases to be used at the Klema and Brooks wedding at Lake Sarah. Edna felt a park wedding should have flower decorations. But don't worry, Rayome. The "Gully Floral" isn't incorporated yet and we are out of flowers now until next year.

Hazel Stephenson Halvorson stopped in briefly at the Arnold Brovold home on Saturday. Hazel and Sanna spent some interesting minutes reminiscing about the time they were classmates at the A.C. at Crookston. Hazel's husband, Rueben, was at the head of Roseau schools for many years.

Supper guests at Cora Hanson's Friday were Clara Strand and Leonard Brink from Fosston, also Opal Fish and her sister, Verna.

Esther Shumack from Martinez, CA, arrived on Tuesday to visit in the area during the month of June. Gilbert Nelson and Curtis Hangaard had gone to the Cities earlier to attend some classes in connection with the VFW. Gilbert returned to Gully while Curtis visited at his daughter's home. Esther also visited at the Carlson home. Charles Haugaard, another brother from Detroit Lakes, met them there. Esther and Curtis visited with Charles and Elaine before coming to Gully on Tuesday. Esther is staying with Curtis and Stella Haugaard.

Officials Allow Haying Set-Aside Acres For Feed

To head off a potential shortage, state officials are allowing farmers in 24 Minnesota counties to cut hay growing on their set-aside acres. On June 24 the state Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation service (ASCS) committee granted the requests of 24 counties in east-central Minnesota to release the set-aside acres on a case-by-case basis.

More counties are expected to apply for the release which will be available for the rest of the year. Counties approved so far include Rice, Le Sueur, Nicollet, Brown, Sibley, Scott, Carver, McLeod, Hennepin, Ramsey, Washington, Anoka, Chisago, Wright, Meeker, Stearns, Benton, Mille Lacs, Isanti, Kanabec, Pine, Morrison, Todd and Crow Wing.

Extensive winter-kill and a dry spring have slowed development or destroyed many hay crops. "We feel this is a timely decision by the ASCS," said Minnesota Farmers Union (MFU) President Willis Eken. Responding to farmers' concerns, MFU began urging the ASCS to take the action last month.

"Hopefully this will avoid putting Minnesota farmers in the same desperate situation southern farmers faced last summer," Eken added.

Last year, Midwest farmers sent many tons of hay south to help farmers in drought-stricken areas feed their cattle. While the situation isn't as bad in Minnesota now, the ASCS agreed with MFU that is was wise to take action now rather than waiting for disaster to hit.

The ASCS decision does not give farmers blanket approval to hay set-aside acres. Several safeguards are in place to prevent abuses. First, a county ASCS committee must apply to the state which decides if that county is in need of the release (ASCS has rejected 20 such requests). Then farmers in an approved county must demonstrate need and certify how many acres are to be cut to feed how many head of cattle.

"Farmers may not sell the hay," said state ASCS Director Don Friedrich. "They can use it to feed their own cattle or give it to a neighbor for that purpose, and we will do all we can to prevent abuses."

Leave Fireworks To The Experts Says Fire Marshal

State fire marshal Tom Brace reminds Minnesotans that fireworks are illegal in Minnesota. He said that last year there were 73 fireworks injuries in the state despite the ban.

Brace notes that types of injuries suffered by Minnesotans last year included: burns, 48; lacerations and fractures, 15; eye, 14; shrapnel, five, and hearing, two. The total exceeds 73 because of some cases of multiple injuries.

Brace said that fieworks appear to be "exciting until you start looking at the injuries they cause."

In one case last year a six-year-old child received facial burns and an eye injury when a firecracker was thrown into his face by other children. A 47-year-old man suffered hearing damage when a firecracker was thrown into his ear.

Brace said Minnesotans can have a safer holiday without fireworks. He urges citizens to enjoy the many legal displays which are put on by many communities.

Food Inspectors Warn Consumers About Meat Ads

Minnesota department of agriculture food inspection division officials caution consumers to be wary when purchasing beef through the classified sections of some metropolitan newspapers.

Food inspection director Thomas W. Masso said the ads may be related to complaints that unlicensed meat vendors are not providing the full amount of product agreed upon and are tacking on additional packaging and processing costs. Some consumers have claimed to have been cheated after responding to the ads run earlier this month.

Masso said officials believe ads have been run in several states. The Minnesota department of agriculture has joined with the Minnesota attorney general's office and the United States department of agriculture to investigate the meat vendors.

The Minnesota department of agriculture is also coordinating its efforts with regulatory agencies in Wisconsin and Iowa to apprehend and prosecute anyone operating an illegal meat or food business.

2 Archaeological Sites Open For Public Viewing

To be a part of tracing Minnesota's past, the public is invited to visit the excavation of two archaeological sites, view an interpretive program, take a one-day class on prehistoric Minnesota or volunteer to work on an archeological survey.

In 1986, an archaeological survey was conducted along the Mississippi river and one of its abandoned channels between Wolf and Cass lakes. Eleven new sites were located and additional information gathered on eight previously recorded sites.

Work this summer will focus on studying some of these sites in more depth through archaeological excavation. The public is invited to visit and view the following excavations:

Ekstrom Site, July 1-3 and 7-8. Located on County Highway 8, just west of the Mission Narrows bridge at the Arrowhead resort. Signs will be visible from the highway. Tours of the site are available from 1 to 4 p.m., Wednesday through Friday.

Knutson Dam Site, July 15 and 17. Located in the Knutson Dam campground and picnic area, Chippewa National Forest. Knutson Dam is located on the east side of Cass Lake. Signs will be visible in the campground. Tours of the site are available from 1 to 4 p.m., Wednesday and Friday.

"The Mississippi Headwaters Project: Exploring and Preserving Our Past," a slide illustrated lecture, will be presented by Dr. Christy Hohman-Caine, Minnesota state archaeologist and Chippewa National Forest archaeologist at Norway Beach picnic area building at 8 p.m. Saturday, July 25. Contact Cass Lake ranger station at Cass Lake for further information.

Prehistoric Minnesota Class is a one-day course designed for teachers. Morning session focuses on teaching Minnesota's early history and on resources available for the teachers. Afternoon session is on-site, observing and participating in excavation. Contact: Hamlin University Continuing Education, Hamlin University, St. Paul, MN 55104. Course is tentatively scheduled for Saturday, August 1.

Under the project, people can volunteer for a week or a weekend and learn about the early history of the Mississippi Headwaters by joining in archaeological survey and excavation. Session schedule is available by contacting the supervisor's office, Chippewa National Forest, Cass Lake, MN 56633 (218-335-2226). No previous experience is necessary but slots are limited.

CAST MEMBERS of Alice in Wonderland pose for a picture during a recent rehearsal. The young cast members will perform the play 7 p.m. Thursday and Friday in the Washington elementary cafeteria in Thief River Falls. The play is sponsored by the Thief River Falls community arts council.

Investigations Into Bicycle Thefts By Police Continues

Police in Thief River Falls report a name was inadvertently left out of the police news last week. Last week a news item about some juveniles drinking did not, and should have included the name of an 18 year old girl, Nancy Osbjornson of Oklee.

Thefts, a drug arrest, an escape attempt, a disorderly conduct charge, and a public nuisance charge were among the incidents investigated by the Thief River Falls police department during the past week.

POLICE NEWS. Several reports of stolen bicycles were again in the police news, but police were able to make some arrests.

On June 15 Hollie Baker, Thief River Falls, reported her son's bike stolen from the baseball diamond by the Sports arena. The red 20 inch Huffy was valued at $50. On June 17 police received information concerning the bike and a juvenile boy was contacted. The boy reported having received the bike on a loan from another boy. Further investigation by the police led to charges being placed against the second youth for possession of stolen property. The bike was recovered but some pieces were missing.

On June 19 three juvenile boys, 16 and 17, admitted the theft of a number of bicycles. Parts of stolen bikes were recovered. Restitution is being made and the case continues under investigation. Police are also continuing their investigation into thefts of bicycles in Thief River Falls.

On June 13 Mary Sorenson, Thief River Falls, reported a bike taken from Tindolph beach. The bike was a black 20 inch Huffy with gold-colored handle bars. It was valued at $69.

On June 16 Claudette Lorenson, Thief River Falls, reported her son's bike stolen from LaFave park. The bike was a 20 inch orange an white Predator and valued at $200. The theft is under investigation.

On June 20 Lee Walseth, Thief River Falls, reported his son's bike taken overnight. The bike, a 20 inch red Huffy, was valued at $89.

Other thefts. On June 13 Donald Thomas, route one, Grygla, reported a theft from his pickup while in Thief River Falls the previous day. Taken were two jacks from the box on his pickup, one, a red Hand-man jack, and the other, a grey and blue seven ton hydraulic jack. The total loss was estimated at $75.

On June 14 Scott Severinson, Thief River Falls, reported a theft from his parked car. While the car was parked on Michael street near Kendall avenue a case of cassette tapes with 50 tapes, one Bell fuzz buster, and a red Bell full-face helmet, and two jean jackets were taken. The total loss was estimated at $770.

On June 16 a local resident reported a home was entered sometime during the afternoon. A screen was damaged during entry along with a coffee pot. The loss was estimated at $60. Two packs of cigarettes were also taken.

On June 18 a juvenile boy was charged with trespassing. The 16-year old boy is on informal probation.

Possession charge. On June 17 a local citizen reported seeing two persons in a vehicle in the 300 block of East Third street possibly with marijuana. Upon investigating the report, police charged Robbie Nesteby, 20, Thief River Falls, and Ricky Lynn Olson, 28, route one, Gatzke, with possession of a small amount of marijuana.

On June 18 at 4:55 a.m. officers on patrol observed someone on Fourth street near Main avenue. The individual made obscene gestures to the officers. According to police Robby Nesteby, 20, Thief River Falls, then exposed himself. He was arrested and charged with disorderly conduct. Police report that Nesteby continued to use offensive and obscene language after being placed under arrest.

33 From Lincoln Class Of 1932 Attend Reunion

Thirty-three members of the Lincoln high school class of 1932 attended a 55-year reunion Saturday and Sunday in Thief River Falls. Sixteen spouses and a number of guests also participated in the event.

Participants gathered at the Heritage Community center Saturday to renew friendships and revive memories of their school days. Merle Lindberg conducted a tour of the building and explained details of the planning, function and construction of the building. He particularly emphasized the cooperation among city government, businesses and senior citizens in getting the job completed.

A hospitality hour preceded the evening banquet Saturday at the Elks club rooms and some of the classmates had not seen others for 55 years. Among guests attending were Blanche Greenland Larson, Dorothy Larson and Randall Noper. Dorothy Larson was accompanist and Noper director for singing familiar songs. Blanche Larson was advisor for the class of 1932.

Master of ceremonies at the banquet program was Irving "Preach" Lundell. Class president Don Mattson presented the memorial service and prayer as a tribute to deceased classmates, spouses and teachers. Entertainment included dancing to music of the 1930's and 1940's as well as visiting.

Church services Sunday morning were conducted at the Asphult Lutheran church at Pennington Pioneer Village with Rev. Ray Hansen delivering the sermon. Espe Brothers trio presented a program of religious music and a luncheon following the service was catered by Lillian Rux. Buildings at the Pioneer Village were open for classmates to tour during the afternoon.

Plans for future reunions were left to the reunion committee for study and report to members of the class. Serving on the reunion committee were Gordon Ballingrud, Verna Noper, Bernice LaFrenz, John Jaranson, Evelyn Peterson, Irene Saustad, Minnie Knight, Vernice Hawkinson, Ruth Cockrell, Mabel Christopherson and Betty and Orville Feragen.

St. Bernard's School Receives Accreditation

St. Bernard's School has been recommended for full accredited status with the Minnesota non-public schools accrediting association (MNSAA). The MNSAA is an approved accrediting agency by the Minnesota State department of education and the Minnesota State Legislature.

The process to become accredited involved two phases. First, the administration, board, faculty and staff conducted an extensive self-study of all areas of the school. Second, in April a team of educators from area schools conducted an on-site visit to validate the self-study. The report from this visit has been received by the school and the recommendations are in the process of being evaluated and implemented where possible. The state board of MNSAA has also received the report and will formally approve it in August.

Having accredited status conferred upon the school means that St. Bernard's meets the standards and criteria of the MNSAA and department of education. Also, the school is exempt from all reporting requirements to the local public school superintendent except for the names, addresses and ages of those attending St. Bernard's School.

St. Bernard's is proud of the work done by all those involved in this year long process. We thank all who assisted us including the teachers, parents, students, staff, board, administration and the local media for its willingness to make the public aware of this important work.

Thief River Falls

TRF Outlasts EGF 11-9 In High-Scoring Legion Match-Up

High-powered Thief River Falls offense was cranked up again Tuesday as Post 117 out-scored East Grand Forks 11-9 in a Class AA Ninth District American Legion baseball slugfest at the fairgrounds diamond.

Thief River Falls is 7-3 for the year, averaging 9.6 runs in those ten starts. A 40-run scoring spree the past two days fattened the offensive statistics as Thief River Falls beat Grafton 13-0, 16-8 in a Monday doubleheader before powering its way past rival East Grand Forks.

"We've been sticking the ball and scoring runs," acknowledged Thief River Falls coach Mark Lundin. "I'm happy with the way we played. Any time you beat East Side, you're doing well. They're supposed to be down a little this year, but they split with Moorhead, so that tells you something."

Thief River Falls banged 13 hits around the fairgrounds diamond ball park, including a 3-for-4 night from Newfolden import Darin Rokke, who drove in three runs and also picked up the pitching win in relief. Mike Bendickson came off a suddenly-full Thief River Falls bench to go 2-for-2, while Chris Bjorgaard and Mike Anderson had 2-for-4 games. Bjorgaard matched Rokke's three-RBI performance.

Seven of the runs and ten of the hits came off East Grand Forks starter Troy Ausmus, who gave way to Steve Gust in the fifth inning. They walked three and struck out four.

"Ausmus is probably the best they have, and we hit him pretty good," pointed out Lundin.

East Grand Forks had its own firepower to make the game close. The visitors trailed just 7-6 until they committed three sixth inning errors that opened the door to a game-clinching four-run scoring column for the fifth time in ten starts.

The gap closed, though, in the top of the seventh on the strength of a three-run home run off the bat of Steve Hodge before Rokke struck out the side to finish it.

Thief River Falls scored promptly when lead-off batter Tom Knoff singled to left in the bottom of the first inning, stole second, moved to third on a fly ball out to right field and scored when Kory Joppru bounced a single into left field.

Hodge singled with two out in the second, advanced on an error on a pick-off and scored when Corey Grassel doubled down the left field line.

A lead-off double to straightaway center field by Chris Nelson opened the bottom of the inning. He scored after a bunt single by Rokke and a sacrifice fly by Dean DuChamp.

Thief River Falls opened up a 4-1 cushion in the third on a two-out, bases-loaded single by Rokke that scored Knoff and Joppru, both of whom had walked.

East Grand Forks went ahead 5-4 in the top of the fourth on the strength of five well-placed base hits. Singles by Garret Hjelle and Gust started it, then Hodge line a shot down the left field line for a run. A sacrifice fly by Grassel made it 4-3, and No. 9 batter Don Lovcik dropped a run-producing double on the right field line for a tie. He scored the go-ahead run when Ausmus bounced a two-out double over the third base bag.

The East Grand Forks lead didn't last long, however, as Thief River Falls answered with a three-run fourth of its own when Bjorgaard had a two-run triple and scored himself moments later on a suicide squeeze bunt put down by Joppru.

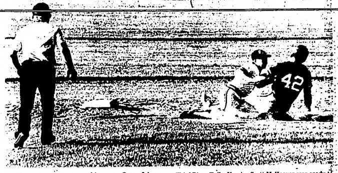
It became 7-6 in the top of the sixth as Grassel walked, Lovcik singled and Tom Hagen came up with an RBI sacrifice fly to left field.

Thief River Falls' game-clinching sixth included an error on a ball hit to third by Bill Dicken to open the inning, followed by a bunt single from Knoff, an RBI single to left by Bjorgaard, a dropped fly ball error in center field that loaded the bases, a throwing error by Lovcik at third when he fielded Anderson's ground ball but hit the backstop with his throw to the plate for the force-out, a sacrifice fly by Nelson and an RBI single through the left side of the infield by Rokke.

A one-out walk issued to Hjelle and a single by Gust set up the seventh inning home run by Hodge that just cleared the center field fence.

Knoff was the Thief River Falls starting pitcher, but he apparently hurt himself as he pushed off the mound on his delivery and left for right field with one out in the second. Rokke went the rest of the win, getting through 11 hits and nine earned runs while walking four and striking out six.

Thief River Falls will host Karlstad Thursday in a 7 p.m. game to close out the Post 117 American Legion schedule this week. Younger Legion players who double as members of the 16-year-old VFW squad were scheduled to host the Moorhead Gold today (Wednesday) in a 5 p.m. doubleheader. A schedule addition tacked on a VFW doubleheader with Fergus Falls Friday, a 3 p.m. start.



THIEF RIVER FALLS second baseman Casey Johnson tagged East Grand Forks base runner Troy Ausmus on a stolen base attempt in the third inning of Tuesday's Class AA Ninth District American Legion baseball game in Thief River Falls. Umpire Scott McKeever was ready to make the out call on the play, but Johnson lost the ball in the collision, giving Ausmus the stolen base. Thief River Falls won the game 11-9.

TRF Fast Pitch Team Reaches Semifinals At Detroit Lakes

Schmidt Beer-American Legion Thief River Falls men's fast pitch softball team reached the semifinals Sunday in the 32-team Detroit Lakes Invitational before losing a controversial 9-8 decision to Coors Lite of Fargo.

Sporting a 10-2 record in three weekend tournaments, the leagueless Thief River Falls team will face a tough 24-team Grand Forks Class AA Invitational this weekend. It's a Saturday-Sunday affair with $1,500 prize money at stake.

"We're doing well," reported Schmidt Beer-American Legion team manager Bill Dormady. "I feel we were the best team there," he said after the Detroit Lakes appearance.

Fast starts carried Thief River Falls to three wins. Roger Cota and Mark Lundin sandwiched singles around a walk issued to Bruce Johnson for a first-inning headstart in a 5-4 opening round victory over Border States Paving of Fargo. A fourth inning Tony Johnson triple was followed by an RBI single by Greg Harder, and Thief River Falls held off the Fargo challenge. Tony Johnson was the winning pitcher. Cota had a pair of hits.

Thief River Falls beat the Grand Forks Air Force Base 5-3 with a 3-0 first inning start on a pair of walks, a single by Cota and sacrifices from Lundin and Nick Drees. Mike Drury was the winning pitcher. Cota contributed three hits.

Another three-run first inning helped produce a 10-3 win over Wolverton in Round 3 as Thief River Falls scored on a pair of errors and hits from Cota and Lundin, along with a sacrifice from Drees. Drury was the winning pitcher, but Johnson pitched the final two innings in relief. He also had three hits.

Third three-run first inning of the tournament got Thief River Falls off on the right foot against Coors Lite as Kevin Sanders homered, Lundin singled and Drees hit a long two-run home run over the slow pitch field fence.

But the Fargo team came back and a sixth inning outburst gave Coors Lite the lead. That's when the problem arose as the Fargo scorebook showed them with a 9-4 lead, while the Thief River Falls scorebook had it 8-4. The umpire ruled in Fargo's favor, a decision that proved crucial when Thief River Falls came up with a run in the bottom of the sixth, then scored three more runs in the seventh. In the Thief River Falls books that would have been an 8-8 tie. But the Fargo books had it as a 9-8 Coors Lite win.

Lundin had three hits that game, with Sanders and Drees both getting two. Drury was the losing pitcher. Johnson got the final six outs in relief.

TG Sporting Goods Has 7-0 Mark

A one-hitter by Jared Erickson and a two-hitter by Steve Sabo highlighted a 9-2, 12-2 Thief River Falls TG Sporting Goods Babe Ruth baseball doubleheader sweep over visiting Crookston Blue Tuesday.

Dale Martell collected three hits in the 9-2 first-game win as the Thief River Falls offense backed Erickson's pitching with a nine-hit attack. The errors were even at two-apiece.

A run-scoring double by Adam Lane was featured in the six-hit TG Sporting Goods offense during the 12-2 second-game victory. Sabo was backed by an errorless defense; Crookston was charged with two errors.

The Thief River Falls 14-15-year olds are 7-0 for the year. TG Sporting Goods will play a split doubleheader on the road Thursday.

TRF Legion Sweeps Grafton

Mike Anderson was 6-for-9 for the night with nine RBI to help lead Thief River Falls to a 13-0, 16-8 American Legion baseball sweep at Grafton Monday.

Anderson, who joined the team for the first time this season Saturday after spending the 1986-87 school year in Arizona, had four of his hits and six of his RBI in the nightcap as Thief River Falls, after winning a five-inning first game, rallied from a 6-4 deficit.

"We played well," reported Thief River Falls coach Mark Lundin.

Jason Lane pitched a four-hit shutout in Game 1. He didn't allow a Grafton runner past first base in striking out four and walking one. An errorless Thief River Falls defense helped out with three double plays.

Every Thief River Falls starter had at least one base hit, led by a 3-for-4 game from Chris Nelson, as the winners pounded out 15 hits, scoring five times in the second inning, seven times in the fourth when Nelson hit a two-run triple, and a single run in the fifth.

Grafton had a 6-4 lead through three innings in Game 2 before surrendering 12 runs over the final four innings. This time seven Thief River Falls batters had a hand in the 13-hit attack, including the four hits from Anderson, who had two singles, a double and a triple, plus another triple from Nelson.

Kory Joppru was touched for six runs in the first two innings. He gave way to Nelson, the winning pitcher, who shut down Grafton on four hits over the final five innings, striking out seven and walking three. Grafton finished with eight hits, but also had four errors. Thief River Falls completed an error-free doubleheader.

Grafton fell to 6-10.

Crookston Gold Sweeps Pepsi

Shorthanded Pepsi-Cola Bottling was out-scored 39-1 Tuesday in a Babe Ruth baseball doubleheader loss at the hands of Crookston Gold.

Crookston won 20-0 and 19-1 to drop the Thief River Falls 14-15-year-olds to 1-4 for the year.

In the opener, Crookston out-hit Thief River Falls 12-1, and Pepsi-Cola Bottling was charged with six errors, while the host Gold team had just two. Iner Langelett picked up the only Thief River Falls base hit. He was the losing pitcher.

Crookston out-hit Thief River Falls 14-1 in Game 2. Mark Fuller was the losing pitcher. Pepsi-Cola Bottling was charged with eight of the game's nine errors. Langelett scored the only Thief River Falls run.

Babe Ruth Prep Team Wins 5-4

Pete Balmer collected three hits and Jamie Woodward drove in the game-winning run Monday morning as the Thief River Falls 13-year-olds edged Red Lake Falls 5-4 in Babe Ruth Prep baseball action.

Barry Dowers was the winning pitcher. Thief River Falls out-hit Red Lake Falls 10-4, and the losers were charged with five of the game's seven errors.

Thief River Falls, 5-3, was scheduled to host Crookston today.

Close Ninth District Legion Baseball Tournament Shapes Up This Summer

—Mike Lundgren Sports Editor—

Thief River Falls lost three of four games in tough back-to-back American Legion baseball doubleheader assignments against the Grand Forks Royals and the Moorhead Blues last week, but Post 117 played both of those perennially strong teams tough, and performed well enough in shorthanded fashion to be considered a serious threat in Ninth District play this summer.

Grand Forks built a big lead, then held off a Thief River Falls comeback to win a 14-6 doubleheader opener. Because of other commitments, head coach Mark Lundin and infielder Chris Bjorgaard weren't on hand for that one. Bjorgaard went 4-for-4 with two RBI and two doubles as Thief River Falls won the second game 12-9.

Saturday, Thief River Falls was just a play or two away from winning both games, but Moorhead prevailed 10-8, 3-2. Thief River Falls has beaten Moorhead on occasion in high school and American Legion ball over the years, but not consistently. Post 117 played the Blues on near-even terms, though, for a full 14 innings in the hot afternoon sun. That has to be a confidence-builder in itself.

And Thief River Falls did it with a hastily-arranged line-up since several regulars weren't available. Just back in town after a long trip, Mike Anderson and Mike Bendickson were summoned to fill out the starting line-up.

Lundin's squad is finally together this week. And at full strength, Thief River Falls is capable of beating its Ninth District competition.

It should be a wide-open Ninth District tournament later this summer, partly because there are no over-powering teams. Moorhead is the defending champion, but there hasn't been a repeat winner in the Ninth District since the Blues turned the trick in 1982 and 1983. Crookston went to state in 1984, East Grand Forks won the title in 1985 and Moorhead emerged last year.

Those three, plus Thief River Falls, Detroit Lakes and Fergus Falls, should make for a competitive Class AA field. As reported here earlier, those six will be seeded directly into the eight-team Ninth District tournament, where they will be joined by the top two finishers from the Class A playoff ranks in a double-elimination state tournament-qualifying format.

Detroit Lakes coach Mitch McLeod told Ralph Anderson of the Becker County Record in Detroit Lakes that he expects his team to be among the title challengers. McLeod feels he has "the best baseball talent we've had since I've been coaching." The sixth-year coach says the Detroit Lakes players are "really talented" and "really willing to work."

His optimism surfaced even after his team lost a recent 17-1 decision to Brainerd. In high school ball this spring, the Lakers were 5-13 with a roster that included just two seniors and often had as many as six sophomore starters.

McLeod says Detroit Lakes can challenge for a district title because of the lack of dominant team. "The Moorhead Blues had an extremely good team last summer, and East Grand Forks was outstanding the year before," McLeod told Anderson. "There doesn't appear to be a team as powerful as either this year."

Take those six Class AA teams, throw in the top two Class A teams, and you have yourself the makings of a great tournament.

Women's Slow Pitch

Northwest Medical Center and Rusty Nail-KKAQ were doubleheader winners Monday in the Thief River Falls Women's Slow Pitch Softball League.

Ruth Ostby, Jody Pahlen and Marsha Jensen were all 4-for-4 as Northwest Medical Center shut out Geno's Body Shop 26-0. De Larson and Julie Bergsnev were both 3-for-4 and Jan Skjerping was 2-for-3 for the winners. Larson homered in the three-inning rout. Ostby followed with a 5-for-5 game in a 17-8 victory over McDonald's in the second half of the split doubleheader, while Larson homered for the second straight game. Bobbi Thompson and Kristi Thompson were both 3-for-4 for the losers.

Rusty Nail-KKAQ broke into the win column for the first time this year with a 9-6 victory over the Thief River Falls Merchants, then added a 19-2 doubleheader-sweeping win over Geno's Body Shop as Sandy Orr hit a home run.

Pepsi-Cola Bottling edged the Ridge Runners 6-5 as Diane Haven hit a two-run, bases-loaded double in the top of the seventh inning.

Ann Joppru homered as Wilson Brothers defeated Narverud Cleaners 16-5.

Musherettes drilled Narverud Cleaners 22-0 in a three-inning affair. Julie Halvorson pitched a one-hit shutout, striking out three batters. The winners' offense included a home run and five RBI from Kristie Lee, a 4-for-4 effort from Pam Schenkey, who scored four times; a 3-for-3 game from Sue Olson, who tripled and had four RBI, plus four runs batted in by Karl Skoglund.

Make-up games, rescheduled from June 10, were played Tuesday night.

Coco Kayser hit a three-run home run and a two-run homer to lead Wilson Brothers past KKAQ-Rusty Nail 10-1.

Pam Schenkey was 3-for-3 as the Musherettes defeated the Ridge Runners 12-3. Kristie Lee was 2-for-4 with three RBI for the winners, and Sue Olson was 2-for-3 with a double, a triple and three RBI.

VFW picked up a forfeit win over Roseau Transport and the Musherettes did the same against Geno's Body Shop.

League standings have been updated to include the results of late-reported make-up games played June 16 (May 27 postponement), but results are still missing from a June 1 Geno's Body Shop vs. Narverud Cleaners game, and from three contests last night — American Legion-Sather Law Office vs. both Northwest Medical Center and Narverud Cleaners, and Pepsi-Cola Bottling vs. Roseau Transport.

Team managers should take time to correct the standings by reporting any missing scores to league reporter Sandy Comstock.

Birch Trees Face Seasonal Pest Problem In Minnesota

Throughout the state, people have experienced dieback and mortality of birch trees, report Department of Natural Resources Division of Forestry personnel in northwestern Minnesota.

Birch trees are very sensitive to soil changes. Some soil changes that affect birch trees are compaction of the soil, added fill around the roots or removal of vegetation that increases the soil temperature. Such changes may not always cause mortality but do place the tree under stress. Trees under stress are unable to resist the normal onslaught of insect enemies.

Bronze birch borer is an insect that takes advantage of birch trees under stress.

The adult bronze birch borer is a large olive-bronze beetle about three-fourths of an inch long. This insect lays eggs on the bark in June. The hatching larvae chew into the inner bark over winter. The larvae pupate the following April or May and emerge shortly afterward as adults to complete the life cycle.

Bronze birch borer is a serious pest no only to forest grown birch trees [illegible] branch and stem girdling activities of the larvae cause dieback and death of stressed birches. There are four diagnostic sysmptoms of bronze birch borer attack:

+ Wilt and-or dieback of upper branches and stem.

+ Ridges in the bark (which resemble varicose veins) that form the larval tunnel.

+ Tunnels in bark and wood which are packed with sawdust and grass.

+ D-shaped holes, about a quarter-inch long, where the adults emerged.

To date, there are no effective chemical control measures that a homeowner can apply himself. Rather, there is an integrated series of cultural practices which a homeowner can use to prevent or reduce stress and the impact of the borers. The basis for the effectiveness of these practices is that bronze birch borer larvae cannot survive in a vigorously growing tree. Vigorous birches can be form calluses around the larval tunnels and entrap the larvae.

First step in controlling bronze birch borers is to evaluate the current situation. You may want to use the Ball and Kennedy [illegible] European white birches. However, it can be transposed to other birches. The system:

Birth Trees Face Pest Infestation

Class 1 — A healthy, vigorous tree. Full crown with normal size green foliage.

Class 3 — Tree has twig and small branch dieback.

Class 5 — More than half of tree's crown is devoid of foliage.

By the time a tree is in Class 4 or Class 5 it's too late for any measures other than removal. Since the tree is severely infested, it will generate large populations of adult beetles. So, it's important to remove trees in Class 4 or 5 anytime from November through March, (this will also encourage new stump sprouts the following year). All tree material should be destroyed by chipping or incineration, for example. Trees showing branch dieback (Class 2 or 3) should be pruned below the dead wood in August and the material handled as above.

On a large scale, thin birch stands gradually. Take the larger, older birches, especially, if they show dieback symptoms. Leave the most vigorous young birches with large crowns.

Next step is to prevent or reduce stress on the remaining trees. This can be achieved by:

+ Watering during dry weather. This enables the tree to form calluses over larvae and trap them.

+ Mulching four to six inches deep inside dripline to keep the soil cool and moist.

+ Avoid root compaction by vehicle and pedestrian traffic.

+Fertilize to increase vigor. Apply a balanced N-P-K fertilizer in the spring (once every two years is adequate).

+ Promoting or choosing a shay location for birch trees. This reduces the amount of egg-laying activity and increases the tree vigor.

+ Control defoliators, such as leaf miners and skeletonizers. This involves the use of insecticides in the spring and early summer when adults are active.

+ Prune out infested branches each August. Destroy this material. (Bronze birch borer attack also stress tree).

Each year examine your trees for symptoms and maintain the cultural practices that promote tree vigor.

Bicyclists Become Number One Safety Problem In TRF

Chief asks bicyclists to observe rules of the road -

by David Hill
Times Reporter

Frequent complaints, accidents and an increased number of bicycle riders on city streets and sidewalks leads Thief River Falls Police Chief Kenneth Froschheiser to believe enforcement now will prevent a serious tragedy in the future.

As a result, enforcement will be stepped up. Froschheiser said he has told officers, in the process of their normal duties, to make sure bicycle riders are following the rules of the road.

What applies to motor vehicles usually applies to bicycle riders also, Froschheiser said. That means stopping at stop signs, yielding to pedestrians, looking both ways before entering traffic, using turning signals, riding in the correct lanes and in general following the rules of the road.

Police department policy on enforcement calls for warnings to be given to children up to age 14 and regular traffic citations to adults. Juveniles will be allowed to collect three warnings before the court is involved.

When a juvenile is stopped for a violation the officer will go home with the youngster and involve the parents. Officers are instructed to ask parents to help educate children. Froschheiser strongly believes parents are responsible for teaching their children.

All of the violations are not being committed by juveniles, Froschheiser said. It is surprising to see the number of adults breaking the law, he said.

Froschheiser said children can be taught by example also. If a child sees an adult doing something wrong, the child may think it's okay too, Froschheiser said.

Froschheiser said he understands children and adults are out there having fun and forget about the rules of the road, but it has become a serious problem. It is the responsibility of the police department to protect life and property, Froschheiser said. And, we will do it.

The most frequent violations officers have observed are bicyclists not stopping at stop signs, riding on the wrong side of the street, darting out of alleyways, and not using signals.

Bicyclists cause hazards by driving recklessly on sidewalks also. Froschheiser said when police officers observe this violation they try to decide which is worse — driving on the sidewalk or in traffic.

In many places it may be acceptable to ride bikes on sidewalks. However, Froschheiser would like to see bikes walked or ridden slowly on sidewalks. Froschheiser said when officers have toured area schools they tell youngsters to walk their bikes on sidewalks and in crosswalks.

Officers have also observed bicyclists driving on wrong side of the road. It used to be, Froschheiser said, that bicyclists were told to drive against traffic, but as soon as accident reports were studied by experts policy was changed. Bikes should be ridden with traffic and not against it.

Whenever a bike and car collide the bike rider will always come out second, no matter what side of the road they are on Froschheiser said. Observing safety rules could held prevent accidents.

Many citations have been written since officers stepped up enforcement nearly two weeks ago. Froschheiser said he is not sure what actions the court will take, but believes the court will look at the seriousness of the violation and take appropriate action.

Froschheiser said enforcement will use up man hours but he believes enforcement now will serve to educate and prevent a serious tragedy.

Minnesota does not require but suggests bicyclists should license their bikes. Several years ago the state took over all licensing. At that time Thief River Falls had a licensing ordinance and a license could be purchased for 35 cents. Now licenses can be purchased from the motor vehicle department at a cost of $11.

Licensing serves a dual purpose. Revenue collected from license sales pay for bike trails and signs across the state. It also helps in identification of stolen bikes. And, stolen bikes are a problem in Thief River Falls.

In two years the Thief River Falls police department has collected 60 bikes. While that says something of the department's recovery rate, it does not say much for the owners. All of these bikes remain unidentified by their owners and will be auctioned off soon. All of these bikes represent only a percentage of the bikes reported stolen and bikes recovered.

Whenever a bike was found police would check their files to see if it could be identified. Too many times the bike could not be matched. Too many times, Froschheiser said, all the owner had to give to police was the color and type of bike.

Froschheiser suggests bike owners write down serial numbers. He also suggests bike owners make it difficult for theives to take the bike. Owners should use locks and bicycle racks and keep bikes in garages or homes when not being used. "Don't make your bike an easy target for theives," Froschheiser said.

Summerfest In Crookston To Get Underway Thur.

Crookstonn's annual summer festival has a new name. Long known as Pioneer Days, the festival planning committee has selected "Summerfest" as the name for the June 25 - 28th fesitival.

"We believe the name — Summerfest — is more appropriate when you consider the variety of events and the number of organizations and individuals involved in the festival activities," Kathy Forsberg, Summerfest general chairperson said.

The name "Summerfest" is particularly important with the addition of the river family fun day to be held on Sunday, June 28th in Crookston's central park. This full day of events being planned by the Crookston chamber river task force adds a whole new dimension to the annual festival.

The theme selected by the planning committee for this year's Summerfest is "Salute to Agriculture, Builders of the Valley" and the entire festival will center around that theme.

The Summerfest theme will be especially visible during Saturday's Summerfest parade. Everyobdy loves a parade, and the Summerfest parade will be no exception. Parade time is set for Saturday afternoon June 27th with units expected from throughout the Red River Valley. Grand Marshall of the Summerfest parade will be the 1987 King Agassiz, Robert Miller of Twin Valley.

Summerfest parade entries will be competing for trophies in four categories according to Joe Courneya, chairman of the parade committee. The Grand Marshall's trophy will be awarded to the best commerical or non-commercial parade unit coming from outside of Crookston. The chamber of commerce trophy will be awarded to the parade unit that best emphasizes the parade theme. The president's trophy will be given to the best commercial unit entry from Crookston. And the Mayor's trophy will be given to the best non-commercial parade unit from Crookston. High school bands from Thief River Falls, Fertile, Gary and Crookston will be marching. Plans also include bleacher seating and KBRR's Madd Frank and KYCK's Jim Koehler will be introducing the parade units from the reviewing stand.

Courneya said there is still time to enter the Summerfest parade by contacting him at the West Polk county extension office or the chamber of commerce office at 281-4320. The Summerfest parade will get underway at 1:30 p.m. Saturday.

Other Summerfest activities include an ice cream social, make-a-wish carnival, a video demonstration for children at the Polk county library beginning 10:30 a.m., a 25-cent swim at the Crookston community pool beginning at 7 p.m., a Crookston squarenaders demonstration in the chamber parking lot at 7 p.m., followed by a dance at the Eagle lodge beginning 8 p.m. Thursday.

Friday's summerfest activities include a kiddie push, peddle and pet parade at city hall at 10 a.m., a senior citizens pincic at the Crookston sports arena at 11:30 a.m., Eipper Ultra-Light flying demonstration over the field north of the Dairy Queen at 5 p.m. and roller skating at the Crookston sports arena at 7 p.m.

Saturday's events include the third annual First American National bank run and walk at 9 a.m. in front of the bank, pancake breakfast at the American Legion from 7 to 10 a.m., Crookston Lions club car show in the First American National bank parking lot from 8 a.m. to noon, 4-H Regional horse show at UMC at 9 a.m., pig roast fest sponsored by the Knights of Columbus from 1 to 5:30 p.m. in the chamber parking lot, Summerfest parade at 1:30 p.m., and the KBRR-KYCK BMX show in the city hall parking lot at 3 p.m.

Summerfest and riverfest is Sunday in central park with the national guards 2nd annual pancake feed at 7:30 a.m., softball co-ed tournament sponsored by the Crookston park and recreation department, the battery E reunion at 8 a.m. sponsored by the American Legion, the catfishing contest continues until noon, the inner-city bike run at the arena parking lot, boat and pontoon

AAAE Commends Stangeland For Airport Actions

American Association of Airport Executives (AAAE) commended Congressmen Arlan Stangeland (R-MN) and Peter Visclosky (D-IN) for sponsoring amendments to the "Airport and Airway Trust Fund Reauthorization Act of 1987" (H.R. 2310) on behalf of smaller airports in the U.S.

Stangeland's amendment, accepted by the U.S. House Public Works committee on June 3, will permit an additional 86 airports to receive a minimum entitlement of $300,000 from the federal government for safety and capacity projects. (Airports with more than 18,000 annual enplanements would receive this entitlement.)

Visclosky's proposal, defeated by the same committee, would have provided a minimum of $300,000 to the nation's busiest general aviation-reliever airports. H.R. 2310 provides $1.7 billion for airport grants annually for five years. Funds for these programs come directly from fees paid by users of the aviation system.

AAAE is a non-profit professional association whose 1,300 airport executive members are responsible for the planning, operation and management of public-use airports throughout the United States and abroad.

Trip To The Ozarks And Memphis

The Carpenter Charter Bus, sponsored by the Overland Travel Club, with Randy Carpenter as driver and Jeannie Carpenter, Eldon and Evonne Moe as tour guides, and loaded with passengers, left from the Floyd B. Olson Park in Thief River Falls Thursday morning, June 4, for a trip to the Ozarks. The first stop was at Watertown, SD, for lunch. Here Eldon's cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Roso, met the bus and enjoyed a visit. From there they traveled on to Council Bluff, IA, where they spent the night. In the morning they drove on to St. Joseph, MO, where they enjoyed some sightseeing and then went on to Concordia, MO, where they had lunch. When they got to Branson, they were met by the manager of the Plantation Restaurant, who served them punch and cookies. Reservations had been made earlier for supper. After dining, the group was taken to a country show called "Baldknobbers," which everyone enjoyed very much. The bus group was recognized during the show, as well as June birthdays and wedding anniversaries for Ray and Rosie DeMeyere, Eldon and Evonne Moe, and Margie Jarshaw.

The next morning they met their tour guide, Deanna McDaniel, who showed them all the interesting sights in Branson. The first stop was at Mutton Hallow, the second at Stone Hill Winery, and the third at the Shephard of the Hills Fish Hatchery, where the group enjoyed a scenic drive to the top of Table Rock. The view from the top was spectacular — really something to see: The fourth stop was at the School of the Ozarks which is an agricultural school. Then they were taken to downtown Branson where they saw the Chocolate Factory, after which they went to the Shepherd of the Hills where there was a tour and the showing of an outdoor theater play which everyone enjoyed. Here the bus group from Thief River Falls was recognized again.

Sunday morning they were taken to Silver Dollar City where they spent the day. There were rides of various kinds, the Marvel Cave to visit, groups playing musical numbers and shops to buy souvenirs and other items. In the evening the group attended the country show of the Bob-O-Links, a very good performance. Buster Dennis was mentioned, especially in a joke about "Grandpa." While the group was in Branson, Randy's daughter, Rox Ann, and her son, Mark, were introduced to them and enjoyed a visit.

Monday morning, now June 8, they left the Fountain Head Lodge where they had lodging for three nights, said good-bye to their tour guides, Deanna and Judy, and traveled east across Arkansas to Memphis, TN, where they stayed two nights.

The first morning they went to Graceland, the home of Elvis Presley. They saw his tour bus, the airplanes, Lisa Marie and Hound Dog II. Later the group visited Sun Studio where Elvis made his first record, "That's All right, Mama," plus other solos and singing groups. In the afternoon they all went out to Mud Island, where the Mississippi River is a boundary between Arkansas and Tennessee. Some of the group enjoyed a boat ride. It was a very interesting area.

The next morning, June 10, the bus load left Memphis and went to St. Louis, MO, where they visited the Arch which is 630 feet to its summit. They toured the Anheiser Bush Brewery where they saw some of the Clydesdale horses that pull the Budweiser Wagon. While they were at their motel, there was an earthquake which registered 5.0 and was felt by some in the group. They had their evening meal at the Ground Round, where Eldon and Evonne celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary. Eldon and Alvin Anderson provided some guitar selections for some dancing before they all retired.

Thursday morning, June 11, the bus group left St. Louis and drove to Hannibal, MO, the home of Samuel Clemens, who wrote the book, "Tom Sawyer," and other novels. They visited the cave Tom explored and other places of interest. When they got back to the motel, the staff had coffee and cake prepared as a surprise in honor of Eldon and Evonne's 25th wedding anniversary. From Hannibal the bus took them to Des Moine, IA, where Jeannie Carpenter met with her mother and other family members. Bea Hutchinson visited her grandson and his family. Gen Homstad also enjoyed seeing him as she is his aunt. It was now June 12th and Marie Kleinwachter's birthday so they made a stop to have ice cream and sing "Happy Birthday" to her. Their next stop was Rogers, MN, where they had lunch. Marceline Grundhaus met her daughter and family here and she and Marie left the group. The bus reached Thief River Falls that evening. Everyone reported having had a wonderful trip and hope to go again.

The passengers on the trip were: from Thief River Falls, Russ and Fern Nelson, Ray and Jeannie Nelson, Alvin and Mabel Anderson, Irvin and Margie Jarshaw, Donavan and Verla Erlandson, Margaret Voth, Elda Knutson, Raymond and Rosie DeMeyere, Howard and Ruby Langlie, Sara Kusmak, Marceline Grundhaus, Marie Kleinwachter, Irene Rausch, Buster Dennis, Andy Dennis, and also the driver and guides. Others were Illa Anderson from Benedict, Frank and Shirley Cwikla from Wannaska, Beatrice Hutchinson, Mary Kusmak and Bonnie Johnsrud all from Goodridge, Gen Homstad from Hallock, Andrew Lien and Merle Lien from Greenbush, and Orvus and Alene Benitt from Holt.

Congratulations, Debbie

Congratulations of the community go out this week to Debbie Erickson, Miss Thief River Falls of 1986, who received the highest placing of any Miss Thief River Falls winner in the Miss Minnesota pageant. Debbie gained third runner-up honors and won preliminary talent competition at the state pageant last week.

Not since Susanne Pitblado of Roseau won the state talent competition with a piano solo 25 years ago while representing Thief River Falls has a local winner fared as well in the state contest.

Nothing earned at the state pageant is undeserved; it takes a superior amount of talent, poise and personality to join a group of local winners, all selected on the same basis, and come out a winner. Debbie has proved that she is a winner.

For her third runner-up finish, Debbie picked up a $750 scholarship. She also won trophies for her talent division win and the runner-up honors. With the $750 scholarship provided to the winner of the last year's Miss Thief River Falls pageant, Debbie has earned $1,500 through scholarship pageant participation toward her college education. She will be senior this fall.

The local Women of Today chapter is working with eight candidates for the 1987 Miss Thief River Falls pageant to be conducted August 1. Once again there will be scholarship money to be won as well as valuable experience to be gained, and a local winner will advance to state competition. Over the years we have noted the development of local pageant winners in poise and maturity as they represent our community. All have benefitted from the opportunity.

But this week belongs to Debbie Erickson, and we join in giving her our sincere congratulations and best wishes. She worked hard, she earned her placing and she deserves to enjoy it.

A $330,000 Buy

Just a little over a month from now — on July 28, to be exact — voters in School District 564 will decide if it is worth spending $330,000 of local funds over a 20-year period to obtain $2,115,000 in facilities for its technical institute. In our estimation it's a good buy . . . on second thought, it's a great buy!

Not only does the school district receive about a six-to-one benefit on its investment, the community stands to gain much in an important area which can hold good things for the future. Primary beneficiary of the project will be the technical institute's aviation program, and that is an area which can offer development in related business and industry in the relatively near future.

On July 28 voters will voice their opinion on a bond issue for $33,000 to finance the local district's share of the construction project. The funds will provide for construction of a classroom building at the airport and some remodeling at the main campus to provide new student areas. Number of students in the aviation program — 70 per cent of whom are presently from outside the 12-county northwestern Minnesota area — presently stands at 120 and is expected to increase to 300 within a few years.

There is nothing wrong with looking at the economic impact of 180 new aviation students — many of them married persons with families — being added to the local community. Estimates are that single students spend $484 a month in living expenses in the community and married students spend about $1,000 per month. Jobs Incorporated estimates that the additional six instructors who would be needed to handle the increased load would add $264,000 to the community economic base annually in personal and job-related expenditures.

Certainly anyone involved in retail business or in service professions dealing with numbers of people should quickly see the benefits of such increased economic activity. Those employed in other areas of work or retired may not see the same benefits, but everyone who lives here has a stage in how the community grows and develops.

If you are a retired person with your own home, wouldn't you like to know there would be an increased chance of selling it when you choose to do so? If you are in need of products or services — and everyone is — don't you appreciate having the variety and selection that a thriving city can provide? Both conditions are dependent upon an adequate number of people to create a demand.

Every community would like to have a means of stimulating economic growth. The aviation program here, through its arrangements with Northland community college and the University of North Dakota, could well be a springboard to additional growth for Thief River Falls. Development in the aviation area would tie into a growing field that holds good potential for expansion.

Conversely, to not expand the aviation program and lose its potential by forfeit to some other institution would be bad business. If the program is allowed to collapse for inavailability of facilities, we would guess the remainder of the technical institute's programs would also be in jeopardy. The old idea that it is necessary to grow or die could well be applied to the building program.

Cost to the individual home owner would be negligible to the average farmers would be minimal, to the businessman would be modest. For the home owner with a $55,000 house and $35,000 to $100,000 income, the net cost after homestead credit and state property tax refund would be $6 per year. For a $95,000 home the cost would be $12. For a person with a $35,000 house and up to $20,000 of income there would be no additional cost.

On homestead agricultural lands, a farm with $200,000 market value and $33,440 assessed value, would pay 16 cents per acre, if 80 acres in size, eight cents per acre if 160 acres in size, four cents if 320 acres in size and three cents if 480 acres in size.

For commercial-industrial property, a business with a $300,000 market value and $120,000 assessed value would pay $70.80 a year in additional taxes if the bond issue is passed.

Nobody likes to see taxes increase by any amount, but there are times when the additional cost can provide excellent value. This is one of those times.

$140 Oil?

According to Dallas oilman Frank Pitts, owner of Pitts Oil company, the true cost of oil imports from the Persian Gulf is closer to $140 per barrel than the bargain $19 price frequently mentioned in the media. Pitts says that U.S. taxpayers are subsidizing Mideast OPEC producers to the tune of $120 per barrel.

"According to former Navy Secretary John Lehman, our military commitment to defend the Persian Gulf oil supply lines costs $40 billion per year," Pitts said. "Divide that by the more than 330 million barrels we imported from the Middle East last year, then add in the $19 purchase price and you get $140 per barrel."

Pitts says that America's increased military presence in the Mideast makes little sense unless viewed in the overall context of national energy security. "We're over there for the oil," he says, "and because the Reagan administration has done virtually nothing to revive the crippled domestic petroleum industry, we are assured of becoming even more dependent on the Persian Gulf."

Pitts also believes that U.S. military efforts are subsidizing the energy costs of some of our world trade competitors. France imports 33 per cent of its oil from this area, Italy imports 51 per cent and Japan imports 60 per cent, all from the Middle East, Pitts said.

"Yet we are the only Western nation with warships protecting the Persian Gulf sea lanes," Pitts notes. He said he did not believe we should withdraw from the area, but that other nations should be asked to share the cost and risks.

According to government and industry statistics, lower oil prices have virtually halted exploration activity in the United States. "This means we will be using up oil that has already been discovered, and then not replacing it with new reserves," he said.

"Imports continue to fill the gap, even at $140 prices, while we can produce oil in the U.S. for less than $30 if government would remove the stumbling blocks. By letting our domestic industry die on the vine, we are raising the likelihood that there will be more incidents like the USS Stark attack, future supply disruptions and higher oil prices paid to foreign countries."

Tidbits From Thief River Falls THE TIMES

by Sharon LaCoursiere

June 24, 1937 Times

From the Classifieds

— Times' classifieds are always fun to run through. Today, Julien Provencher, Jr., wanted a ride to Minneapolis, and J. Provencher (Sr., we assume) had furniture for sale at his home at 704 North Main avenue. He offered a dresser for $4, laundry stove (whatever that is) for $1.50, 20-gallon jug for $1.50, and black oak china closet for $20.

Other interesting ads in the Times today were a kitchen range for sale by Mrs. Ed Langevin, 319 North Arnold avenue; walnut dining room set, kitchen table and chairs by A.M. Holte, who lived above the Avalon Theatre; electric washing machine for sale by Mrs. Nesland; and "davenport," rocking chairs and cigarette stand by George Christo, Seventh Street East.

Earl Long was selling six-week-old pigs and so was Frank Wilde of Hazel. C.L. Heinze had fine young white pigs that same age. Andrew Breznay had a Holstein bull for sale; John Breznay had two gray gelding colts; and William Hallameck, who lived three and one-half miles west and one-half mile north on highway two, had 100 select Buff Orpington pullets, priced reasonably if taken at once.

And in the "Help Wanted" section of the classifieds, Mrs. Adolph Marien of Larimore, ND, wanted a capable girl for general housework on a farm and was willing to pay $4 per week to the lucky young miss.

Parade and Prizes

— Montgomery Ward and Company will sponsor a Decorated Bike Parade and contest Saturday. Prizes would be $5, $3, and $2 worth of sporting merchandise from the store for the most attractive and orginally decorated bicycle. Judges will be H.N. Elofson, Hal Ekeren and Carl Kretzschmar.

Go Directly To...

— Seems that tougher penalties were imposed on law breakers back in '37. An 18-year-old who was found guilty of picking a pocket during the recent American Legion convention in the city was sentenced to spend an indeterminate length of time in the St. Cloud reformatory and was taken there immediately after sentencing. Another youth, age 19, was given a twenty-day sentence in the county jail for theft of a radio from an automobile.

Mammoth Barn Dance

— The new arena was to be the scene of a mammoth barn dance again Saturday. The Fairmont Old Timers orchestra headed by Andy Anderson would play. They featured such famous names as Ole Swenson, Lars the Great, Slim the Poultry Grader, Shorty the Fireman, Chris Christensen, Jake the Buttermaker, and Charles the Can Washer.

Thirty large oriental lanterns are being used to decorate the building for the summer season and the dance floor had the finest finish in the state with a new special wax treatment. A new cooling system in the arena changes the air in the entire building every 20 minutes, for cool, comfortable dancing.

Sounds Suspicious To Me ME...

— And to top off the week, another "oddity" that was brought into the Times: "Some small, grayish globules with a stripe around the middle and a diameter of less than a quarter of an inch were brought into the Times office Wednesday by E.E. Pechie, who found them under a tree in his yard. That the pellets contain something alive is shown by the fact that they are almost constantly in motion, even leaping short distances into the air. The Times staff was unable to identify them." Maybe next week's issue will continue the saga of the mysterious "globules."

Legislature Puts Small Business On The Defensive

Small business achieved a few isolated victories in an otherwise uphill battle against anti-business bills passed by the 1987 DFL-controlled legislature, according to Mike Hickey, director for National Federation of Independent Business-Minnesota.

The state's business climate will be harmed most by an unemployment compensation bil that increases taxes for virtually all companies, he said.

"It should come as no surprise that a bill loaded with surtaxes, liberal eligibility standards and virtually no benefit, revision could possible cut costs and taxes," said Hickey. Hickey explained that analysis by the House Republican caucus shows an increase for even minimum rate payers that pay hourly salaries in excess of $6 an hour.

Hickey expressed further disappointment that unemployment compensation legislation was rushed through the Senate in the final hours of the session without public disclosure. Hickey cautioned, however, that the "DFL has not heard the last of the unemployment issue."

Hickey said business owners were further burdened by legislation providing an alternative corporate minimum tax, calling the measure "a tax on existence."

While the measure exempts companies with total business factors valued under $5 million, Hickey said it's a far cry from the $10 to $20 million exemption that was considered going into the final wekend of the session.

Compromises were reached on the parental leave and minimum wage legislation. In the former, a threatened year-long leave was settled at six weeks. On the minimum wage front, a one dollar per hour increase next year was modified to a 50 to 60-cent increase over three years.

Hickey said that insurance reform legislation was a mixed bag for small business. While providing some regulatory relief, it imposes additional mandated benefits for those employers that offer health insurance.

"Mandating additional benefits for those who already provide health insurance is the wrong approach," Hickey said. "It provides small businesses a disincentive to provide any benefits at all." He further noted that no states have authority to force businesses to offer health insurance.

According to Hickey, property tax relief was the major bright spot for small-business owners. Those who own commercial property valued at or below $120,000 will pay about 10 per cent less taxes.

NFIB-Minnesota successfully led efforts to establish a utility advocate which provides small-business representation in rate-making and other utility cases. The organization also helped create a pro-consumer telephone deregulation bill that allows only partial deregulation of some telephone services.

Urge Farmers To File Report Of Crop Acreages

"We encourage all farmers, whether they participate in farm programs or not, to file an acreage report to protect their crop acreage bases," said Kermit Finstad, chairman of the Pennington County Agricultural and Stabilization committee.

Finstad said that by certifying crop acres, producers establish documentation for future crop acreage bases and also eligibility for different benefits under farm [illegible]

Farm program participants are required to report crops and acreages planted, the uses to be made of these crops and cropland acres devoted to the conservation reserve. When farmers report to the ASCS office, they can review aerial photographs of their farms and pinpoint the fields in which the crops are grown. This information is then documented for program compliance and crop acreage bases.

"It is mandatory for farmers who are participating in this year's program to file an acreage report. Without the report, they are no longer in the program," Finsatd concluded.

Final certification dates for program crops in Minnesota is July 15.

Psoriasis May Develop Into Type Of Arthritis

Although many people are aware of the skin problems caused by psoriasis, few know the condition sometimes carries another health risk called psoriatic arthritis, reports the Arthritis foundation.

Seven per cent of the people who have psoriasis will get psoriatic arthritis, and many of these will require very little treatment. But in some people, the condition can be severe.

Psoriatic arthritis causes inflammation of the bone and tissues around the joint, as well as in the joint itself. Usually the last joints of the fingers, located next to the nails, are affected, but it can also involve the toes, wrists, shoulders, elbows, hips, knees and ankles. One form of psoriatic arthritis occurs in the spine and is more likely to affect men.

The symptoms of psoriatic arthritis can differ from person to person. The major complaint may be several sore fingers or soreness of other joints. Sometimes one or two fingers may swell up and resemble sausages. Aside from joint pain and skin rash, people with this form of arthritis usually feel well. However, both psoriasis and psoriatic arthritis are chronic diseases, meaning they will remain for life and will require some medical attention over the years.

To hear a message on this condition, telephone the Minnesota Chapter of the Arthritis foundation on their toll-free line, 1-800-552-1278. Callers may request a free booklet titled Psoriatic Arthritis.

Eric Stromberg Now Eagle Scout

Eric Stromberg, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Stromberg of Thief River Falls, was elected to the rank of Eagle scout at a court of honor recently at St. John Lutheran church in Thief River Falls. Merit badge presentation and rank advancement was accomplished by Jim Fisher, scoutmaster.

Stromberg joined Cub scouts in 1978 by becoming a member of Den 4 in Pack 199 at St. John church. He received his Arrow of Light award as a Webelo scout in August of 1981, then advanced to Tenderfoot in April of 1982, Second Class in June of 1982, First Class in March of 1983, Star scout in May of 1984 and Life scout in November of 1984.

He has served as assistant patrol leader, patrol leader and scribe and earned Order of the Arrow, Ordeal member and Brotherhood member awards. He attended Camp Wilderness five years, the council-wide camperall at Harte Butte and a trip to Theodore Roosevelt national park.

A member of United Methodist church, he has been an acolyte and a member of the church youth group. He will be a senior at Lincoln high school this fall and is employed part-time at Gary's Rainbow Bakery. As his Eagle scout project he constructed 11 display easels and donated them to the Northwest Regional library for use in a five-county area to display works of art at seven member libraries.

Art Heinze served as master of ceremonies for the awards ceremony with Mark Olson playing the National Anthem on his trombone and Rev. Melvyn Budke giving the opening prayer. Mayor Bob Carlson spoke, Troop 199 conducted a candle lighting ceremony and Jim Hoks gave the Eagle charge. Heidi Hoks of the regional library staff gave her congratulations, Rev. Budke gave the invocation and Mark Olson played "Taps".

Commissioners To Hold Equalization Meeting July 6

Pennington county commissioners will hold its annual board of equalization July 6 beginning at 10 a.m. in commissioner's chambers on the second floor of the Pennington county courthouse.

The meeting is an opportunity to discuss property valuations with county commissioners. Anyone with a complaint or problem about property valuations is invited to attend the board of equalization meeting.

Ken Olson, county auditor, said however, that individuals should have discussed their problems first with either township officials or city officials at boards of review.

TRF Initiates Tree Cutting Program Due To Disease

Effects of Dutch elm disease are becoming more evident in Thief River Falls. City crews are working hard to cut down all the trees affected by the disease and the number of bare spots where trees once stood is increasing.

As a result, city forester, John Johnson and The Times have been receiving a number of questions about the tree-cutting program.

Where diseased trees have been located, Johnson said, property owners are receiving notices to remove them within five days or the city will contract the job out to a private business and the resident will pay the cost of removal. That situation happens only if the tree is on the property owner's land. Any diseased tree in the berm — the area between sidewalk and street — is the responsibility of the city.

City crews are busy locating diseased elms, cutting them down and burning the trees. To date, Johnson said, 45 to 50 trees have been marked as diseased. By next week the number of trees marked for removal will probably reach 60.

"We are moving as quickly as we can," Johnson said, "but property owners can help by contacting us if they spot a diseased tree."

Yellowing foliage, especially at the crown, can identify a tree as one infected by Dutch elm disease. But to be sure, Johnson said, contact him before doing anything about the tree.

Johnson said he has been working closely with property owners to inform them of their options and answer their questions. Anyone with questions can contact Johnson or someone in his office.

The city will replace trees only where trees were removed from city property. Property owners can replace trees removed from their property, but at their own cost.

Replanting will begin in the fall or next spring. Those times of the year are considered the best times for replanting, Johnson said.

Where there were two trees, only one will be replaced as a general rule, Johnson said. In many cases, trees were planted too close together, he said, so the city will not replace two trees if there isn't enough space to accommodate two trees.

The types of trees selected to replace the diseased elm trees include varieties of ash, hackberry, maple or basswood.

Johnson said he has has some difficulty with hackberry trees. The trees were apparently removed from the nursery and replanted at the wrong time of year. This caused the trees to go into deep dormancy. For the most part, Johnson said, they are not dead, but will not leaf out for quite awhile.

Johnson said the trees that are dead did not die because of a lack of water. They died for a variety of other reasons.

When replanting starts, however Johnson is asking that property owners water trees replanted in the berm. He said he will plant the trees if homeowners will take care of them.

County Accepts Resignation Of County Engineer

Pennington county engineer Wayne Olson has resigned. Pennington county commissioners accepted Olson's resignation at its board meeting last Tuesday.

Olson has accepted a position as county highway engineer for Carlton county. Olson views the move as a career advancement opportunity.

"I have appreciated the opportunity to work with people in Pennington county, and thank the commissioners for their support," Olson said.

Olson said he has enjoyed working for the county and was not disappointed with work here, but didn't want to miss an opportunity to further his career. Olson said he will be going to a larger department with a greater variety of work.

Olson has worked for Pennington county as its engineer since April of 1983. He is originally from Wadena. He came to Pennington county from Wisconsin, where he worked for Twin City Testing. His last day as county engineer in Pennington county will be July 17.

Ken Olson, Pennington county auditor, said the county board accepted the resignation with regret. The county expects to begin advertising for someone to fill the position vacated by Olson soon.

Two Killed In Accident After TRF Class Reunion

Two individuals who attended the 1932 Lincoln high school class reunion in Thief River Falls last weekend were killed in an early morning accident in Ogema last Wednesday.

According to the Minnesota state patrol in Detroit Lakes, Martha Ristau and Helene Ristau, Glendale, CA, were killed Wednesday morning when the car they were driving collided with the back of a semi trailer, which was parked along highway 59 in Ogema. The state patrol reports the truck driver, Billy Olson, Halma, had parked his semi on the side of highway 59 in Ogema and that the accident happened at about 7:15 a.m. Martha and Helene Ristau were dead at the scene.

Thirty-three members of the Lincoln high school class of 1932 attended a 55-year reunion Saturday and Sunday in Thief River Falls. Participants gathered Saturday at the Heritage community center to renew friendships and revive memories of their school days. The group attended several other events and toured the city during the weekend.

Martha, a class member, and her sister Helene, were among those attending the class reunion.

Tofte Has Lesson In Gov't. At Girls State

"What I learned about government in a week is unreal," states Heidi Tofte, recently returned from a week as delegate to American Legion auxiliary Girls State at Bethel college in St. Paul. Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Tofte of Thief River Falls and a senior this fall at Lincoln high school, she was among 434 girls participating in the event this year.

"You more or less get thrown into the twilight zone," Heidi said of her experience in the governmental training program. "But you live government every day and you learn as you go along. I ran for the first office that I had a chance to run for and I got elected — chief judge of elections in our mythical city of Wihake. I was assigned to be a member of the Federalist party but some of my best friends were in the Nationalist party."

Those Nationalist-party candidates turned out to be quite popular as four of the girls from Heidi's city were elected to state office — including Susan Swenson of Litchfield as governor and Heidi's good friend Sarah Turk of Mankato as state auditor. Others were named lieutenant governor and supreme court associate justice.

One of the people to address the Girls State gathering this year was last year's governor — Gayle Borchert of Thief River Falls. "She's from my town and I know her," Heidi was able to say when Gayle spoke to the delegates.

Delegates from northwestern Minnesota made the trip to St. Paul by bus and Heidi was able to become acquainted with a number of girls there. She said she also formed some close friendships with other girls in her city, and was somewhat sur-

Cook's Choice

The Fourth of July is barbecue time, so how about a little barbecued chicken? If not, try the sauce on hamburgers, hot dogs, or whatever your heart desires. Serve with several cold salads, lots of cold iced tea and watermelon for dessert, and you're all set for an easy Fourth of July feast.

BARBECUED CHICKEN

1 (three pound) broiler chicken, cut into serving-sized pieces, skin removed ½ cup red wine vinegar
2 tablespoons Worchestershire sauce
¼ cup dark brown sugar, firmly packed
¼ cup catsup
½ teaspoon pepper
1¼ tablespoons dry mustard
1 teaspoon paprika
dash Tabasco sauce
½ cup onion, thinly sliced

If planning to barbecue the chicken on a grill, parboil the pieces prior to marinating by simmering in one inch of water, covered, for 15 to 20 minutes. (If planning to bake in an oven, this is not necessary.)

In 9 by 13 inch baking dish, mix together all ingredients except chicken and onion. Stir in onion. Drain chicken and place in single layer in baking dish. Spoon sauce over chicken, cover and marinate in refrigerator at least 30 minutes, preferably over night.

If baking in oven, place in 350 degree oven and bake, covered, for 45 minutes or until chicken is tender. Occasionally spoon marinade over chicken.

If grilling, drain the marinade from the chicken and cook on a grill using the marinade for a basting sauce.

Each serving will yield seven grams of fat and 256 servings. (The three-pound chicken will serve four.)

Office Doors In County Courthouse Will Be Closed

Office doors may be closed in the Pennington county courthouse, but there will still be business as usual.

County Auditor Ken Olson said the doors to offices in the building will be closed, because the county has learned that the air conditioning and heating unit in the county courthouse will work better with doors to the hallways closed.

People may be confused by the practice and believe offices in the building are closed, Olson said, and "we don't want anyone to think that."

Eventually, "Please Walk In" will be posted on every office door. But not all of the signs have been put up yet, and that may cause some confusion. Olson advises visitors to the courthouse to "just walk in."

Olson said county commissioners have been told that the Pennington county courthouse heating and air conditioning system was designed such that the people in the building would be better served if the doors to the hallways remained closed. It would be less stress[illegible] provide better circulation and possibly lower costs, he said.

Olson hopes complaints about the uneven distrubution of cold and hot air and problems with equipment will cease now that the doors are closed.

MN Starwatch Lists Activity For July Skies

Jupiter's closest approach to the sun in 12 years and night skies dominated by Saturn and the red star Antares, rising like twin torches shortly after sunset in the southeast, highlight July's starwatching. Jupiter appears later in the evening, followed by Venus, a brief, brilliant blaze until the sun's rays come to wash it out.

Earth reaches its greatest distance from the sun, 94.5 million miles, at 6 p.m. CDT on July 3. Exactly a week after Earth is at perihelion, Jupiter reaches perihelion, the giant planet's closest approach to the sun in its 12-year orbit. Jupiter will then be 41 light-minutes, or about 460 million miles, from the sun. Jupiter rises around midnight and easily outshines any other object until Venus appears.

The full "buck" moon will rise on the 10th, and the new moon arrives on the 25th. The very young moon will be just to the right of the bright star Regulus in evening twilight on the 27th; it should be a pretty sight if clouds don't interfere.

Our Milky Way galaxy is prominent in July. Its center is about 26,000 light-years away, just east of the tail of Scorpius, near Saturn and Antares. [illegible] area make it easy to find. Galileo was among the first to realize that the Milky Way and other light patches in the sky were many stars close together; before that, everyone thought they were clouds of some sort. Astronomers studying the galactic center now think a black hole, perhaps as massive as a million of our suns, may lie there.

Saturn, left of Antares in the constellation Ophiuchus, reveals its rings through a small telescope or strong binoculars. Titan, its largest moon, appears through a telescope as a tiny point of light in the same plane as the rings.

Uranus is a faint spot left of Saturn. It can be found through binoculars or a telescope by finding the 3.3-magnitude star Theta Ophiuchi, 6 to 7 degrees to the lower left of Saturn. Theta is about halfway between Antares and the 2.8-magnitude Lambda Sagittarii, the star at the top of the "teapot" in Sagittarius, less than 2 degrees above a line joining Antares and Lambda. Find a 4.2-magnitude star 1.3 degrees to the upper left of Theta, then look 1.2 degrees left and slightly up to locate a somewhat dimmer star. Uranus will be about half a degree, or as wide as a full moon, almost directly above this last star. A star chart will help.

Uranus, the first ruler of the universe, has a colorful history in Greek mythology. The son of Gaea, the Earth, Uranus fathered the Titans and the Cyclopes by her. Fearing his children would rebel, Uranus imprisoned them. But Gaea and Cronus, a Titan, castrated him, destroying his power. From drops of his blood that fell on Earth sprang up the three Furies, goddesses of revenge. The Greek poet Hesiod tells us that Aphrodite was born of Uranus' discarded flesh and the foaming sea.

Aphrodite, called Venus by the Romans, shines just before daybreak in the east. But by the end of the month the planet will have moved too close to the sun to see. Venus will return as an evening star in late September.

prised at the closeness which could be developed in such a short time. There were 29 Girls Staters in her city.

Several of the events in which the girls participated were especially memorable, Heidi said. One was a visit to the State Capitol building during which the Girls Staters took over the constitutional offices and held a simulated legislative session. Another was a simulated naturalization proceeding for Song Lo, a delegate who had not yet become a naturalized citizen of the United States but was elected lieutenant govenor of Girls State. A third was a simulated trial in the Supreme Court with the Girls Staters acting as jurors to reach a verdict.

Girls State is sponsored by the American Legion auxiliary and was conducted June 7-13 at Bethel college. Girls attending learned more about government by campaigning for office, forming party platforms, participating in caucuses, electing officials and adopting legislation.

Among those addressing the girls during the week in addition to Gayle Borchert were Mrs. Milton Headley, Sherburn, department president of the American Legion auxiliary; Christine Eichers of Mankato and Kirsten Bergman of Circle Pines, Girls Nation delegates; Mayor Mary Lou Beckman, Lake City; Lt. Gov. Marlene Johnson; Police Chief Tony Bouza; and Rep. Harriet McPherearson of District 55B. During the State Capitol visit they heard from Attorney General Hubert H. (Skip) Humphrey III and others.

Highlight of the week was the inauguration of the new Girls State governor Thursday evening with M. Jeanne Coyne, associate justice of the Minnesota supreme court, officiating. All the girls wore formals for the event and Heidi said the scene was especially impressive.

The 41st annual Girls State program came to a close Saturday, June 13, with the presentation of pins and certificates and announcement of award winners.

"Americanism was really stressed throughout the whole week," Heidi said. "One of the speakers showed slides and played music about America that really made an impression. I know I have a lot more respect for our government and our flag now. I know more about how our laws affect everyone and I will definitely vote as soon as I am eligible."

Heidi has been in student government at Lincoln for three years and [illegible] senate during the school year just completed. The other delegate sponsored by Ecklund-Holmstrom unit of the American Legion auxiliary in Thief River Falls was Betty Jo Kiesow of Goodridge. Alternates were Cindy Kruta of Thief River Falls and Ruthie Pittman of Goodridge.

Dear Readers:
Travelers to foreign countries are often surprised to learn how informed and inspired foreigners are with the stirring speeches and actions of our forefathers in their fight for liberty and freedom. It is well for us to occasionally reread the Declaration of Independence and the U.S. Constitution to rekindle our own dedication to freedom.
Sincerely,

David Torgerson Is Wheat Council Market Specialist

David Torgerson, native of Moorhead and 1986 graduate of North Dakota state university, has joined the staff of the Minnesota wheat research and promotion council as the organization's marketing specialist. Torgerson holds degrees in both agricultural economics and animal and range sciences.

Following his college graduation, Torgerson participated in an Australian agricultural work exchange program through which he was able to work and observe that country's production and marketing systems.

According to Fred Hejduk, Wheat Council executive director, Torgerson will be responsible for compiling information and statistics pertaining to trends in wheat exports and production; coordinating the council's research programs; monitoring legislation and trade policy; and implementing membership and public relations programs.

"Torgerson's farm background, in addition to his agricultural education, will be a welcome addition to the wheat council staff," Hejduk says.

Torgerson's family operates a small grain farm near Hawley.

Speed Adaptation Can Be Problem On Some Highways

Even though only 700 miles of Minnesota's rural interstate highways are posted for 65 miles per hour, the Minnesota Safety council warns drivers that a phenomenon called speed adaptation could give them a problem on lower speed highways.

When motorists travel for long periods of time on higher speed roadways, they tend to adapt to these speeds when they move to connecting roads with lower speed limits. As a result, small reductions in speed seem much greater than they are and drivers do not slow down to posted speed levels.

Drivers exiting from the 65 mph rural interstate or entering a 55 mph urban freeway tend not to slow down enough to match the speed of other drivers who had not been exposed to higher speeds. The effect continues for several minutes and tends to push other drivers to higher speeds and to disrupt a consistent traffic flow.

According to the Insurance Institute for Highway Safety, the speed adaptation phenomenon can result in higher speeds and more deaths on urban interstates and adjacent roads as well.

After traveling on rural interstates, the Minnesota Safety Council urges drivers to make a conscious effort to slow down to 55 mph at exits and when entering urban sections of the interstate.

LITTLE OAK . . .

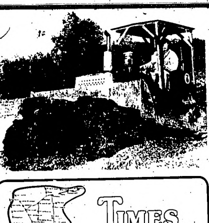
Arnold Haugen got Father's Day greetings by phone from Orren Haugen in Hibbing. Sharron Johnson called there on Sunday and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Burstad came to wish Arnold a happy Father's Day.



PARENTS and friends of bicycle riders at the Thief River Falls BMX track were getting the track ready last week. A lot of painting was done and the track received some major changes. Dale Olmstead volunteered his time and tractor to add a little height to the jumps, widen the curves and smooth out the straight-aways. Tonight is the first night of BMX track racing in Thief River Falls. Organization officials are hoping for a good turnout. Last year there were between 50 and 80 racers. They hope more will join this summer. Races are held every Monday night beginning at 6:30 p.m. The track is located on Oakland park road behind the Best Western Inn. Volunteers making repairs to the track included Clarice Collins, Dale Olmstead, Jack Nelson, Duane Lusignan, Rick Harbott, and Nancy Harbott.

Offer Counseling On International Trade At Bemidji

Bemidji state university small business development center can provide — at no charge to businesses — on-site counseling in the area of international trade. Any business which is now exporting or would like to consider exporting can contact Arthur Gullette at (218) 755-2750.

The international trade counseling is funded by a grant from the Northwest Minnesota Initiative fund and is restricted to businesses located in economic development Regions I and II.

In addition to the one-on-one counseling, the center plans to form a regional exporters association this fall which will provide the following benefits:

(1) A one-stop entry point to gain access to state and federal export assistance;

(2) A series of international trade workshops based on the information and educational needs of the association members presented in communities within Region I and II;

(3) A regular means to receive information about appropriate trade missions; and

(4) An opportunity, on a regular basis, to talk with other exporters to learn who they are and how they solved their problems.

NWRDC staff plans to work closely with the Bemidji small business development center in promoting international trade in Region I.

A business does not have to be big to enter into foreign trade. Anyone having a product that could sell in other parts of the world should investigate the possibilities.

For more information contact Helen Jurchen at the NWRDC office in Thief River Falls by calling 681-2637.

Rainy River Spring

Baudette — A rider quietly slipped into a bill presented by Representative Wally Sparby has ended a decade-long tradition on Rainy river. Spring walleye fishing on Rainy river between February 28 and April 14 is finished as of Feb. 28, 1988, when the walleye season will close on Rainy river to coincide with the state's inland lakes. The season on the river has traditionally been stretched to April 14 on the Minnesota-Ontario border to match the Canadian closing date. Since the seven weeks between the two closings was a busy one for businesses from International Falls to Wheelers Point, residents of that area are voicing their opposition to the closing. (Baudette Region)

Fertile Logo

Fertile — The city's centennial logo for this year was designed by Debbie Hawkins, who died Oct. 2, 1984, after suffering from cystic fibrosis for many years. She was the winner of a contest held in 1976 to choose an official logo for the city's 100th birthday in 1987. Hawkins grew up in Fertile, graduating from Fertile-Beltrami high school in 1977. She attended Moorhead AVTI and Lutheran Bible institute in Issaquah, WA, and worked as a graphic arts designer in Seattle, WA, prior to her death. The logo she designed features an eternal flame which binds the spiritual heritage of the city to the roots of the land, portrayed by farm equipment, with a large F for the city of Fertile standing as a sign that those roots and values will be tended for generations to come. (Fertile Journal)

Fossil

Clearbrook — While cultivating his field south of Clearbrook this spring, Duane Beckstrand unearthed a large limestone rock that split in half to reveal fossilized bones and the imprint of the spine of some sort of unknown creature, measuring one and one-half inches by eight inches, with another fossil imprint at the end of the spine. Beckstrand has notified Bemidji state university of the find and hopes the university will help him find out just what sort of creature is imbedded in the rock. (Leader-Record)

No Go

Crookston — Members of the Crookston school board discussed, but took no action on, a proposal to participate in a voluntary open enrollment program at a board meeting June 22. The Crookston Daily Times said the lack of action had the same effect as a vote against open enrollment, since school districts must notify the state department of education by July 1 if they plan to participate in the program. (Crookston Daily Times)

Vandalism

Williams — Last week the Williams community center sustained damages that may run as high as $10,000. Vandals broke the third story windows on the east side of the original building along with several second story windows and one on the south wing. A group of concerned citizens has donated money to be put into a reward fund for anyone who provides information leading to the conviction of the person(s) responsible. (Williams Northern Light)

Two Seconds to Safety
Do you know the proper distance to stay behind the vehicle in front of you? Here's a simple, effective rule to follow: it's called the Two Second Rule. Just pick out a shadow or marking on the road and as the vehicle in front passes it, start counting, "thousand-and-one, thousand-and-two". You should now be crossing the same mark. This rule works for all speeds, whether it's city or highway driving.
Use the Two Second rule. It could save your life.

Thought Provoking Comment On Subjects Of Public Interest

Not Deficit Reduction

"If the big-spenders in Congress get their tax increases, they're not going to put it toward deficit reduction," notes Congressman Arlan Stangeland. "Instead, it will go into less-popular programs controlled by influential special interest groups. They are baiting the American people with hopes of lower deficits and then switching course mid-stream to satisfy the special interests that elected them."

Congressman Stangeland based his vote against the conference report on the first concurrent budget resolution last Tuesday on the above belief. He is most likely right in his observation.

"The House-Senate conference report before the Congress is a misleading resolution," he said. "The spenders and taxers in Congress are baiting [illegible] justification for tax increases, but what they're really doing is forcing the Congress to increase taxes and raise spending. There is nothing resembling deficit reduction in this resolution."

He points out that the budget resolution, designed to set targets for revenues and outlays for federal programs, calls for $64.3 billion in new taxes over three years. It also calls for spending increases of 4.5 per cent in 1988, compared to 2.5 per cent in 1987.

Congressman Stangeland's opposition to the resolution is the good news. The bad news is that it passed the House by a vote of 215 to 201.

A Good First Step

There are 96,000 employers (including 78,577 from the private sector) which now employ a record 2.2 million workers in Minnesota. The state's 4.6 unemployment rate is about two-thirds of the nation's 6.8 per cent rate. Unemployment insurance costs approximately $350,000 a day and is paid entirely by employers to provide income while a qualified unemployed worker seeks a new job. Last year 164,510 people drew weekly payments from the fund.

With this background, consider what William A. Hodder, chairman, president and chief executive officer of the Donaldson company, has to say about the unemployment compensation law passed by the 1987 legislature. He wrote the following about what he believes the new law means:

- The system will be opened up somewhat, allowing some lower-paid workers who are laid off to qualify for benefits for the first time;
- The calculation for determining the present $239 maximum weekly benefit amount, which about 25 per cent of the recipients receive, will be reduced from 66 2/3 per cent of the average state wage to 6 per cent providing the fund maintains a growing, healthy reserve;
- Workers who lose their jobs will find it somewhat more difficult to requalify for benefits the second time in a given year, but will not be penalized for earning part-time dollars while seeking full time work; they will now receive a $20 bridge payment for the first week of unemployment, not unlike other states;
- Employer paid taxes will be changed dramatically, reducing them for those who are lesser users of the fund and increasing them for those that are heavier users of the system; and,
- An employer-paid solvency surcharge will be applied if the unemployment fund falls below certain levels, with most additional dollars paid by those who lay off the most workers.

If the new law remains in effect for five years, benefits will be reduced from the present law, as will employer taxes. Three of every four firms can expect some tax burden reductions next January from the levels anticipated under the old law, assuming exactly the same "experience", while 15 per cent or so will begin to pay higher taxes. Also, a "solvency" surtax may be imposed in 1989 to build a buffer against dept to the federal government, which may change the impact somewhat. But when the new system is fully in place, about 59,000 Minnesota companies will have reductions, 11,800 will pay more and 7,900 will remain the same.

"Overall, the Perpich compromise represented a good first step," Hodder added. Borrowing from the federal government to maintain solvency, as employers have been forced to do through much of the last decade, will be far less likely in the future. Construction firms and others who regularly hire seasonal workers will gradually pay more but in a fair manner that is not out of line with surrounding states.

"Let us hope, too, that more productive working relationships between business and labor will result, allowing for future fine-tuning of the new system as it is put into place."

Keeping The Lead In

While the U.S. Environmental Protection agency has been dedicated to getting the lead out—of gasoline, that is—there are certain applications for leaded fuel that have been in question. A recent article in the Harvest States Journal offers at least a partial solution to the dilemma faced by some farmers. The article is as follows:

Farmers could turn to airports for the leaded gasoline needed to protect engines of their old equipment, the Associated Press reports.

"I don't think there's an airport that wouldn't have a bulk storage tank to supply farmers within a hundred-mile radius," Walter R. Haessner, executive director of the International Society for Vehicle Preservation, told a Washington Hearing by the Environmental Protection Agency and Agriulture Department on the effects of EPA-ordered lead reductions on farm equipment.

In April, they reported that the new, lower maximum lead concentration fully protects old farm engines from excessive valve seat wear and that low-revolutions-per-minute engines are OK on no-lead. But some other engines showed so much wear at high speeds and heavy loads on lead-free gasoline they couldn't complete the test.

Non-lead additives might help, the agency said, but it tested only two. One of those, Pennzoil Corp.'s "Powershield," offered full protection when used at four times the recommended concentration, through deposits built up in the cylinders.

Since cars that can use leaded gasoline represent a falling share of the fleet, the product is a declining business — 25 per cent of the market in April compared with 32 per cent last April.

Buying aviation gasoline at airports is legal, Haessner said. A motorist would have to arrange to pay highway fuel taxes, but those taxes would not apply to fuel purchased for on-farm use, he said.

No Pony Express?

It's probably a good thing there was no human rights commission around in early 1860 or the Pony Express probably would never have started its ill-fated 18-month existence and a colorful chapter in U.S. history would have never been written.

"Young skinny wiry fellows not over 18," stated classified ads in newspapers where Pony Express riders were being recruited. "Must be expert riders willing to risk death daily. Orphans preferred. Wages $25 per week."

There must be enough objectionable material in that small ad to keep the civil liberties union, equal rights commission, National Organization for Woman and county, state, district and federal courts busy for at least a decade. By that time the telegraph would have made the case arguments moot and everyone could take up a new cause.

If the ad was not enough, however, consider that the young men hired also had to sign a statement to promise not to use profane language, gamble or become drunk and to pledge they would do nothing that would be "incompatable with the conduct of a gentleman."

Had the Pony Express not been allowed to recruit as it did, the nation may even have been forever without doughnuts and coffee. A local legend in Missouri is that the sweetheart of a Pony Express rider invented the doughnut by putting a hole in small cakes so her boyfriend could hook them with his gun barrel as he rode past.

It was April 3, 1860, when the Pony Express made its first run from St. Joseph, MO, to Sacramento, CA. While the rider earned $25 a week—quite a significant sum in those days—it cost the sender $5 for each letter carried across the mountains. Yet the operation was never financially successful and the completion of transcontinental telegraph lines ended the enterprise.

And we also wonder, how many people would answer an ad today which offered $25 a week for a job in which death is risked daily?

Borrowed Nonsense:

Honest, folks, the following directive from the British admiralty was written and distributed in 1940: "It is necessary for technical reasons that these warheads should be stored upside down, that is, with the top at the bottom and the bottom at the top. In order that there may be no doubt as to which is the bottom and which is the top, for storage purposes, it will be seen that the bottom of each warhead has been labeled with the world 'TOP'." And the Allies still won the war!

Housewife: "You know you're having a good day when all four wheels of the shopping cart are willing to go in the same direction."

I'm sick and tired of your petty jealousy," the wife exploded at her husband. "You're so suspecious of everything I do and everyone I meet. Don't you think I know you've been having me followed by a detective who is tall, blonde, has green eyes and is actually very nice, although he was a little shy at first?"

Letter to the Editor

To The Editor:

BMX racing starts (weather permitting) on Monday, June 29, and we know there are many kids very excited about it. A couple of weeks ago we had a meeting to make plans and changes and there were five adults and two youths attending. Very disappointing.

For the past two years during the races there were all kinds of complaints, but when the opportunity comes to air them, no one shows. We then set a date to widen the track and clean up, and again just a handful showed up. Jack Nelson ran a Hydra Mac (donated by Hydra Mac) and did his very best, but the track was as hard as a rock. Jack has no children in BMX, but was more than willing to help.

Last night (June 25) we tried it again. Dale Olmstead from KKAQ donated his time and equipment, working the track with his Caterpillar. Curt Quesnell donated his pickup to haul the machinery. Neither one of these men have children in BMX.

So we guess what we are saying is starting on Monday let's show some support, and if you've never seen the races, come out, you'll see just how much fun the kids have.

I would also like to especially thank Jack Nelson, Dale Olmstead, KKAQ and Curt Quesnell, Leona, Lance, and Brian Bugge, Jamie Harder. Northwest Beverage, Pepsi, and The Times for all their support. It is very much appreciated, and won't be forgotten. Thanks!

Buckling Safety Belt Good Idea To Reduce Injury

With the return of the 65 miles per hour speed limit to sections of the rural interstate highway system, buckling up your safety belt is even more important then in the past, according to the Minnesota Safety council.

Motorists should realize that higher speeds increase the likelihood and severity of accidents. Traffic deaths were almost twice as high during the years before the 55 mph speed limit was enacted.

A driver crashing at 65 mph is twice as likely to be killed as one crashing at 55 mph. Lap and shoulder belts reduce moderate and fatal injuries by 57 per cent.

Drivers and occupants thrown out of the car after a collision or a roll-over are 25 times more likely to die than if they had been belted and remained in the vehicle.

If you have to take to the shoulder or a ditch to avoid a crash, your seat belt is your best friend. It will hold [illegible] emergency situation.

Children under four years of age must be seated in an approved child restraint seat. From four to 11 years of age, they must have their safety belts buckled. The driver of the car is responsible, and there is a $25 fine for those who don't comply.

Buckling up makes sense. Minnesota had the best traffic safety record in the nation last year, and the safety council urges Minnesota drivers to keep it that way.

IRS Suggests Look At Withholding Now At Mid-Year

With 1987 about half over, now is a good time to take another look at your W-4 or W-4A form and see if the right amount of tax is being withheld, according to C. D. Switzer, director of the Internal Revenue serivce (IRS) in Minnesota.

"If you filled out a new withholding form at the beginning of 1987, you should have roughly half of your 1987 tax bill paid by now," Switzer explained. "To see if you're still on target, I advise you to take look at the last pay stub you received in June.

A free four-page IRS booklet entitled "Is My Withholding Correct?" (Publication 919) makes this task much easier. Order a copy by calling the IRS toll-free at 1-800-424 FORM (3676) Monday through Friday between 7 a.m. and 5:30 p.m.

"If you filled out your W-4 or W-4A form--several weeks or several months after the year began, it's even more important that you give it another look now," Switzer added. "The chances are greater that you are having too little withheld from your paycheck. Also, with the year now further along, you may be able to estimate your total deductions, credits and outside income more accurately."

The publication features two handy worksheets plus the new 1987 tax rate tables which together will help you figure out whether you're having the right amount withheld. First, use the 13-line 1987 tax worksheet to estimate your total federal tax bill for the year. Then, fill out the six-line 1987 withholding worksheet to see if that amount will be covered by the federal income tax being taken out of your paychecks.

To take a simple example, let's say you work all year for the same employer, are paid monthly and receive about the same gross pay each month. The pay stub that comes with the check you receive in June shows that you had $250 of federal income tax taken out of this check and a total of $1,000 for the year so far. You estimate that your total tax at the end of the year will be $2,300. At the rate of $250 a month, you will have another $1,500 taken from your six remaining monthly paychecks for the year. Since you will pay in a total of $2,500 for the entire year, you expect to have a small refund ($200) when you file your 1987 income tax return. Since you expect to have enough paid in for the year, there's probably no reason to fill out another W-4 or W-4A form.

If your income varies widely from pay period to pay period, it's a good idea to check you withholding several times during the year. IRS tax specialists are available to answer questions on the W-4 form or other tax-related matters. Call 291-1422. If calling from outside the Twin Cities metro area, dial toll-free 1-800-424-1040.

Gus' Cave

Long ago and not so far away there was an old man who lived in a cave. Because the cave was beside a flowing river, and because his hair and his beard were very long, children called him "Moses".

"Moses'" name was really "Gus," and the time was only 50 or so years ago — in the 1930's.

The cave was not far away at all. It was right here in Thief River Falls. Gus lived on the east side of the Red Lake river not far from what is now the First Street bridge.

I first learned of Gus' cave from Mayor Bob Carlson, when we were talking about marking the location of the old saw mill for the "Follow the Rivers" project. He referred me to Al Christofferson who, he knew, had stopped in the cave regularly to visit Gus.

Al told me that he cave was dug into the bank, facing west toward the river. Gus had fashioned his home from cement and stones left in the old mill yard when the sawmill left town.

He used some old pillars to shore up the walls and had several feet of dirt for ceiling and roof. The cave had a dirt floor. It was always very dark in there, and it was easy for kids to scare themselves.

It was a two-room cave with an entrance and a living area in back. The entrance was a buffer for winter cold. Although it had a dirt floor, Gus kept it very neat. In those days apples came in wooden crates, as did oranges and even cranberries. Gus used these fruit boxes for furniture and cupboards — the orange crates had a middle partition just right for a shelf.

Gus lived in his cave year-round for five or six years.

A mysteriousness was added to the cave by smoke that would arise unexpectedly from the ground nearby. Old sawdust, piles many yards deep, was smoldering underground. The wind would fan it, and smoke would work its way up, or kids would dig around. The fire finally burned out when it got down to the level of water.

Al said that a lot of children were afraid of the man they called Moses because he looked strange. If someone teased him, he would become upset. But some kids got to know him and found him to be very kind. He was quite a religious man, and Al and his friends never made fun of him. They liked visiting their friend in his cave. They liked knowing a "cave man".

Gus was nervous. For instance, someone once hired him to carry firewood in to their kitchen stove. But startled, he dropped the armload of wood over the floor and became so upset they had to lead him out and try to console him.

Later Al saw him in the State Hospital at Fergus Falls, working in the kitchen.

After Gus left, his vacant cave remained for a while, a spooky place for town kids.

Today the river as well as bridge construction has erased any remnant of Gus' cave. But you can clearly see the outlines of the old millyard, which extended from the bridge to Nora Avenue and from the river to the tracks. And you can tell a huge building was once south of the First Street Bridge, for today tall trees stand where mowers cannot get through the chunks of cement and stones left from one of sawmill buildings.

Plans Continue For Development At Northland CC

Officials at Northland community college continue to plan for and develop a building construction program based on the $3.7 million appropriation granted by the legislature this spring, according to Dr. Allen Nichols, provost.

During the month of July an architect will be selected through the designer selection board, an agency of the State of Minnesota. Several representatives of architectural firms have visited Northland, scrutinizing the upcoming project, Dr. Nichols said.

Part of the current planning is to expand the gymnasium seating to 2,000 seats; to construct a child care facility; to create a music education area; to expand the cafeteria facilities and to develop an interactive television classroom.

Tentative schedule for the building process includes six months to design the facility and three to six months to complete the bidding process. May of 1988 through June of 1989 should be the construction phase with occupancy in September of 1989.

Central American Flour Millers To Visit This Area

A four-member team of Central American flour millers and purchasing officials will be the guests of the Minnesota Wheat Research and Promotion council during a visit to Minnesota on July 15-16.

According to Don Loeslie, member of the Minnesota Wheat council, these flour millers represent the countries of Costa Rica, Guatemala, Honduras and El Salvador. "These Central American countries make up a significant market for our hard red spring wheat," Loeslie said, "with the United States supplying nearly 100 per cent of all wheat imported to the region. In fact, wheat imports by these four countries in 1986 totalled 10.5 million bushels of which an average of 60 per cent was hard red spring wheat."

Even though the U.S. holds a major market share in the Central American region, Loeslie stressed the need to continue market development efforts in order to combat Canadian interests that nearly made serious inroads into this market in 1985, particularly in Guatemala.

"By familiarizing a larger number of buyers as to the quality of wheat Minnesota has to offer, and also by providing an explanation of the intricacies of the U.S. wheat marketing system, the U.S. can maintain its position as the primary supplier in the Central American region," Loeslie concluded.

First-Time Home Buyers Can Get Special Mortgage

Minnesota Housing Finance agency is offering first-time home buyers an opportunity to purchase their first home through a below market interest rate home mortgage. The agency is offering 8.70 per cent (annual percentage rate of 9.2283 per cent) financing exclusively to first-time home buyers.

To qualify, persons must:

(1) Be a first-time home buyer;

(2) Have a signed purchase agreement for the home at the time application is made;

(3) Be an acceptable credit risk;

(4) Occupy the home as principal residence within 60 days of mortgage closing;

(5) Provide copies of federal income tax returns for each of the past three years prior to the mortgage loan committment.

In this area of the state, maximum adjusted income limits are $26,000 per year if purchasing a new home or $21,000 if purchasing an existing home. Adjusted income is typically actual gross income less $1,000 for each person who will be living in the home. The maximum price that may be paid for a home is $63,000 for a new house or $50,000 for an existing house.

According to MHFA, unsured and uninsured conventional loans, VA and FHA loans are available. Minimum down payments range from zero with a VA loan to five per cent with an insured conventional loan. Home sellers must pay two discount points at the closing of a loan on an existing home on two and one-half points on a new home.

Homes to be purchased may be new or existing single-family residences including townhouses, condominiums and existing duplexes. Homes must be fully completed and in good repair and meet commonly accepted mortgage underwriting requirements.

Home Ownership Assistance fund also offers extra help for first time home buyers where MHFA's lower interest rate isn't quite enough to make home ownership possible. HAF may provide montly payment assistance and down payment assistance in the form of an interest free second mortgage loan.

To be eligible for such additional assistance, adjusted income in this area may not exceed $17,000. The monthly assistance program lowers monthly payments in early years of the loan and provides for gradual payment increases over a predetermine time period. Assistance levels are between $20 and 100 per month depending upon income. Down payment assistance can range up to $1,500.

65 Speed Limit Applies To Only Rural Interstate

Motorists should remeber that 55 miles per hour is still the speed limit on most Minnesota highways and there is a good reason for it, according to the Minnesota Safety council.

Almost four of every five fatal crashes happen on trunk highways and county state aid highways, most of these in rural areas. These roadways also account for three of every five personal injury crashes. Speed monitoring reports indicate that two of every three drivers on these roadways was driving faster than 55 mph.

The safety council is concerned that the habit of driving 65 mph on the rural interstate system will spill over to these more dangerous roadways, and they urge drivers to observe the 55 mph limit for their own protection.

The higher speed limit only applies to 700 miles of the rural interstate system. Interstates 35, 90 and 94 are the only highways where the 65 mph limit applies. The portions of these highways in the Twin Cities and other metro areas remain at 55 mph and will be posted.

On two-lane, undivided roads, higher speeds substantially increase accident risk, especially at night, at sharp turns and when passing. Illegal and unsafe speeds are recorded as the major accident cause.

The approximate stopping distance at 55 mph is 200 feet, 100 feet less than stopping from the speed of 65 mph and provides an important margin for safety. Drivers are urges to drive according to road and weather conditions, to pass with care and to reduce speed at night.

According to the Minnesota Safety council, observing posted speed limits and buckling your saftety belt make a good start for safe driving.
